I know.. It's like we're tossing pebbles of on-topic into an ocean of off-topic murky waters.

It makes you wonder how and why anyone would ever really want to talk in terms of a "mandate."  I guess most people in the US have gotten used to the idea of some other bunch of people coopting their approval without that ever really being the case.  To me mandates aren't just nearly impossible to achieve, they'd be so narrow as to be nearly meaningless if you did get one. If by some stretch of the imagination we were willing to assume that Bush got a "mandate," what would the mandate be?  not to look French?  not to be in favor of gay marriage?   If that's so, how can he think he has political capital to spend on tax reform or social security or anything else?

I didn't know anything about RadioMart at the time. I wonder if that info can still be found somehow.

Islam has about ran its course in many areas of the world. At least, this hyper-fanaticism style of it. They're gradually pissing off more and more countries and adding to the list of enemies. Quite a stupid practice.

But the original Star Trek was pitched to the executives as "Wagon Train to the Stars", although a major part of the inspiration seems to have been Capt. James Cook's expeditions to the south Pacific.

Anybody else have problems with RA's new web site?
Konqueror under Redhat 7.3 doesn't like the way it's laid out and chops off huge chunks of various dropdown menus.
(Oh well, I three or four other browsers to try out).

Check the groups.google.com archive in the comp.arch.embedded newsgroup about that. The guys there often get stuck with interfacing to legacy systems. I remember threads there comparing various USB-Serial converters.

Finally something goes right on the AM band.

1. Worthless, stupid spanish is dropped.
2. Michael Savage is now being carried.
3. Even more worthless than stupid spanish, IBOC seems to have been turned off!!!

You're right, that was briefly mentioned when this started, though it quieted down quickly so I wasn't sure if it counted as the rhetoric level was not at the normal level.

Anyway, his death has been upgraded to alive but deteriorating dramatically, at least on AP news - I think I like Rueters better.

Frankly, I wonder how anyone in their right mind can attribute anything other than utter criminality to George Bush.
Mandate? Don't make me laugh.
Daily I dodge his thieving fingers and I scoff at his future vision for me.
Alone in a room, I would do what I could to take him down, as the thug he is.
I never gave him nor any other human the authority to tell me anything at all.
Politicians are little more than assumptions. Assumptions by fools meant to be led.
When I see someone, anyone, laud any politician I chuckle openly for I am witnessing a person that has lost touch with his individuality, rendered over to a mob mentality. Then I frown, that another human has lost his way.

But there is hope, as leviathan stumbles..........

The ARRL lists multicomm2000 as a Radio Dealer.

He also seemed to have this website going:
http://rcynot.webstoreclub.com/

but this is what it brings up:
"Sorry, rcynot has been deactivated ."

********
They had a "store" on ebay under the name "multimart2k"

From a cache of his "store" on ebay via google.com

"Multi-Mart 2k    Seller, manage Store
 Maintained by multicomm( 12)

A google newsgroup search shows that RadioMart used MultiComm2000 back in 2000 and is the very same person and was frauding people back then too.

I guess his scam/fraud routine at least goes back to 1997.

a newsgroup postings regarding his fraud back in 2000:

BP,

We are (The USofA is) a Constitutional Republic {a Federation of States} that holds Democratic Elections for most Public Offices
'except' for the Office of the US President and a few others.

The US President is 'elected' through the Electoral College System.  A Process that gives "Weight" to 'smaller' States to provide them some protection from the Larger States.
{The "Oppression" of the Masses.

YES - It is True that the US House of Representatives and US Senate are both 'directly' Elected by Voters (American Citizens).

However, the US Supreme Court is Appointed by the US President with the Approval of the US Senate.

THE BOTTOM LINE - The US Presidential Election 2004 Results:
*  President George "W" Bush "Wins" with 286 Electoral Votes.
*  Senator John 'ff' Kerry got 'only' 252 Electoral Votes and lost.

You liberals do love to lie, don't you? Your screed didn't say the Hillary thing was a lie, it only suggests that there's no proof that she was involved.

Are these the same 'visual' people who have trouble speaking because they try to see the phonemes for each syllable?

Propagation on MW was so bad Sunday night / Monday morning that I couldn't find a station that carried Coast To Coast (other than WLS, which is really close). Seriously, the band was dead, dead, dead.

If you have a receiver with a 12KHz IF, all you need to do is feed this into your sound card and Dream software (available for free) will decode the DRM program. Give it a try before you invest into it, to see if you like it. I would not invest a lot into it at this time, but I believe it is the direction SW is going.

The sound quality of DRM is much better than standard shortwave. Its biggest downfall is that it needs a lot of signal or you will get drop outs (total loss of signal). Drop outs are very annoying and a lot harder to take than standard fading on short wave. Music comes across very nice via DRM, unfortunately there isn't much music available on short wave.

I get solid copy most of the time from Bonaire, Netherlands Antilles and Sackville, NB Canada. I have not picked up anything from Europe.

Like I said, give it a try and see how you like it.

A few months ago I was thinking about investing in a new receiver. I noticed that Lentini had the 7030+ still listed on their website, so I called them to see if they actually had it in stock. The guy I talked to told me that they'd order it for me from AOR USA and that it would be shipped to me directly from their facility in California. This didn't make sense to me, as I knew that AOR USA had long ago ceased to carry the 7030+, and a call to AOR USA confirmed this. I then contacted Lentini and told them about that I'd been given incorrect info and that their website was out-of-date. This was many months ago, but the same old data is still on their site. It would only take about two minutes to correct it.

Oh well. Even more irritating to me than an out-of-date website is the fact that the 7030+ isn't available anymore in the States.

Steve

He may be all that, to you.
But to me, and other thinking people, all politicians are just minor irritants along the pathway of success.

I've got a Ten*Tec RX-320 abd can have it converted for U$60 and buy the software for another U$60 (last year anyway).

So, U$120 to play with a few stations.

Most commercial and national shortwave broadcasters are much more interested in reaching an audience of ten of thousands (more or less) rather than 23 listeners.

So - for most folks - there would be the necessity of buying a new shortwave radio but for what?

And - going from the experience of a domestic broadcasting in Single-Side Ban - which went over like sumthin or anudder - no one (with the exception, of course, of bleeding edge pre-early adapters) - is going to rush to go with DRM.

The above is solely my opinion and I haven't paid any attention to DRM since the first few months after it was introduced. (I'm not overly excited, as you prolly tell [grin].)

Do any of you guys run your radio equipment on battery power? I was just considering this approach as an alternative to the noisy house mains. Would like something I could use permantly inside that can be recharged from house current. Does anyone have any suggestions? Is this a feasible idea?

Too bad.

The 7030+ is a nice radio.  The worst thing I can say about it is the stock filters were too wide or too narrow for my tastes.

You can still import one from England.

Ah, but the resemblance was distant.

The one which has always amused me is "Bonanza" and "Bonanza in Outer Space" ["Battlestar Galactica"].

I've never been convinced that they didn't just re-use old "Bonanza" scripts and pencil-correct things such as "Ranch" to "Space Ship" and Little Joe to whatshisface.

And, then, of course, featuring Robbie the Robot as in like Bill's "Tempest".

I don't know what the current drain is on your R75, but a few people have mentioned running Drake R8's on car batteries.  They charge them with trickle chargers.

My "portable" 7030+ system has two pairs of NIMH battery packs designed for RC cars.  They give me about 9 hours of listening on a charge.   But the 7030 draws very little power for a tabletop.

One advantage of a battery system is you'll be ready to listen during power failures - when the noise level is extra low because nobody in the neighborhood is using gizmos that generate RFI.

Why would anyone believe that?

That was Cheney.

Go ahead: find one tiny piece of actual evidence that'd point to anyone else.

See "PNAC", "Operation Northwoods" ...

See "motive, means, and opportunity" ...

There is nothing to which the Bush/Cheney mob won't stoop to keep pillaging the USA.

Notice that the bushkultie's too busy whining and namecalling and throwing a typical tantrum to consider the facts.

If you want to do that sort of thing get a 'deep cycle' battery, rather than just an ordinary car battery.

For several years there have been annoying carriers on the SW bands at my location - one of which was parked on top of WWV 10MHz. I recently decided to track down some various RFI noise and discovered that my home intercom system was the culprit. The one I have includes an AM/FM receiver and I think it's the FM section putting out a carrier on or about 10MHz.

Hope this helps someone with similar troubles.

You may find that too much of an external antenna will overload the receiver's front end, causing images all across the SW bands. Some portables are notorious for this, though I'm not familar with the 800A.

Perhaps try with a long wire first, before doing all the work required to install a T2FD.

That's exactly right.

I run my R-75 on deep cycle batteries during DXpeditions. It works just fine, and provides, many, many hours of operation.

I recommend using a battery box to contain whatever battery you choose. It's not worth the risk of a ruined floor or carpet!

If your house mains are noisy, are you positive that the noise is entering through the AC line cord? It's very likely you're picking it up direct via the antenna. If so, a battery won't help the noise coming in through an antenna.

Yeah, I get zero noise when the mains are shut off. How have you connected your receiver to the battery, is there some kind of converter for this?

This is totaly my opinion:

Shortwave broadcasting is used for two things.

1. To reach an audience outside of one's country to for propaganda, cultural or relegious purposes.

2. To spread news, etc inside a country where there are large areas with poor communication, e.g. Northern Canada, India, Russia, China.

DRM is a way of providing high (sound) quality programing using existing shortwave transmission facilites. It is not compatible with older recivers and therefore requires the listener put up money to hear it.

In some places it will take off. For example, I assume that shortwave broadcasting in remote parts of Canada has been replaced by the internet where possible. Where there is no internet access, DRM will move in to fill the niche.

In other places such as India or Africa, where the population is poor and can't afford batteries yet alone radios, good old fasishioned AM will remain for many years.

Relegious brodcasters already use shortwave, satelitte tv and the internet, some will add DRM as way of reaching a larger "flock".

The only reason I see DRM taking off in poorer countries is because being digital it can be encrypted. For example, a someone could produce DRM radios that only play signals encrypted with a certain key.

How about that for VOA or Radio Moscow only radios?

Geoff.

Over the last few days stations have slowly faded away with lots of flutter and increasing static like noise almost like if someone were running a motor non-stop. I am aware of the solar storm going on but is the static like noise normal with this kind of conditions?

No converter required, just an appropriate connector.  Not sure of the size as I was feeling like truly stimulating the economy and ordered the Icom 12V cable with connector.   Hook it directly to the batter and you're set.   dxAce is right about the deep cycle battery, they are designed for use under load and being drained half-way or so on a regular basis, a series 24 (typically around 80 amp hour rating) would be sufficient and give 40+ hours of radio time before you'd need to consider recharging the battery.  Another option is to get a trickle charger and just leave it on - except when using the radio as it would be a noise source.

Yes, up to a point.  If a seller has accumulated several negatives in the past 60 days, I'm more concerned that enough people have had a bad experience than I am with the particulars.  Besides there is one certainty on Ebay...there will always be another of that same item.

Can the lead in wire connect to the wire antenna in the middle or does it have to be on the end. This is a receiving antenna.

Maybe true, maybe not.
But one must remember that the "left" demanded CHANGE after the 2000 mess in FL.
I dislike all "paperless" transactions, be they fianancial or election.

But the US public demands instant results. And no paper ballat system can ever be fast enough. I remember watching election night as some young woman, identified by a lower third proclaiming her to be a Demonrat, nearly screamed that "this delay is not acceptable". She went on to say; "Surely in the 21st century, in the most advanced(sic) country on this planet, we can do better". Better in this case clearly meant faster.

I was concerned about the BIG difference in the outcome and the projections based on exit polling. But whem several news sources mentioned that Demonrats were much more likely to respond then the evil Republicans, and that state laws keeping all 3rd party types (pollers, boosters etc) further away from polling places then in 2000, the difference made sense. Not saying that this or any election is fair. A friend I worked with told us stories about how his father had been a city employee in Lousyville KY and had for years spent election day going from precinct to precinct voting in the name of people who had recently died. I have no proof that he was not telling tale tales, but the tone of the conversation lead me to accept what he said as being true. In his case it was the Demonrats that controlled the election. In 1996, it is generaly accepted that Paul Patton stole the election with his overwealming win in Jeffereson County KY. Lousyville is it's county seat. After a grand jurry handed down indictments against several top Demonrat party officials, and at least one union offical, one indicted lady killed herself. The feds have really been heavy into election fraud in KY and I suspect that she either knew she was going to jail, or someone decided that she would plea bargin and shut her up. The Demonrats used to hand out "walking" money like Saint Nick hading out candy to kids, the difference being it was a very thinly disguised way to buy votes. The feds put and end to that.

I am reminded of the big stink in Cook county IL after Nixon lost that election election. It has been too many years, and I was only 9, but several of the major news magazines ran articles on how the dead voted and pusehed the county for a Demonrat win.

I am not defending any election fraud and would like to see any and all such actions raised to the level of treason with manditory death for any and everyone who particpates. And I would go so far as to modify the US constitution to mandate "truth serum" to be used in all such cases. If it were up to me it would extend down to people stealing or defacing poltical signs on other peoples property.

It might not bring the US any closer togather in political terms, but it would damn sure raise the stakes of the all too typical poliitical "dirty tricks". Like the 6 or 7 vans rented by the Republicans to transport people to vote that had the tires sliced, apparently by the son a Demonrat FL politico. Or the local idiots here in Lexington who stole Bush and Kerry signs. Or the fool in Ohio who was paid with crack to gather voter registrations, and who was so lame as to use fairy tale names. Or the principal at a special ed school who bribed his students to vote with ice cream.

And if for no other reasn then I don't trust any electronic system to be tamper proof, I for one hate them and up until 2000 voted by absentee ballot. But KY changed the rules and made most people who had used paper ballots use a special, reserved voting machine. I was told the paper ballots where just "too hard to handle." I argued "no, not too hard to handle, but to hard to falsify". I pissed the election board off big time. And at that time KY was completly controlled by the Demonrats. (both houses and the Gov where Demonrats and did pretty much as they pleased)

I guess we are seeing Darwin in action. Before the party with better access to the registration process had the advantage. But now the smartest party, or the party able to buy the smartest talent will use technology to effect elections. Maybe the right has better (ormore corrupt) programers then the left. Or maybe this election was as fair as any US election has ever been.

Terry

There used to be some HF beacon a the high end of the 10Mtr ham band.
But I have no idea if ay are still active.
Do a google search for something like +satellite +beacons +ham
I bet you will find something interesting.

I'm not particularly religious, although I enjoy playing the devil's advocate with anti-religious bigots.  Why is it that you get to have your "religion" preached in schools but others do not?

That's fine--you're entitled to your own brand of religion and belief system.  It's just too bad you have to denigrate the belief systems of others in order to feel superior.

Man Overboard Software is pleased to offer a no-compromises control program for the Icom IC-PCR1000 computer-controlled communications receiver. MacR-1000 manages frequency lists, supports band searches (with lockouts), CTCSS tone searches, and frequency-list scans. Frequency lists can be imported from tab-separated text, CSV files, and .dbf files; export to tab-separated text and CSV.

Saving of frequency lists is disabled until a registration code is purchased for $21.95.

MacR-1000 requires a serial port and Mac OS X version 10.3 or later.

Visit <http://software.manoverboard.org/> for more details, including the complete user manual.

Go for the deep cycle marine battery. I have been using hem since the late 1980's on DX'peditions.
Yes a battery box is a good idea..I use one all the time.
A trickle charger works well but of late I have been using a small solar panel to keep the battery up to full power. It is attached all the time.
My Drake R8 and ICOM ICR-70 both run well off the battery as do some accesaries such as my Quatum loop and my MFJ phaser. This year I purchased a MFJ 12 volt power bar with 8 sets of jacks. I could run up to 8 things at once but as of now just the 4 listed above with no problem at all.

How are the intercom stations connected?  There's the obvious wire, but at lest some use signals in the hundreds of KHz range.  The signal is impressed on the house wiring, and while much of the signal will be limited to the AC line, obviously some of the weak signal can radiate.

People that choose security over freedom deserve neither.
Is that yoke tight enough yet?

Sorry, forgot to mention this is a wired intercom, built in the walls of the house. Not like the kind that plug in a run over the AC lines.

Nor are you capable, it seems.
Or, in your own words, "You haven't the foggiest idea!"
You're only qualified to follow.
Need a snugger yoke?
Come on back with another emotional kneejerk response.

It's been demonstrated beyond all reasonable doubt that a small group of chupacabra caused that power outage. For details, consult the archives of the Art Bell program.

Hi all. As I've posted previously, I live in a large dorm/apartment building. I'm stuck here with my wife for the next three years or so. Anyway, I have a Grundig YB-400PE. Recently I got the Sony AN-LP1 active antenna, which has seemed to help a bit, but often times stations are still unlistenable because of the large amount of RF noise in the building. If I take the Grundig outside more than about 3 yards from the building, I get crystal clear reception and stations from all over the place.

With winter coming, going outside isn't a great option. (I'm in Wisconsin...brrrr...). Any suggestions on how I can reduce the effects of RF noise? I have the radio and antenna in a window, and it is still very noise-laden, especially on SW. AM is a little better, but not much. FM seems ok...but I don't listen to much FM on this radio anyway.

Thanks in advance.

[The following seemed not to propagate out of my home ISP. Sorry if, in obedience to the Demo Gods, the original shows up and makes this a duplicate.]

Man Overboard Software is pleased to offer a no-compromises control program for the Icom IC-PCR1000 computer-controlled communications receiver. MacR-1000 manages frequency lists, supports band searches (with lockouts), CTCSS tone searches, and frequency-list scans.
Frequency lists can be imported from tab-separated text, CSV files, and
.dbf files; export to tab-separated text and CSV.

Saving of frequency lists is disabled until a registration code is purchased for $21.95.

MacR-1000 requires a serial port and Mac OS X version 10.3 or later.

Visit <http://software.manoverboard.org/> for more details, including the complete user manual.

 SW reception is fairly non-existent this morn in Sactown as well. MW reception was fairly decent, though. Listened to San Diego's Mighty 1090, Sports XPRS, for Westwood 1's Monday Night Football coverage, as KNBR was airing Warriors-Mavs contest. Locked in like a local.

Yeah, sw has been pretty dead here also, even wbcq was barely audible, though I'd prefer to listen to nothing for the most part. This morning though, mw reception was great for some reason. The whole band was alive, which is really unusual here during the day. WAYR 590, or something along those lines, in Jacksonville, Fla. sounded like a local, among others I fail to recall to memory.

I would never denegrate anyone's faith, even those diametrically opposed to my own..  Personal belief systems should be the domain solely of parents and other family, coupled with whatever clergy apply for that faith. The government nor the school system should enter into it (unless of course the person is a student of a faith based private school).

However, science is not a religion, nor is it a faith of any kind.  It's based upon a sequence of repeatable trials wherein something is first a hypothesis (formulted idea), then a theory (because it has yet to be proven) and then law (once it has been proven).  Religions are based solely upon faith, or belief, in something that cannot be proven (this is not necessarily a bad thing).

As for evolution being taught in the schools as fact, I do not believe this should be done in the primary (K-8) or secondary (9-12) school systems.  It is a theory only, and has yet to be scientifically proven.  It is fine, however, to teach it AS a theory in institutes of higher learning as one possible way in which the life on our planet came to be in it's current state of being.

History and the Reality of the Presidential Election of 2004.

President George "W" Bush's MANDATE is Clear and
WE the American People (Citizen Voters) have Spoken [.]

Strike One.
A 'mandate' is when you get 50%+ of the Vote;
- Which Bill Clinton NEVER Did [.]

Strike Two.

A 'mandate' is when you carry new members of the US House into Office:
- Which Bill Clinton NEVER Did [.]

Strike Three.
A 'mandate' is when you carry new members of the US Senate into Office:
- Which Bill Clinton NEVER Did [.]

That's Three Strikes for a "MANDATE"

- President George W. Bush.

Per John (The Mouth Piece) Edwards:
Every Vote Should Count !
Every Vote Should Be Counted [.]

WE "The {American Citizens} People" Have Spoken:
* President George "W" Bush received the Majority of the Popular Votes.
* President George "W" Bush received the Highest Number of the Popular Votes in the History of US Presidential Elections.

The Bottom Line:
* President George "W" Bush "Wins" with 286 Electoral Votes.
* Senator John 'ff' Kerry got 'only' 252 Electoral Votes and lost.

Be careful here. many (most?) marine batteries are the victims of fraudulent advertising. They are not deep cycle.

It's like the 17 inch monitor with the 15.1 inch view area, or the Sears 5 horsepower electric motor that runs on 12 amps 120 volts.

Connecting the lead in wire to the middle of the antenna creates a dipole antenna which is very good for transmitting - and I suspect, equally good for receiving.   However, lots of folks use what is called a long wire antenna and they, so far as I know, all connect at the end.  So, I think you will get improved reception with either one.  Perhaps someone else will clarify this somewhat.  You didn't state what radio you'll be using it with.  Some cheaper receivers have a tendency to overload fairly easily with good external antennas.

There are antennas which use multiple length radials (i.e. the discone (? one or two s's)) to give improved reception on multiple frequencies.
  I suspect the DX sloper works very similarly.  Therefore, I suspect you could place it well off center to give improved reception on the low end and the high end of a frequency range.  You'd need to consult a formula to determine the optimum length wire for a given frequency.

>Why is it that you get to have >> your "religion" preached in schools but others do not?

Science is not a religion. Sure, some people are overly enthusiastic about it and misuse, misquote and misinterpret 'science' so often that it would seem like a religion to others. But make no mistake about it. True science is not just another belief system. Algebra, geometry, calculus, physics, biology, chemistry, are all sciences. Just playing a game of basketball or tennis or any other sport involves the use and/or exhibition of scientific principles concerning physics, geometry, ballistics, etc. It HAS to work every time, or we wouldn't be able to walk on the ground.

Unless we shouldn't be teaching gravity.

Also, any number of religions are indeed preached and promulgated in thousands of schools in the U.S., the majority being of the Judeo-Christian belief system(s), as disparate as they can often be with each other. It is 'mostly' kept out of public schools because once people's taxes get involved, you have to be as fair and even-handed as possible, so that no one is excluded SIMPLY because of their religion.

It's best to leave worship and spiritual education in the hands of parents and clergy anyway... We've seen what the public school system has done to basic language and math skills, and I CERTAINLY don't want public schools to be trying to negotiate the tricky waters of teaching ANY religion.

But as a local redneck here in SW MO once told me, regarding my question to him about the poor English skills of modern high school students in this area, "It was good enough fer Jesus, it oughta be good enough fer any kid in any school!".

He was quite serious.

To bring this around to being remotely on topic, if you listen to just about every American SW program dealing with religion, you'll find all kinds of stupifyingly absurd notions of religious belief... and who's to say that if public schools were allowed to preach, they wouldn't preach some similarly twisted version of any given religion, whether YOU wanted them to or not. You'd still be paying for it. Not too fair.

So let religion be in the private schools, keep the public schools as neutral as possible.
And don't be so quick to dismiss science as just another belief system. You wouldn't have any shortwave radio without it... among just about everything else we need, use and enjoy. There's nothing wrong with measuring known quantities, investigating unknown ones, interpreting data and questioning outcomes or balancing a set of given hypotheses. The Bible doesn't condemn the use of science, overtly or implicitly. Science helps us understand, more properly use and live with, the world around us.

Terry is talking about the RS12 satellite that had a cw beacon somewhere around 29400 or so. The beacon was associated with a 15m/10m repeater. It believe it was 15m up, 10m down. I haven't worked the repeater in over 10 years and am not sure if it is still in orbit.

Some looking around seems to show that RS12 isn't available. RS15 is available with these stats:

*********************************************************
Radio Sport -15 (RS-15)
Uplink 145.858 to 145.898 MHz CW/USB
Downlink 29.354 to 29.394 MHz CW/USB
Beacon 29.352 MHz
Launched 26 December, 1994

Status:  Semi-operational
RS-15's beacon is occasionally heard and may be quite strong at times. At times the beacon is just a continuous carrier lasting up to 30 seconds, at other times it seems to be sending CW. There have been a few reports of hearing CW through the passband and Al N7EQF has reported having a CW QSO.
*********************************************************

An also AO-7 has a 10m beacon. Here are some stats on it:

AMSAT OSCAR 7   (AO-7)
Mode B Uplink 432.125 to 432.175 MHz CW/LSB
Mode B Downlink 145.925 to 145.975 MHz CW/USB (inverting)
Mode B Beacon 145.9775 MHz (CW telemetry)
Mode A Uplink 145.850 to 145.950 MHz CW/USB
Mode A Downlink 29.40 - 29.50 MHz CW/USB (non-inverting)
Mode A Beacon 29.502 MHz (CW telemetry)
Launched 15 November 1974

Status:  Semi-operational
AO-7 became non-operational in mid 1981 due to battery failure .  In 2002 one of the shorted batteries became an open and now the spacecraft is able to run off solar panels. For this reason it is not usuable in eclipse and may not be able to supply enough power to the transmitter to keep from frequency modulating the signal. Lately AO-7 has favored Mode B almost exclusively.

Poisoning has been officially ruled out, although apparently the rumors and suspicions are flying hot and heavy among Palestinians and Arabs.

On the BBC earlier I heard a Arafat spokesman putting all responsibility for Arafat's illness and condition on Israel, insisting it was their confinment of Arafat to his compound for the past several years and denying him ready access to proper medical care that caused all this.

I expect Israel to disagree...

Latest newsreports I've heard are that his brain, heart, and lungs are still functioning.  Given how much wiggle room that leaves (ie, what about his other organs, by 'brain' do they mean the whole organ or just the brainstem, are they functioning on their own or with mechanical assistance, etc, etc), I don't have high expectations...

TE & DAVID,

Hard Sciences like Mathematics, Chemistry and Physics; may indeed rule.

But TECHNO-BABLE so called "Scientific Theories" like the 'Theory of Evolution' are in-fact simply 'science-ologies'.
[ Speculation and Un-Proven Science ]

Why not open-up the Class Room to Alternate Theories and thereby 'create' a "Knowledgeable Discussion" of Diverse Ideas.

Unfortunately the answer is "Yes". I don't know about the rest of you, but I've had it up to here with the ionosphere!

I think he's talking about the 803a, aka the Realistic DX-440.
It's a good radio in it's day in the bang for the buck category, and my DX-440 still does a good job when hooked up to the outside antenna.  The variable SSB on it makes it good for ham and other SSB listening.  It was outclassed by the Sony 2010 mainly because of the lack of a sync, but that's simply my opinion.

Kerry supporters seek therapy in South Florida

More than a dozen traumatized John Kerry supporters have sought and received therapy from a licensed Florida psychologist since their candidate lost to President Bush, the Boca Raton News learned Monday.
Boca Raton trauma specialist Douglas Schooler said he has treated 15 clients and friends with “intense hypnotherapy” since the Democratic nominee conceded last Wednesday.
“I had one friend tell me he’s never been so depressed and angry in his life,” Schooler said. “I observed patients threatening to leave the country or staring listlessly into space. They were emotionally paralyzed, shocked and devastated.”

Me too.
And on Saturday conditions were so good.
Just the calm before the storm, I guess.

I think the new layout is clunky and slow but it seems to work OK.

I was catching similar results last night at around the same time from Ventura, Ca.  Radio Cultural Coatan was armchair copy, Radio Verdad was putting in a very good signal, and I was catching some fair audio from Voice of Guyana on 3291.1 (I usually can zero beat a carrier, and sometimes get some very weak audio).  Unfortunately, I had to rush out to attend a meeting, so I didn't have time to log, etc.  But what I was hearing was FAR better than normal for these bands!

Drake R8B, 50 foot random wire phased with an Alpha Delta dx-swl sloper through an MFJ 1026.

The BBC still has football every Saturday afternoon. There is usually a second-half commentary on air from about 1610 UTC. Coverage of live scores etc starts at 1500 UTC.

I am using the Drake r8B. I connected it to the radio. It seems to work pretty good. Radio Havana Cuba is coming in 20 decibels. Although I am not getting much on 75 meters. Maybe just quiet tonight.

It's based upon a sequence of repeatable trials wherein something is first a hypothesis (formulted idea), then a theory (because it has yet to be proven) and then law (once it has been proven). Religions are based solely upon faith, or belief, in something that cannot be proven (this is not necessarily a bad thing).

I hate to nitpick but ...

- scientific laws describe things (they are regularities), they do not explain them (i.e. a law is not a theory that has been proven)
- a hypothesis is merely a testable statement (normally deduced from some theory -- see below), also not explanatory. A testable statement is called a hypothesis when it is the subject of scientific testing.
- theories, OTOH, are explanations of observable phenomenom. Meaningful theories include testable statements -- a testable statement is called a hypothesis when it is the subject of scientific testing.
- theories are never proved correct, they are confirmed (by facts that are consistent with its testable statements). At some point when there is an abundance of confirmation for a theory, combined with the opinion of scientists, that theory becomes an "accepted" theory (not a "proven" one). Accepted theories may later be rejected upon discovery of counter-examples (facts contradicting the testable statements). Herein lies a hallmark difference between Science and dogma: (scientific) theories are accepted provisionally.

Both shows were equally good to watch; though I liked Wagon Train more-so when Ward Bond was the wagon master.

I'll bite.  What theory besides the theory of evolution explains the facts of evolution?

The fact that this story is attributed to Paul Harvey is the best clue that it's horseshit.

I'm just north of you in Daytona Beach, can hear the same station at 2100 Local but weak.   Don't know if its in Orlando or not but down on 1020KHz been receiving strong non-english station and what sounds like a timesignal station. Normally on 1020 KHz I can receive KDKA out of Pittsburgh but tonight they're totally wiped out.  With the solar flares its really got some interesting things happening.

For MW I'm using a JRC NRD535, 150' longwire.

An indoor 1 meter diameter shortwave loop perhaps?  Supposed to be good at reducing the type of noise you are experiencing and it is bi-directional so you can null out and/or peak signals..  Lots of DIY loop projects on the net - yahoo has a group dedicated to loop building.

Would be a good winter project.

From what has been said over the years, the best battery is (actually are iirc they are 6v) the golf cart batteries.

The suggestion made when we were discussing this was go out to 2 or 3 golf courses and see exactly what brand/type they're using.

Also, I wonder if it wouldn't be worthwhile to buy a couple of them ($20 or so) and see how long they'll last. Just because they won't do a great job of onercoming inertia doesn't mean that they can't do an excellent job of pushing (comparatively speaking) electrons into radio gear.

Solar should recharge just fine. The brand name I've seen rated best is "Kyocera". A guy here has done a /lot/ of comparisons but he stopped cold after getting his first Kyocera because he didn't see any reason to keep looking.

Yep.. Star Trek sure broke a lot of social ground on TV.  They had women in positions of  importance, they had minorities in positions of importance, they had a Russian guy on during the cold war, the first interracial kiss ever seen on TV and so on...

I would scrap the wired intercom and get one of those new 5.8GHz cordless phone systems with multiple handsets.  With some of those new sets you can page individual handsets from any other handset or a system wide intercom page.  I use the AT&T 5840 base with 4 additional 5800 handsets and it works like a charm.

You, as bushfilth, support destroying the environment and throwing away

That means you're not allowed to mention conservativism. All you're permitted

Real Americans want honest elections.

You're not expected to understand that, either.

That's because you're too stupefied to realize that anyone who actually voted for Bush did so out of irrational hysteria or mistaken greed.

Were you more attentive, you'd know that's not necessary.

It's quite obvious that you can't begin to confirm that the election was fair.

Bush didn't win - he cheated.  No surprise there, for those who are aware.

I'm almost certain you are hearing a "harmonic" of the Canadian time station, CHU.  I don't recall it's exact frequency off the top of my head, but it's roughly close to 3 times 1020.  Odd stuff happens in radio, sometimes, most especially in shortwave radio.

I believe the point was that if the FCC won't do a damn thing about swearing and obscenities interfering with your tv and stereo, then they sure as heck are not going after the big power companies who screw up your shortwave listening.

It's most likely due to an aversion to thinking. When superiors tell you how to think and when to think it, life becomes much easier. The fundamentalism is also a step toward increasing militarism.

There seem to be more similarities between the American Taliban and radical Islamic types than most care to admit.

It's impossible to commit evil when you're doing it all for your own particular flavour of the Creator and the betterment of mankind.

I find it amazing that 'forgiveness', 'charity' and 'unselfishness', while being among the most important virtues of Christianity, are the FIRST ones out the window when greed and bloodlust fall on the Washington crowd. The word hypocrisy comes to mind.

If you're gonna spread a faith, EXAMPLE is the best way of doing it, not having your televangelists soften up the donors before the invasion.

As an aside, someone once said that the smartest thing locals anywhere could have done was to burn ALL the explorer's ships down and kill every missionary. Season to taste..

Some of the latin stations use a clock ticking effect. Perhaps the french (Quebec) station is as well, or you're hearing them both together.

Yeah, right. Like all those "good Americans" in the photo gallery who refuse to accept the legally elected president? Who want to defect to Canada? Who embarass our nation by "apologizing" to the rest of the world for being Americans? "Good Americans" like that treasonous lying communist pig Michael Moore? Like that Hungarian communist traitor George Soros? Like the Communist Party USA who endorsed John Kerry? Like Dan Rather who used CBS to spread lies about President Bush?

No more left-wingers in the USA? Bullshit.
All the cold war did was to eventually bankrupt the USSR. It did nothing to stop the communists living in the USA, many who call themselves "liberals".

But just so you don't complain about an off-topic post, I'm pleased to report that WWV is being heard on 5 mhz.

I don't see anything linear in F vs C for a resonant circuit. In fact, in order to make it anywhere close to linear, one has to go to extremes with the shape of the plates.

Probably correct Mike. Even though we are dealing with different areas of the FCC rules ( BPL falls under part 15). It seems in their latest rulings, the FCC is going to give more headroom to whatever inteference is caused by BPL.
Looks like our best hope is that BPL is horrible technology and will likely be outmoded by WiMax, WiFi, fiber, Cable, Flarion etc.

It will be handled by you, the shortwave listener with BPL interference, buying the highest power CB transceiver legally available, and chatting with other people during prime-time internet usage time, knocking the part-15-device BPL system off intermittently.

Oh, you meant the FCC.  They won't do anything.

That's most likely why they resemble the profile of a snail's shell...a logarithmic spiral of sorts.

Cuba is the only nation using MW for time signal relay purposes.
I believe that the rest of the radio programming is newsradio, like ABC Newsradio.

Very true. Even if they don't do too well in a golf cart, they may last for another fifty years if powering a radio.

I've been hoping to get very lucky and find some swapped out phone company wet cells. I had one when I was a kid. They had a clear case, with a built in hydrometer. Six volts and monster plates with NO sediment or visible sulphation.

I'd kill to have a few dozen of them now. I recently got 160 watts worth of solar panels that could really use the storage space

Until I hit the jackpot, I'm using US Batteries 2200  225 amp hour models, which are similar to the Trojan golf cart batteries. These are all mid range quality, falling between car batteries and TRUE deep cycle (read $$$$$) batteries. It's a compromise.

My bad.  Not linear in the sense of d-pF/d-theta = K.  But more the idea of no sharp changes for slight adjustment of the rotors.
Continuously differentiable, I should have said.

But if a linear variable cap was desired, the plates shouldn't be all that hard to fabricate.

Well, I just had a wonderful, evil idea.  Think for a moment of noise canceling headphones.  All you need is a circuit that can invert a signal and insert it back within a degree or two of phase.

What did you say was the highest frequency on BPL?

OK, maybe it wasn't wonderful, but you have to admit it was evil.

Ebay is how I got my HQ-180, two years ago. I got lucky, because it was actually as listed; mint condition. Everything, including the clock, was in perfect working order. There were several listed at the same time, but this one was the cream of the crop, and the seller had an excellent rating. It didn't come cheap though. A bidding war got it into my shack for $500.00, but it was worth every penny. I hope you find one in similar condition to mine, because it really is a great classic radio. Good DXing to you, Gary 3 times 1020 = 3060.

CHU is on 3330.

At any rate, it would not be a harmonic, but rather a subharmonic.

After doing a bit of quick research it might have been Radio Reloj out of Cuba.
They broadcast the time ticks.

See:

And also other references.

Yes, Radio Reloj or Radio Clock. The time signal ticks are part of their programming, also news, etc. Sometimes (if not all) they send a 'RR' in code every now and then.

This may be part of a jamming effort in this case.

HF PROPAGATION FALLING VICTIM TO STRONG SOLAR WINDS

http://www.arrl.org/news/stories/2004/11/10/7/?nc=1

NEWINGTON, CT, Nov 10, 2004 --- As HF radio conditions drift in the doldrums, the Space Environment Center (SEC) reports that geomagnetic storm activity spiked into the ``extreme`` (G5) category over the past 24 hours. A result of disturbances in Earth`s geomagnetic field caused by gusts of ``solar wind`` blowing past the planet, geomagnetic storms have adversely affected HF radio propagation over the past few days and even resulted in limited radio blackouts. Although things had calmed to ``moderate`` (G2) by 2000 UTC, geomagnetic storm activity at the G5 level can affect more than just radio propagation. Severe geomagnetic storms also can abruptly increase drag on spacecraft and even cause electrical power blackouts on Earth.

``I don`t know when it will end,`` said Tad Cook, K7RA, who compiles the weekly ARRL propagation bulletin. He said during heavy solar wind conditions, amateurs typically experience north-south propagation.

``It isn`t that north-south connections are enhanced during heavy space weather,`` he explained. ``It is the only propagation that still works during conditions like this.``

The recent space weather conditions also have resulted in auroral displays visible as far south as the Middle Atlantic states over the past weekend. The SEC estimates that G5-scale geomagnetic conditions will occur on four days of each 11-year solar cycle.

The forecast shows the Planetary A index increasing over the next 24 hours, from 40 today to 50 or greater on November 11, although it`s predicted to drop to 10 on November 12 and move even lower over the weekend. During the height of the current solar cycle, values topped 150.

The Planetary A index relates to geomagnetic stability. Magnetometers around the world are used to generate a number called the Planetary K index. Every 24 hours the K index is summarized in the Planetary A index. Small changes in the K index are significant. For example, a full day with the K index at 3 will produce an A index of 15, a K of 4 would mean an A of 27, a K of 5 would generate an A of 48, and a K of 6 would produce an A of 80.

``Generally, the higher the latitude of the measuring station, the higher the K and A indices reported,`` Cook says. ``This is because the effects of geomagnetic instability tend to concentrate toward the polar regions of the globe.``

In terms of radio blackouts --- disturbances of the ionosphere caused by X-ray emissions from the sun --- the SEC reports conditions as moderate (R2) over the past 24 hours but nil as of 2000 UTC. The SEC determines the radio blackout value using X-ray measurements from the primary GOES satellite. The chance of an ``extreme`` R5-level radio blackout is less than one per 11-year solar cycle.

Solar radiation storm activity has been ``moderate`` (S2) over the past 24 hours and continues at that level. This degree of activity can have small effects of HF propagation through the polar regions, the SEC says.

Come on guys, things are beginning to get out of control. This is a GOOD ng and it would seem a pity to spoil it with nasty words about politics. If there were so rationality in the post that would be one thing, but they are simply insults hurled by both sides and are SO boring/

Come on, election is over, now back to SW

The vast majority of the political posts are the result of x-posts from the political NGs.  If you don't open them, you wouldn't notice that.  It's not an excuse, but it -is- a fact.  So your message on r.r.s. is not reaching any number of people whose posts appear here.

Your ability to ferret out "information" from objective sources never ceases to amaze.   You really should be nominated for lifetime

Nah!!! It seems many have decided to talk over his daily "ego-casts" on 3.975, 14.275 and 3.890 AM like sooooooooo many hams have been doing this past week. (be sure to listen during the 5 second pause when he gives his "10 minute ID". The comments tossed out 'in-the-clear' at that time are often quite humorous!!
One guy on 75 has taken to playing a clip of Moe from
The Three Stooges' classic clip: "...Quiet Numbskulls I'm Broadcasting!!" at this point. (the first time I heard that I actually blew a whole mouthfull of Pepsi-cola thru and out my nose, it was THAT FUNNY !!!!!!!! ) baaaahahahahah!!

I agree. It's time we got back to radio and good clean fun.

For example, here's a link to a video that has ALL the elements of a Three Stooges two-reeler and a good girlie show as well !

Real Americans want honest elections.

You're not expected to understand that, either.

Strange they are using lethal gas over there and NO US TROOPS there are even carrying or wearing a gas mask

Duuuuhhhhhh dipshit!  You gotta have your own troops wearing em to use poison gas

What a moron you are to believe this crap

You wont see gasmasks on troops in Iraq unless its some newbie that hasnt figured out he doesent need it yet!

US TROOPS DONT CARRY GAS MASKS IN IRAQ

Roll that one up and blow it out yer arse  m II

OK, done. Now what? Just stare at it?

Well, since you're being facetious here, I meant for you to place a gun to your temple, and fire a bullet into your brain. Is that clear enough? And please don't procreate. Do it for humanity. Thanks again.

Huh? HD2IOA is a time signal station.

Currently on 3810 as far as I know.

Changes in Earth's magnetic fields. As I understand it, the A Index is a 24-hour average. Now, how do you use it? Well, speaking in general terms (hold on here, I have to put on my asbestos skivvies), an A index of less than 15 and a K index under 3 is going to yield good HF (Shortwave) propagation. You'll also hear talk of solar flux. Solar flux is a measurement of microwave radiation from the sun, and generally can be used for predicting HF propagation - if you use a smoothed average number.

I have a couple of really good links to share, if you found any of this interesting.

Ooops, my "bad."  They also broadcast at 1510 KHz.  For some reason, I thought it was 1580.  Ahh, well, you're never too young Sounds like a typical case of "steel frame building".  It's not the noise as much as the construction is shielding you from the RF.

Maybe a fish pole with 20-30 feet of magnet wire?

And it probably wouldn't work.  According to one of the series of articles in Elektor Electronics magazine, you need a good oscillator in your receiver to get a signal the software can deal with.  Their DRM receiver project used a DDS chip for the LO.

I'm in the market for a Sony ICF-SW77. According to Passport (2005) this set is getting increasingly difficult to find, but it is still distributed in German & Japan. I'm interested in buying from a reputable shop rather than an individual on eBay. Does anyone have a source for this radio in Germany or Japan?

Thanks.

I wouldn't say it wouldn't work at all.  I was kinda expecting it might lock for ten of fifteen seconds at a time.

I've got a bunch of FT-243 crystals, and I might even be able to find or grind one to give me a suitable local oscillator for the radio.

Ten or fifteen seconds.  That's about how long I thought this might be a worthwhile project.

Great site!  Radio Australia interviewed a Shrub shill this morning who, mercifully, was silenced by propogation's intervention! God don't like ugly, & has a special pit in hell's deepest depths for those who profane his name in vain for political gain!  As N.F.L. referee Walt Coleman might say, "upon further review, Shrub's Diebold 'mandate' has been digitally enhanced"! Amazin' also how none of  Bushwhackers' backers have proudly announced signing up for overseas anti-terrorist duty, eh crushed left nut?

Thanks, but the credit goes to domestic SW radio.  Thirty four years of it, since the eighth grade when I'd rush home to hear WINB's Rev. Carl McIntyre explain how the world really worked, has more than supercharged my brain.

I now look like an Alan Maxwell QSL card.

Didn't take English Lit in High School.  I suppose the Junior College I took some trade school courses offered English Lit, but I dropped out.

I did get an A in Motorcycle Mechanics.

Rember the predicted death of Medium Wave.
What do you think revivied it to it's current robust state?

I think it was CONTENT!

Do you remember some of the technological "advancements" the industry tried to institute in order to "compete" with VHF FM BCB?
(AM Stereo for one).

To broaden your listener ship, you need CONTENT.
Something people want, but can't get easily elsewhere.
------------------------------------------------

Here is a thought: In 10 years HF BCB could be the terrestile equivalent of sattelite radio via DRM.  (is that good or bad?) In my mind it is only bad if content is limited.

Mike--what do you listen to on shortwave?  I listen to Int. Broadcasters mainly.  What do they broadcast?  News correct?  What is news.  Lot a politics in News you know what I mean?  If wasn't for the Politics and related stuff I wouldn't even listen.  Why isn't politcial stuff (opinions granted) appropriate for this group?
I like hearing opinions from other people and countries.  Quite frankly the technology of shortwave is only so big and only so interesting.  What Shortwave brings to people is even more interesting.  Different points of view.  Quit trying to discourage this.  Let it happen brother.  There are some excellent major contributors to this group--give them respect my brother.  Get off of their backs.

Something this incomprehensible is difficult to interpret, but I'm hoping whatever side this mindlessness represents, I'm on the other.

It actually looks in very good shape for getting it at an estate sale.  Might not have to do much of anything at all to it.

Yes, still pissy bands, but it did sound like they were picking up this afternoon. I was listing to 40 meters today while out to lunch and hearing quite a few signals where it was totally bad yesterday.

Expect the bands to still be broke tonight but probably better than last night which was better than the night before.

Good luck! CU on the bands

I am looking to buy a good active antenna..
i have looked at a few Antennas on the net.
but you can look all you like there is nothing better than advice of current users.. the main two antennas i have been looking at are.
dressler Active antennas and also wellbrook Active antennas the wellbrook is an active loop antenna for HF use.
the dressler is a short active vertical...
what is the better antenna users comments only please.

if i buy the wellbrook active loop would i need to mount this on a rotor.
or can anybody recommend a better Active antenna to buy.
i have about �250.00 to spend on the antennas and any cabling and connectors i may need to buy.....
i am living very close to Heathrow airport in the uk .
i am using an AR5000 receiver .... any advice would be more than welcome...
Thanks: john

Because this isn't a political newsgroup, brainiac.

If you're not interested in the newsgroup's real purpose, then you're not required to participate here.

You need to realize just because you can hear certain types of programming on a radio that it doesn't make this newsgroup free for every single topic under the sky. What the hell would be the point to having 100,000+ newsgroups if everybody could just post their off-topic crap here? All they have to say is "I heard it on the radio." Then, let the deluge of off-topic postings flood out the shortwave radio related matters and render this newsgroup just about worthless to people interested in the shortwave radio listening hobby.

Hey folks,

The election was over a week ago. Stop wasting bandwidth posting all this crazy whiny political stuff.

America has spoken. The Adolph Hitlerites have won. George Bush has a mandate to massacre anyone, at any time, for any psychotic reason, who he, in his paranoid, mind thinks may be out to get us now. If you are not German, or English, pale, pasty white with yellow hair, and blue eyes, then I suggest you put your will in order immediately.

Right wing Caucasian beasts are making a huge push to take over the world and slaughter all non white people. when they finish with those, they will turn on themselves like the wild beasts that they are and start checking to see whose white enough. If you have a tan, or enough mixed blood that the people with the weapons can see that you have some African genetic makeup, then you will be helped to assume room temperature as well. You are either going to be a part of their problem, or a part of the solution. If you sit back and do nothing but play with your radio and play with yourself, the death camp trains will soon be stopping at your double wide.

So just go clean out and stock your bomb shelter, buy some gas masks, put plenty of can food in it. Then when the "ELE" arrives, go to the Southwest corner of your underground shelter, kneel down as low as you can, put your head all the way down between your knees, and kiss your arse goodbye!

I don't know what the G protocol is, but I have a wireless network in my shack, with two Macs hardwired to a router, and a Windows 2000 laptop with a wireless card. I have noticed an increase in interference since its installation about two months ago. My (simple) solution? Turn off the router. Interference gone. Problem solved.

Programme guide received yesterday; Fall 2004.

A bit smaller that what they used to send out; palm size it might be called---no frills.  I just hate to see what the next programme guide is going to look like---I will probably have to use a maginifier to read it.

dxTurd,

He's just trying to preface his spam with a meaningless shortwave comment.

It's WYFR by the way, asshole "Knowledge", along with a JAPANESE station also on the station. The WYFR broadcast isn't in German, aslo.

Programme guide received awhile back; Winter 2004-2005.

Somethings funny about the group shot!  Seems to be plenty of regular RN staff missing!  Michele Ernsting still in fine shape (kiss).

Thank you Julie,

I sat here and listened to this German sounding noise until 2200. Then they started talking about "WYFR" and Okachobee. so I knew they got me again.

Right now I'm listening to Radio Belgium with a near perfect signal on 11730

Fare l'amore! Non la guerra!

That is quite correct and not a spin.  It basically shows how little support the 2 party system has and why it should be aboolished

Quite true.  The democrats have always had a problem with voters who don't feel their vote will make any difference, while right wingers are fundamentalists and fanatics and vote fanatically even after they are dead.  :-)

It does appear so but there is recounting going on in some of the marginal states where "problems" have been discovered like in New Mexico.

Of course I lost, the whole country lost but since I'm a GREEN, my candidate never had a chance of winning anymore than the Libertarians, Reforms etc etc.

Perhaps the republicans can pick a candidate that when he walks isn't swaggering or staggering.  Even if I went with the 2 party system, I would not vote for a man with Bush's drug, booze and criminal history.

Radio Havana Cuba, The Gran Caribe Hotel chain, Cubana Airlines and the Cuban book institute, invite you to participate in a contest: The 14th Havana International Book Fair

Participants should answer the following questions:

Which country will the book fair be dedicated to in 2005? Which Cuban authors will be honoured?

The prize for the correct answers will consist of a one week all expenses paid trip to Cuba and participation to the fair.

There will also be 10 special mentions consisting in Cuban literature and gifts from the sponsors of the fair.

The contest expires January 31st, 2005.

Send your answers to:

President Joseph C. Emert sent me this information, by snail mail.

Thank you for your note about Wantok Radio Light in Papua New Guinea. The shortwave radio station is scheduled to go on the air around January 8, 2005. It will broadcast at 7210 khz.

While it is doubtful that it will reach you in Austria, it would be interesting to know if you receive it.

My email adress is jemert@wmvv.com

At the present time we do not have a printed broadcast schedule.

Again, thank you for your interest.

11 Nov 09:10 UTC 8993 kHz USB - "Pohnpei Seventy-Three, this is Micronesia, over". The Pohnpei station replied that reception was difficult. (Both stations were easily audible into Auckland, and the Micronesia station was very loud.) Micronesia recommended a channel change, to "channel 13". A few minutes later, he was back calling "Pohnpei 73" again. But no luck this time, no response from Pohnpei.

Then, at 09:33 UTC, "Micronesia" tries "73" again. No luck. So he tries "72, 72, this is Micronesia for radio check, over". 72 responds, saying its difficult to receive "Micronesia". "Micronesia" says "change to channel seventy-one, over".

Anybody heard this before? One of my radios was parked on 8992, which needs no explanation, when I heard this. These guys were pretty loose with their radio jargon and discipline. Didn't sound like LDOC/AOC.

> NEWINGTON, CT, Nov 10, 2004 --- As HF radio conditions drift in the doldrums, the Space Environment Center (SEC) reports that geomagnetic storm activity spiked into the ``extreme`` (G5) category over the past 24 hours. A result of disturbances in Earth`s geomagnetic field caused by gusts of ``solar wind`` blowing past the planet, geomagnetic storms have adversely affected HF radio propagation over the past few days and even resulted in limited radio blackouts. Although things had calmed to ``moderate`` (G2) by 2000 UTC, geomagnetic storm activity at the G5 level can affect more than just radio propagation. Severe geomagnetic storms also can abruptly increase drag on spacecraft and even cause electrical power blackouts on Earth.

3-day Solar-Geophysical Forecast issued Nov 11 at 22:00 UTC

Solar Activity Forecast: Solar activity is expected to be low to moderate. Isolated M-class flares are still possible from Region 696 before it rotates around the west limb on 13 November. Low solar activity levels are expected on 14 November.

Geophysical Activity Forecast: The geomagnetic field is expected to range from quiet to severe storm levels. Further transient material from the CME activity on 09 - 10 November may produce active to major storm periods on 12 November, and isolated severe conditions are possible at high latitudes. A return to a more stable geomagnetic field is expected on 13 an 14 November. Occasional active periods are expected on the 13th with predominantly quiet to unsettled levels on the 14th. The greater than 10 MeV proton event that has been in progress since 07 November is expected to end by 13 November.

Thanks for your note. Sorry you're having trouble with our new website design.

Over my objections, "voanews.com/ourworld" no longer takes you to the Our World page. Instead, it takes you to the science and technology page. The theory is that the visitor will find the latest stories here, since this page is updated daily. Since Our World is a weekly program, the Our World page is updated only weekly. (No, it doesn't make any sense to me either, but I produce a radio program; I don't have any say over the website.)

http://www.voanews.com/english/science/ourworld.cfm

You can download an MP3 or listen to a streaming RealAudio version of the show.

We're still having many technical problems with the software behind our website, so please be patient if you find a problem. (And feel free to use the "contact us" mail form to let us know of any problems you find.)

Thanks again for writing.

Best regards,
Art Chimes, producer-host

Idiot.

You aren't listed on my web page either.

That's because it's MY web page, not yours, just like it's QRZ's web page (not yours).  You are still on the FCC's web page, for now.  I checked today (212-479-7990) and those callsigns are still active.

It must be a great source of pride to you to know that your existence and that of like empty-headed loons is a primary reason -why- Bush won...assuming you're at all serious, which I have doubts about.

Mr. Emert probably doesn't know that the CRN station in Vanimo (PNG) has been logged all around the world with their 1 kw. power, even with their "cloud warmer" antenna designed to limit reception to the local area. They continue to be a regular resident of 4960 kHz and heard frequently here.

So you think it's a coincidence that this started right after Bush was selected for the second time?  Do you think Bush wants you to hear what's going on?  It will take time but eventually we'll learn that Diebold, Halliburton and Sinclair Broadcasting are behind these conditions.

OK,

Little or no education children. You need to know the dictionary definitions of words before you begin throwing them around and accusing people of being thus or so.

You can't just take words and then call someone that word because you don't like what they have to say.

If we are going to play like than, then I can tell the world that Julie and DXAce are sexual perverts queers! I know they are, because they sound that way when they post.

Now that makes just as much sense as you all calling me an A..hole and a rac..t" doesn't it?

I don't have to have any fact. It is so because I say it.

Now my handle is "knowledge" I have plenty of that to share with people. you would be wise to call me that, and I will call you by your handle.

Now here is the correct definition of a "Racist" It fits many people on this forum, but I am not one of them in the negative sense that I seek to harm, or avoid people because of their skin color.

Hey Dx!

Here are some definitions that most people who work a lot in the field of studying white supremacy have agreed  to use when discussing race. Take the entire quiz also, I'd  like to know how you do.

SOME KEY DEFINITIONS FOLLOW:

BIGOT: A person who is utterly intolerant of any creed, belief, or racial opinion that differs from his/her own.

EQUITY:  The quality of being fair and just in dealing with all human beings.

PLURALISM: A situation in which different groups live in mutual respect while maintaining their own identities.

RACISM: AS DEFINED BY Webster's Encyclopedic Unabridged Dictionary of the English Language. "(1)a belief that human races have distinctive characteristics that determine their respective cultures, usually involving the idea that one's own race is superior and has the right to rule all other races different from their own.

Number one is identical to what you said.

(2) The group that thinks itself to be superior must have the power to make and enforce policies that hold down the group judged to be inferior.

Julie most black people don't have the power to hold white people down. That's the main reason why they shouldn't be called racist

.(3) a system of government or society based upon these premises.
Who controls the American Government Julie? White people right?

RACIAL PREJUDICE: Someone who prejudges, or holds an incorrect, or at the very least an inaccurate portrayal of an individual who holds membership in the group under question.

RACIAL DISCRIMINATION: actions taken based on incorrect, or inaccurate attitudes toward a member of a racial, ethnic, or minority group that results from the individuals membership in that group.
Remember! Prejudice is an incorrect attitude, discrimination is action towards those people based on those incorrect thoughts.

Many learned African Americans stopped using the term "Racist" a long while ago because clever, but misinformed white people grabbed onto the word and started branding every outspoken African American a racist.

That's why most of us are moving towards using "White supremacist"
There can be no black supremacists because even Stevie Wonder can see that black people in America have very little power, and aren't supreme at all in the business, or educational worlds when compared to white folk.

Now DXAce,do you promise to use that word appropriately? It applies a lot more to people who think as you do than it does to me?. :-)

Heck! There is nobody left in Mexico. They have all sneaked, ran, walked, flew, drove, across the border to the USA. :-)

No one is there to operate the stations.

Commercial stations in HC land have the Province indicator at the end of the calls, such as HCTM1 in Quito (Pichincha) or HCGA2 in Guayaquil (Guayas) and not in the middle. Hams and utes have the designator after the "C", such as my old ham call, HC2DG.

No he's not.  There will never be a right wing majority in the U.S.  He's doing the only thing the right wing is good at, creating a massive economic mess that the liberals will have to get the country out of.

The right wing has never been able to win a war, they've never been able to manage the economy without driving the country into debt, and they've never been able to unite the nation.  The only thing they can do is create enormous economic depressions.

Live with it.

The BayGen wind-up radio is a good choice. www.ccrane.com usually has them in stock. There is an AM/FM/SW model, with a built-in LED light for around $120, though sometimes it is on sale for $100.

You may also want to keep a cheap little black and white TV that can be battery powered. They can usually be found for around $15, I got one for free by ordering from Office Depot online a while back. Crappy quality, but serves in a pinch.

Bush calls 9/11 his "trifecta" in what he considers his "fabulous" year.

Then he looks under furniture for the WMD about which he lied.

His lies have cost far too many their lives.  Have yourself a laugh.

That must be what you say to the soldiers without arms and/or legs as they crawl along missing the limbs Bush got blown off them with explosives
he handed out in the hundreds of tons for that.

That's all you ever want for Americans, because you

That means you're not allowed to mention conservativism.  All you're permitted to do is kneel and worship your Nazi-beneficiary servant of Osama, Bush.

Good question.

Notice how the bushkultie is forced to evade it, so predictably.

Lightly used Sony ICF SW100

$225.00 SHIPPED!

e-mail: neiltt@optonline.net

Listed QRZ: WW2NT

Manual included

Payment: Paypal, Money Order or personal check held until cleared

The Sony ICF-SW100 has all the features of a full-sized portable, but is small enough to fit into your shirt pocket. This radio is an incredible

4.375x1x2.875 inches (111x25x73 mm) 8 oz. Frequency coverage includes 76-108 MHz FM and complete coverage of long wave, medium wave and shortwave from from 150 - 29.999 MHz continuously. The PLL quartz frequency digital synthesized tuning is the world's most accurate drift-free tuning method and makes tuning-in desired stations simple and precise. The dual-conversion superheterodyne circuitry provides high sensitivity and interference rejection. A synchronous detector with selectable sideband is included to help reduce the effects of adjacent channel interference and fading. The ICF-SW100S even receives SSB single sideband and morse code signals.

The world time clock feature provides local and 24-city name/time display. 50 memory station presets allow storage and recall of frequency and station name at a touch of a button. The auto scan feature allows scanning of available stations one at a time with a few seconds pause before resuming or can hold on a specific frequency. Other features include 1 kHz tuning, dual clock/alarm, LED tuning indicator, tone control and FM stereo via headphone jack. The right side of the radio also includes a Line Output Jack for tape recording plus a slide switch for FM Mono/Stereo or Tone. The side of the radio has a power lock switch plus a DX/Local Switch. This radio can be played in the "closed" position. There are small rear speaker ports on the top of the radio, or you may use the supplied stereo ear buds. The bottom of the radio features an international time chart and reset button. Requires two AA cells (not supplied).

The ICF-SW100S comes with AC adaptor, active antenna, and carrying case.

There are several. But first, you need to decide if you want shortwave coverage in addition to normal AM/FM, and how much you're willing to spend.

This link shows some "emergency" radios, some of them can run on solar cells and/or hand-cranked generators. You can ignore the "clock" radios.

http://universal-radio.com/catalog/spcialty.html

This link shows many shortwave radios. As a general rule, the more expensive ones provide better long range AM and FM reception, but the GE Superadio has excellent AM reception for a decent price.
The Sangean CC radio also pulls in the stations, but it is more expensive. A few of these run on solar cells or hand cranks.

http://universal-radio.com/catalog/portable.html

The Sony ICF-SW7600GR is an excellent all-around radio with decent AM reception for under $200, assuming you've stocked up on batteries.

Forgot about the Grundig units... no experience with that particular wind-up but I'm sure they're good.

Probably BB&B is selling them for the "security moms" we hear so much about.

I was not clear, sorry. I am taking about a ham radio. I have an AM receiver that requires no batteries, just the air waves for emergencies.

Thanks, so sorry

Digital radio is a bad idea for DXing.  You are basically at the mercy of the computer inside the radio to give you audio.  And only one stream of audio - the one the computer decides to lock on to - the strongest signal only.  You, your ears and brain, have thus lost the ability to listen for weak signal DXl.

Do what stereo AM radio manufacturers did - DON'T BUY A DRM RADIO! Manufacturers will stop producing them and radio stations will pull the plug on digital.  DRM will go the way of stereo AM.

DRM is a marketers dream come true.  There is little incentive for the consumer to invest. IT IS ALL CREATED FOR THE MARKETING FOLKS!

Oops, I'm sorry. The GE Superadio and Sangean CC radio are in the FIRST link, not the 2nd.

Of course you say stupid things.  You're so preoccupied with doing that that you never actually stop to think.

That's how Bush felt about 2001, the year he got to dance on the graves of the 9/11 victims.

Bush calls 9/11 his "trifecta" in what he considers his "fabulous" year.

Then he looks under furniture for the WMD about which he lied.

His lies have cost far too many their lives.  Have yourself a laugh.

That must be what you say to the soldiers without arms and/or legs as they crawl along missing the limbs Bush got blown off them with explosives
he handed out in the hundreds of tons for that.

That's all you ever want for Americans, because you are filled with hate for the USA and its populace.

You'd not know of such: those categories include honest elections and preclude illegal invasions, at least for real Americans.  You're not expected to

You should look up the definition before you try to use a word.

You fail when you rely upon fallacy that way, but you're not expected to know.

Ha!  Good one.  The bushkultie seems to have such a fixation on feces.
He feels compelled to try to discuss it when no one else was doing so.
One doubts he was raised very well.

You are correct Lars. I seem to recall this in some early tube sets. I was able to make the VFO in a hi end homebrew RX I am building quite linear by making certain the variable cap comprises a relatively small portion of the total tank C- and this using the typical 1/2 round plates. All sorts of games can be played by using combinations of series and parallel capacities along with the variable. An Excel spreadsheet gives quick insight.
Also nice to see a bit of differential calculus on the group!

Also don't forget variable coaxial style capacitors- although large values can be a pain, this can be an easy to build approach.

   This is one of the Global HF System military freqs; would be very interesting to find out what this really was.....

Well, this would have been the week to really listen to Radio Cairo,
BUT NO!  7115, 11855 and 12050 all are down, thank you very much Mr.
Sun.
I really do like Radio Cairo, btw, the music is fantastic, you almost can feel the desert.

Yeah, I thought  reception had improved quite a bit this evening. I get all of the time signals, 2.500 is a bit noisy, but audible.

8992 is part of the US Air Force Global HF System.
I had one radio sitting on that frequency when I got some major QRM. Once tuned, it was 8993, with the Micronesia traffic mentioned.

That is a lot.  And this could happen to anyone. I fail to Ok thanks Honus,

I'm still listening. I wish I could call in. I can give them a lot of information apart from the Bible that shows how perverted homosexuality is.

People who endorse it can only say they want to do it.

They can't support that lifestyle using the Bible, Science, Nature, or sociology.

What I mean is that the bible specifically condemns it in the harshest terms.

If I'm speaking to someone who doesn't believe in the Bible, then I ask them if they believe in science. If they say yes, then I ask them if they have formally studied electricity as I have.

When you put two positive charges together they repel violently!

The same happens with two negative charges. If you force them together you create a nuclear bomb.

In nature, it doesn't occur any more often than it does amongst humans. I have had over 200 cats come and go here in the last fifteen years. None of the makes have stood still and allowed another male to mount it. When kittens get to close sniffing, the male turns bares it's teeth and growls it away. The kitten learns early that that dog won't hunt here.

On the farm you won't see two bulls, or two stallions trying to pork each other. In the jungle you don't see two male lions, or water buffalo trying to get it on.

In sociological terms, MOST countries do not give that lifestyle the same respect, and approval that they give to heterosexual couples. The usually tolerate it at best.

Furthermore I think make female prostitution makes a lot more sense than does homosexuality. Now if people think prostitution is so terrible and they won't legalize that, then they would have to be out of their rabid arse minds to want to legalize the perverted, unnatural behaviors of queers.

I don't think they should be hunted down and harmed, but their filthy behavior should never be given legitimacy.

"In the land of the blind, the one eyed man is king!"

Knowledge!

FM Stereo Broadcast Transmitter
Digital PLL - LCD - 2 Watt RF Output

Ebay item # 5730774971

Auction ends in 2 days:
Ends Nov-14-04 19:13:56 PST

Here is the direct link:
http://cgi.ebay.com/ws/eBayISAPI.dll?ViewItem&item=5730774971

Transmitter is an assembled and tested unit -- not a kit.

This FM Stereo transmitter is well-known to many eBayer's as being the best transmitter you can get for the money. You'd have to buy a commercial brand FM exciter (such as a Harris) to exceed the specs of this unit. On virtually all FM receivers you would not hear the difference.

This transmitter is a NEW design and DOES NOT use the "BA" or "Rohm" analog chip - ANYWHERE IN IT AT ALL. Which is a good thing.

The heart of the transmitting circuit is a Cypress Semiconductor Digital Signal Controller. This is a 16 bit DSP microcontroller with on-chip Flash, RAM, A/Ds, PWM, and 200k of EEPROM.

This transmitter can equal the sound of commercial FM stations. It outperforms ANY of the Ramsey transmitters, including the "export" version of the FM-100B which Ramsey sells for $429.99.

You can have this transmitter for much less than that.

Here are the specifications for this transmitter (from the manufacturer):

Transmission Frequency: Adjustable between 87-108 MHz
Tuning Steps: 10 kHz
RF Power Output: Typ 1Watt @ 13V or 2 Watts @ 24V
Spurious RF Emissions: Better than -45 dB ref. to carrier
Frequency Stability: PLL Typ +/-1KHz
SWR Ruggedness: Withstands 30:1 SWR mismatch
RF Output Connector: BNC type
Audio Input Sensitivity: 0.8V rms for +/- 75 KHz deviation
Signal To Noise Ratio: 60 dBu
Frequency Response: Flat from 20 Hz to 15 KHz
Stereo Separation: >40 dB
Pre-emphasis: 75 uS (standard FCC spec for U.S. FM radio)
Audio Distortion: Better than 0.2 % THD
Audio Input Connectors: RCA Phono Jacks
Power Jack: Coaxial type, 5.5mm O.D. 2.1mm I.D. center positive
DC Power Input: 12 to 24 Vdc Regulated 600mA

The transmitter has a built-in user options menu system with two buttons for adjusting operating parameters such as transmitting frequency, modulation level, MPX pilot level, etc.

This transmitter has a clean RF output. The design includes a seven-element Low Pass RF Filter for harmonic suppression.

This transmitter has built-in audio AGC (Automatic Gain Control). The AGC feature can be adjusted using the user options menu or you can turn it off if you like.

Operating instructions will be included with the unit.

Certainly not using the bible. Of course, that's the book that condones slavery, so it's pretty much worth crap IMNSHO. As far as the others go, you need to read something other than that old book of superstitions that you're obviously obsessed with. You know...the one written by the goatherds that thought the world was flat, and that demons caused disease. By the way...handled any venomous serpents lately?

> What I mean is that the bible specifically condemns it in the harshest terms.

Which has nothing to do with reality. Not to mention the fact that I can cite scholar after scholar that maintain that the biblical admonitions against homosexuality are in fact aimed at temple prostitution. Big difference, not that it ultimately matters.

What?

And anyway, what's your point? Anti-matter and matter annihilate each other when they come into contact. Whatever your point was, I think I just blunted it.

> In nature, it doesn't occur any more often than it does amongst humans.

Oh my friend, you are SO wrong. In nature it occurs more often than in humans. Just to keep this on-topic in an odd sort of way, here's a link to an article at Radio Netherlands.

http://www.rnw.nl/lifestyle/html/gayanimals000808.html

It's obvious that you've never researched the subject on the web, because there are so many pages on it that I can't decide which ones to list for you. And for what it's worth, your statement makes no sense. If it occurs at all amongst animals, especially in the wild, there goes your "God is against it" theory. Unless, of course, you believe that animals sin.

> I have had over 200 cats come and go here in the last fifteen years. None of the makes have stood still and allowed another male to mount it. When kittens get to close sniffing, the male turns bares it's teeth and growls it away. The kitten learns early that that dog won't hunt here.

So you haven't observed it. Your point?

> On the farm you won't see two bulls, or two stallions trying to pork each other. In the jungle you don't see two male lions, or water buffalo trying to get it on.

Guess again. This link http://www.bidstrup.com/sodomy.htm doesn't address bulls specifically, but it does cite some very interesting facts about other ungulates. And for what it's worth, I -have- heard of cows trying to mount each other. I'm guessing that you don't spend a lot of time on farms or in the jungle.

> In sociological terms, MOST countries do not give that lifestyle the same respect, and approval that they give to heterosexual couples. The usually tolerate it at best.

And a lot of countries still stone people for being witches. Other countries still saw the heads off of infidels. Etc. ad nauseum.

> Furthermore I think make female prostitution makes a lot more sense than does homosexuality. Now if people think prostitution is so terrible and they won't legalize that, then they would have to be out of their rabid arse minds to want to legalize the perverted, unnatural behaviors of queers.

You don't get out much, do you? If you're going to cite the social mores of other countries in their stand against homosexuality, then you ought to be really careful when you talk prostitution because that line of reasoning will come back to bite you. It's legal in -lots- of places around the world. Since other countries approve of it, by your argument perhaps we ought to consider approving of it as well.

Oh, wait. Nevada already has.

> I don't think they should be hunted down and harmed,

I'll bet my bottom dollar that's not the tune you'd have been singing if you'd been born a century or two earlier. If we're supposed to stone witches, then why not fags? By the way...do you think we ought to hunt down witches?

> but their filthy > behavior should never be given legitimacy.

I'm still waiting to hear why not. Because the bible says "No"? Well then, don't engage in it. If you want to follow the bible, then feel free to do so. Don't expect everyone else to follow the same set of rules. As for science, nature and sociology, I haven't seen any evidence to support your argument. But I've seen plenty against it.

WASHINGTON -- A secret Pentagon audit shows most of the U.S. army's gas masks and a large number of chemical suits are either broken or defective, prompting concerns about the readiness of U.S. troops in the Persian Gulf.

The Trops, and 49m band are a bit better this morning, (0600-0800 GMT 11/12/04) here in the Chicago suburbs. Like the 80's band REO Speedwagon said, we're "Riding The Storm Out." Good DXing to you, Gary

They wouldn't let me in. That rather austere organization accepted members by appointment only and alas, they somehow overlooked me. Hard to believe, I know..but true.

The real, unadvertised goal of that assembly was to show the error in accepting 'facts' blindly merely because they had the 'cloak' of some sort of authority backing them.

Sadly, there seems to be no activity in that group since the founder passed away.

I wonder if it is that they are using the Messenger in other mailings?  I've received the English language Messenger in mailings from the French Service.
So an English schedule would be confusing to other language listeners.  They put out their own schedule pamphlets but no magazine, stuffing their envelopes with New Year cards at this time of year, and copies of the appropriate language Beijing Review or China Today.
(How else do you get Esperanto reading materials?)

Still the Spanish and Portguese services of CRI are the best.

Neat. I learned how to set up a Ducati Desmo head in the late seventies...and how the Brit engines had a left hand thread on the oil pump gear. The Super Sport 900 Ducati was probably the funnest bike I've ever owned. I still have a Triumph. It's a 1200 Daytona mind you, so it doesn't leak. Lots of Nortons over the years...no Commandos though.

I'd like a new Triumph Thruxton in the spring. The Daytona is getting to be a pain handling in the parking lot. The 560 lb weight and Old Age, you know. We'll see what the budget looks like next year.

First Hour: Walter Burian of cafr1.com says we the people are getting scammed even worse than just paying income tax.

Burian states: "My estimate of both federal and local government's investment assets is a conservative 60 trillion dollars . . . . [Of the] $44 trillion in debt, one of the core issues is: How much of that debt is being funded from the $60 Trillion of investment assets government holds? The shift in the last 30 years has been for local and federal governments to take surplus revenue and use it to fund their own debt obligations for themselves."

Second Hour: Holly Swanson, author of "Set Up & Sold Out: Find Out What Green Really Means," discusses the secret side of the Green political agenda and the ways in which its deceptive tactics take advantage of the American people.

Our FM Radio Quality 32K Stream is Dial-Up Modem Friendy.

Recent episodes of "From The Grassy Knoll" can be heard from Midnight to 4PM ET or 5AM to 9PM UTC, Monday through Friday.

The R8 series beats the R75 by a wide margin. The dang R75's aren't even good for door stops.

That's true, the much heavier R8 series make for far better door stops.

Heck, I remember when WRNO was a Z-Rock affiliate back in the 80's and early 90's. Z-Rock was the all hard rock radio network that operated during that time. It was kinda' cool to hear heavy metal on SW radio.

A caller to Pastor Peter J. Peters radio program seemed to think there just might be a purpose for John Ashcroft's resigning.

Could it be someone is intending to appoint him to the "Supreme Court" ?

Something to think about.  He couldn't do enough harm with the Patriot Act!

Their used prices are very high.  Look at Embay.

Then again there's reasons ignorant assholes like you arent elected President of the good old US of A

But then again you'd fit right in over there in North Korea or Mainland China as a leader!

Last I heard asshole America was free to do pretty much what the fuck you wanna do ....Like me for example...I could hold your moms hand and comfort her for having such a prick for a son

I'm a Vet and its what I served for...

Freedom

I just didnt do it for you dipshit!

Howdy Dan,

Interesting point... obviously there has been a change at CRI regarding the Messenger.  I looked through my piles of mailings and it seems that beginning with issue Vol. 15,  No.2 (March-April 2004) they dropped the schedule.

Gee... the first thing I would do when I got the Messenger was to check the frequency listing so it was the first thing I noticed that was missing.

Tucked into the March-April 2004 issue I also found the schedule for the English Service---so I'm OK now.

Yes... Radio Cairo is great but I got tired of the poor audio that made it nearly impossible (for me) to listen to---have they improved?

Hi John,
If you are handy with a soldering iron and hacksaw you might look into this:
http://www.arrl.org/tis/info/pdf/0109031.pdf
It cost about $75US for the parts and will outperform just about anything on the market. I built one and it was easy to assemble and works very well compared to a 100ft long wire. I am feeding a Harris RF-590A.

Oregon is 100% paper ballots and 100% by mail.  It seems to work very well.  It is insane to use a system that cannot be recounted.

Curiously, the oath of office for President of the United States has a clause in it similar to the first clause of the soldier's oath:
"preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States."

So what is one to do when the President violates his oath? The third part of the oath of enlistment specifically mentions obedience to the President, the Commander in Chief. What a predicament this places on the honor-bound soldier -- his oath in conflict with itself!

As a veteran, I must take a closer look at this oath that I have held near my heart for so long. Of the three parts of the soldier's oath, obedience to the President is third, placing it in the lowest priority in my mind. Next, being only one of three parts of the oath, the greater weight is obviously given to the Constitution. Finally, unlike the other two parts of the oath, the section requiring obedience to the President is tucked inside a clause about adherence to military regulations and the Uniform Code of Military Justice, the only part of the oath specifically about the troop's conduct during the period of enlistment. This appears to be a deliberate tie into the military service of the new recruit, thus the one part of the oath that ends with the term of enlistment. From these, I see my marching orders written on the wall.

My first allegiance is to The Constitution of the United States; my first duty is to protect it from all enemies, foreign and domestic; and my vow of obedience to the President of the United States expired in 1993.

Therefore, I stand today opposed to my President, and the anti-American, un-Constitutional, unpatriotic Administration for which he serves as figurehead. I will do my part to voice my opposition, educate the populace, diligently support my political causes, and work with others to restore American freedoms to their former glory.

As a soldier, I made a promise. As a veteran, I will carry that promise with me to the end of my days.

An alternative to the Amrad antenna is you can connect a high quality rf preamplifier to a whip.

That's what I do for the antenna on my 7030+ "portable".

The one I chose is an avantek 30db preamp that I picked up at the flea at MIT for $5 or $10.  (I expect a new one with similar specs would sell for a few hundred)
The whip is connected to the input of the amplifier with a 9:1 impedance matching transformer.

I often dial in some attenuation when I'm listening below about 5mhz.    Other makes for milspec RF preamps include Aiken/Norlin/ACL/Applied Communications (same company, different names) and Watkins Johnson.  I'm sure there are others too - I'm just not familiar with them.

I'm not knocking the Amrad - if I had the time to build one, I probably would.

As for the Dressler, and the Wellbrook, I think between the two, I'd go for the Wellbrook.  IIRC, the Wellbrook has more dynamic range.  Loops are less likely to pick up RFI.  I've also noticed numerous favorable comments about it, and relatively few comments (positive or negative) about the Dressler.

Want to talk politics ?
Find a political newsgroup !

I remember one popular newsgroup that was invaded by mouthy children and trolls...

The only solution was to "not answer any posting"

In time, they got tired and went away.
( presumabley to annoy someone else... )

Especially since the Z-rock affiliate locally had gotten run out of town by Jaycor (now part of Clear Channel), RNO was the only way to hear real metal.

Interesting quote, I'll reserve where it's from - for now.

"...In the clash of war the good slay the good and the evil ones live safely behind the shields."

Antigua transmitter on the blink again (again and again). Audio breaking up all morning on 15190 channel. Wonderful... they just signed off!

BBC was a great broadcaster... now just a 'has been'.

Well, on "The National Interest" this week on Radio Australia, Terry Lane interviewed Barbara Ehrenreich (sp?), author of "Nickeled and Dimed" (and a ton of other books).

She pointed out the the large modern fundy church* closely parallels Hamas in structure, as they provide schools, day care, health clubs, and even living quarters for their members, in addition to forming a tight business network in the local community.  She also speculated that the opposition to government funding of things like daycare is to stop any competition to their own operations.

*(What I call a Plastic Church, the kind out in the burbs with five thousand members or so).

The Brainiac?   I've been called alot things but --Brainiac-----------hmmmm!
You are a real sweetheart aren't you?
                  oh I know a real shortwave kinda super duper guru type woman right?  Ah baby--I'd love to turn your radio on.

Life is political!--- Shortwave is all about life in other countries for the most part.  Therefore shortwave is quite political actually.

I disagree with you sweetie-- ( i'm sorry your highness ,  QUEEN SHORTWAVE) you and Mike need to leave this group and go seek your holy grail so to speak.  This group isn't for you --it's about shortwave = (life, opinions, other countrie etc.) (oh yes some radio stuff too).  You know what? this group is the best.  Wouldn't chg a thing.  Leave it alone please.

I will never bow to you oh mighty Queen Shortwave.

I bet you believe in the choice to "kill babies don't you"  (abortion).  I heard something on shortwave the other day about that.  Shortwave helps me to form my opinions about what is right & wrong in this ole world.  I love shortwave.

Love the group--show respect my not Queen.

Hah!!

Well,

It seems we do have some learned people here. :-)

I'm not willing to tie up this forum discussing homosexuality. However I have been moderating a forum on Yahoo that had over 3,000 members on it this time last year. After yahoo became frightened about some of the things I was pointing out to my list, they deleted it cold turkey.

I stayed away from them for a while, but now I'm slowly building it back up. I have over 250 members currently. so why don't those of you all who have an interest in truth, logic, and justice take come on over and become apart of our family.

We talk about these things 24/7/365. There are still many nationally known black and white folks who are members of my list. I suspect you would probably enjoy it a lot. We can always use people who are not afraid to speak out.

Peace

I had a Royal Enfield Interceptor back then.  Speaking of radio, the workshop manual gave instructions to convert the bike's wiring so the alternator would develop full power with the headlight off in order to power a radio transmitter for police work or what not.  The alternator could provide all of 60 watts at high RPM, and maybe 20 watts at idle.  The damn thing could hardly power the headlight!`

The Interceptor leaked everything.  Motor oil.  Gear oil from the transmission.  ATF from the clutch/primary chain housing.  More motor oil from one leg of the fork.  I wasn't pouring expensive fork oil through that thing.  The other leg of the fork somehow held it's oil.  Inconsistent quality control, I guess.

Actually, I still have the Interceptor.  It's all in boxes, so I can't rightly call it a motorcycle.

Did you have an Atlas?  They are rather Interceptor-like.

I started out owning a Drake R8 and later the R8B and they are a good standard to use. When I purchased and modified my R75, I spent many hours doing side by side testing of the R75 using the Drake as my standard.

I focused my testing on a single question: Was there something the Drake receiver could do that the Icom could not do. I focused on clearly perceptible differences, not differences that can only be measured by instrumentation.

After all the testing, I found that there was not a single instance of a difficult signal that I could receive with the Drake that I could not receive with exactly the same clarity using the R75 with stock filters.

By using techniques described by others in this group and in "Phils Cookbook" located in the Files section of this group, I was able to do anything the Drake could do, including sideband selectable S-AM. These are workarounds that give the same results without buying extra filters.

So, if the proposal is to match the standard, the Drake R8B, no additional filters are needed IMO.

If the proposal is to make the R75 as good as it could be by additional filter choices, you could justify additional filters.

I installed an ICOM FL-102 (6KHz wide) filter in the empty 9MHz slot of my R75 to tighten up the selectivity in the front end and reduce noise and adjacent channel interference. I can tell you that it is not a night and day difference but I think it helps some, marginally.

The S-AM mod on the other hand is clearly worth the money and effort, that is the one I could not do without.

Yeah, the Drake does a lot more...sure...

That's right up there with those that call the old Hammarlunds and Hallicrafters boatanchors portables because they had a handle. ;-)

> The one I chose is an avantek 30db preamp that I picked up at the flea at MIT for $5 or $10. (I expect a new one with similar specs would sell for a few hundred) The whip is connected to the input of the amplifier with a 9:1 impedance matching transformer.

Okay, that brings up the question of the MFJ-1020 used as a preamp. Admittedly, you can't beat and Avantek for $5-10, but is the MFJ-1020 worth the price, or can you find schematics for decent preamps lying around??

> As for the Dressler, and the Wellbrook, I think between the two, I'd go for the Wellbrook. IIRC, the Wellbrook has more dynamic range. Loops are less likely to pick up RFI. I've also noticed numerous favorable comments about it, and relatively few comments (positive or negative) about the Dressler.

Actually, I've read a bit about the Wellbrook from replies on lists and on the occasional webpage on it, but what puzzles me is the spread that the Wellbrook claims that the loop is good for. After all, it's not a tunable loop and it looks like an aluminum hoop (about 1m diameter) with a preamp and matching transformer attached. The best I saw on a homebrewed magnetic loop after an hour or so of perusing the web was about 5-17 MHz for usability.

I figure that it looks simple enough of a design that someone could build one at home (or at least emulate one) easily enough, but some of the claims don't seem to mesh with that people who have built these type of loops have discovered.

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1422   November 12, 2004

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1422 with a release date of Friday, November 12, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T.  The FCC turns off the ham radio licensing computer and a big Aurora opening hits North America. Find out the details on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1422 coming your way right now.

WITH THE FCC: HAM RADIO LICENSING STOPS AND STARTS DUE TO COMPUTER GLICH

Ham radio licensing came to a screeching halt on November 5th. This after a software glitch caused the computer that issues licenses to do some very strange things. Mark Abramovich, NT3V, has been following the developments from Philadelphia and gas more:

The FCC isn't offering any official comment on exactly what happened. But Amateur Radio Newsline has learned that the problems with the Universal Licensing System computer started after an Oct. 28 software upgrade installed by a government contractor.

The problems that followed prompted the FCC to order a five-day shutdown of the system which issues Amateur Radio licenses. The system came back on-line on Nov. 10. However, as of our deadline for this week's program, the FCC still planned a weekend shutdown of the U-L-S for maintenance and expected it to return to operation on Nov. 15.

The American Radio Relay League's Volunteer Examiner Coordinator Bart Jahnke, W9JJ, tells Amateur Radio Newsline he was among the first to detect problems while doing a routine check up on the application of a friend near the end of last month.

Jahnke says he discovered the application was - as he describes it - flagged or marked pending by the FCC for a review by a live person. He says the automated system and its software are set up for minimal human intervention. Jahnke says such a classification immediately raised concerns that something had gone wrong.

Jahnke tells me once he called his contact at the FCC to report the problem, he was told the computer contractor would be notified to investigate.

A couple days later, Jahnke says he was told the problem was fixed. But, as Jahnke tells me, he checked and found that the computer problem had gotten worse. He says he and other VECs were finding the U-L-S had begun issuing Group D call signs - the 2 X 3 ones - to new licensees out of sequence. He says only the first and third call-district applications somehow escaped getting caught up in the problem.

At that point, Jahnke tells Amateur Radio Newsline he and other VECs called the FCC. He says the commission told the contractor to pull the plug on the system on Nov. 5, run some diagnostics and fix it. A message posted on the FCC's website on Nov. 5 said simply: "The granting of Amateur applications has been temporarily suspended. We apologize for the inconvenience."

Prospective hams who had passed VE exams earlier and were awaiting their call sign were getting nervous. Some who received the out-of-sequence call signs were wondering whether the call signs were OK to use. A few had even received a second call sign, cancelling the first. In all, Jahnke says about 130 licensees were affected and thousands of license applications were backed up in the system.

By Nov. 10, Jahnke says the FCC began issuing letters cancelling the out-of-sequence call signs and awarding the proper call signs to new licensees. For some, he says it was their third call sign in a matter of days.

Jahnke says the FCC deserves credit for responding as fast as it did. He also has praise for the other VECs across the country who were in touch the with FCC, too. Jahnke says he's crossing his fingers and hoping the planned weekend maintenance of the FCC U-L-S computer, won't undo the system fix.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia.

More on this situation in future Amateur Radio Newsline reports. (ARNewsline(tm), NT3V with input from FCC and ARRL)

UNEXPECTED VHF DX:  THE BIG AURORA OPENING OF NOVEMBER 7

N6ZE:  "The aurora was very bright most of the time and the magnetic bearing from the airplane extended from 300 degress through about 060 or 070. We saw this for about 3 hours and a distance of probably 1900 statute miles."

---

That's Pete Heins, N6ZE, describing last Sunday night and early Monday's magnificent Aurora from his vantage point in the right seat of a Boeing 757 jetliner. Pete was the co-pilot that night, flying from Los Angeles to New York's J-F-K International airport.

N6ZE: "At no time was the visability obscured by clouds, and for about the last 1 hour of the flight we did have about a 1/4 moon in the Eastern sky climbing, and we were still able to see the AU."

And while Pete was making his way across country, hams on the ground were sitting on 6 meters, 2 meters and all the bands above. And some like Dave Bernhardt, N7DB, in Boring, Oregon were hearing and working stations all over the place. Dave primarily operated 2 meters where according to the V-H-F reflector he worked W7IUV, K7XC, K7GS, WA6KLK and VE7DXG to name only a few. And Dave was not alone.

On the other side of the country, Jeff Klein, K1TEO, in Trumbull, Connecticut reports making Aurora propagation contacts on 2 Meters as far south as Alabama and Tennessee. To the west Jeff worked stations in Missouri, Iowa and Minnesota.

According to reports from NASA, the Auroral opening was caused by a Coronal Mass Ejection or C-M-E on the Sun. That event happened late on Friday, November 5th with the ionized particles reaching our Earth late on Sunday. Television news programs on Monday night showed pictures of this very bright Aurora as far South as Minnesota and northern Kansas.

On Tuesday the 9th two more solar shocks have arrived. Paul Kelly, N1BUG, in Milo, New Hampshire reported them on the VHF Reflector. The first hit just after 09:00 UTC but did not contain favorable magnetic field vectors or strength to produce Aurora at North American mid-latitudes. The second, arriving near 18:20 U-T-C did produce the classic Aurora buzzing. He later describe this event comig just in time for the natural late afternoon peak for auroral backscatter.  He says that the Aurora came up fast and suddenly 2 meters filled with strong buzzing  signals.  He says over the reflector that he worked as far South as grid square E M 66.

And while hams who only operate the high frequency bands were complaining that 80 through 10 meter propagation had literally disappeared, those like N1BUG, N7DB and K1TEO on 6 meters, 2 meters and above were calling C-Q Aurora and making lots of contacts.  All that is except Pete Heins, N6ZE, who landed his big silver bird at New York's J-F-K airport just as the sun was coming up.  Then again, you have to admit that sitting at 37,000 feet on the flight deck of a 757, Pete probably had the best view of all.  (ARNewsline(tm), N6ZE, VHF Reflector)

By the way, Dick Mannheimer, K6LAE, who was one of the first to alert us to the Aurora also passes along information on an excellent propagation website.  Its in cyberspace at www.hfradio.org/propagation.html

The site is operated by Thomas Hood, NW7US.  If the name and call sign sound familiar its because this is the same Thomas Hood who writes propagation columns for CQ, CQ VHF, Popular Communications and Monitoring Times magazines.

We have looked at the site.  It's well worth bookmarking on your web browser.  Again the URL is www.hfradio.org/propagation.html  (K6LAE)

HELPING HAMS: UNITED WAY REPORTS HUGE HAM RADIO RESPONSE TO ARRL HOLIDAY TOY DRIVE

The United Way in Martin County, Florida, reports "a huge response" by the Amateur Radio community. This, to the ARRL's call to support a toy drive on behalf of the agency's "White Doves Holiday Project."

According to the ARRL Letter, Carol Hodnett, who directs the United Way of Martin County's Volunteer and Community Resource Center says League members from Maine to California have sent toys or money, and more is arriving every day. The League hopes to provide toys for youngsters left homeless or displaced by a string of hurricanes that hit the region earlier this year.

There is still time for you to take part in this very worthwhile project. All you need do is to purchase an unwrapped toy for a boy or girl aged 1 to 14. Please send it prior to Thanksgiving, Thursday, November 25th. Be sure to include a QSL card or 3x5 card displaying your call sign. Mail it to Ham Radio, The United Way White Dove Project, 50 Kindred St, Suite 207, Stuart, FL 34994.

In our view this is Amateur Radio at its very best. Hams helping kids in a true time of need. (ARRL)

ENFORCEMENT: ARE YOU THIS PERSON?

An FCC license holder who is likely a ham is being asked by the agency if he is the same person convicted of a number of criminal acts. And the agency has an important reason for asking. Spokesman Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, explains:

Duckworth: "Regarding qualifications to remain a licensee, in inquiry concerning criminal convictions for theft by deception and theft by failure to make required disposition of funds as the result of an investment scam went to a licensee in Johnstown, Pennsylvania."

According to the FCC release, the person involved is also under investigation by Pennsylvania Administrative Office of the Courts for a possible indecent assault.  This is alleged to have been committed on July 30th, 2002.

The purpose of the probe is to determine if the person contacted is the same one as in the alleged and proven criminal cases.  For that reason the FCC has withheld the persons identity or any other factual material to indicate whom he or she might be.

But if its the right person, he or she was given two options by the agency.  The person can provide additional information on the convictions and charges for consideration by the Commission. Alternately, he or she can voluntarily submit a license for cancellation in order to avoid a hearing on the issue.  (FCC, RAIN)

ENFOECEMENT:  YOU CAN'T SELL THAT BEACON

Still with enforcement news, word that ACR Electronics, Inc. of Fort Lauderdale, Florida, has been fined $75,000.  This, for marketing a personal location beacon to the general public that had not been approved by the Commission.

Now here's the ironic part?  The CGC Communicator reports that some of the material submitted to the FCC by ACR helped make the case against the company.

ENFORCEMENT:  POWER - LESS POWER CAPTAIN

An unlicensed broadcaster's response to an FCC Notice of Violation has helped to clinch a $10,000 fine issued against him. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, has the details.

Well, the details really speak for themselves and we would be hard put to say it better than David Michael Oaks. Oaks is the one who received the $10,000 fine for allegedly operating an FM station at his residence in Beaverton, Oregon. This, without the benefit oof holding a valid license to do so.

Quoting from the FCC report and order affirming the fine, the agency says that in responding, Oaks did not deny the charge. Rather, he stated that he was attempting to correct the violation by lowering the power each time he received a notice that he was operating an unlicensed station.

But that's not all. The FCC goes on to say that Oaks asserted that the investigating agent told him that the effective range for a transmitter operating pursuant to Part 15 of the Rules is about 100 feet. Also, that if Oaks chose to do so, he could purchase a Part 15 certified wireless microphone to compare the range of that signal with that of his station.

Oaks did not choose to do so. Nor did he refrain from operating after receiving several written warnings. Based on all of this evidence, the FCC says that the $10,000 fine will stand.

RESCUE RADIO: PROPOSED RADIO JAMMING SYSTEM DROPPED FOR THE MOMENT

Some good news and some bad about an emergency information system proposed by Alert Devices International Corporation. The company has requested that the FCC to dismiss its Petition for Rule Making to create an Emergency Vehicle Signaling Service. This is the previously described service that would allow emergency vehicles to jam out authorized broadcast stations and replace them with emergency warning messages designed to attract the attention of affected motorists.

The good news is that the FCC has granted A-D-I's dismissal request. The bad news is that ADI - according to its latest filing - proposes to submit an "expanded version" of its Petition in the near future. ## MORE POWER CAPTAIN: ELECTRICAL INDUSTRY CHASTISED FOR 2003 BLACKOUT

Those wonderful people that are now bringing you BPL have bigger problems to worry about. This after Federal regulators issue a scathing review of the electricity industry's voluntary efforts to make their power grids more reliable.

The report comes about a year after nation's worst blackout that hit on August 14th of 2003. According to staff at the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, power industry audits play down shortcomings of the grid system, rely on ambiguous standards that often are ignored and reflect vast differences between the best and the worst performers.

But the agency's chairman Pat Wood did say that there have been improvements since the blackout that was caused by power line problems in Ohio and affected eight states from Michigan to New York as well as parts of Canada. (Published reports)

IN PRINT: ALL ABOUT TONE

And with more and more repeaters implementing some form of tone access, it is C-Q Magazine that's taking the lead in explaining how it works to the ham community. In his three page article in the November issue, writer Dave Ingram, K4TWJ, "How It Works" column traces the use of tone access and explains why it can be far more of a friend to hams than a way to keep them off a system they may want to try. TELECOMMUNICATIONS SECURETY: PASSCODE FROM AMERICA ONLINE

Turning to the high tech page, America Online says that it will begin offering members a security device and service that has been used to safeguard business computer networks. This after parent company Time Warner Inc. announces that its AOL unit has signed a deal with Internet security company RSA Security Inc., to launch its new AOL PassCode.

Using an ever changing algorithm, the system is designed to add an additional layer of protection to member accounts. PassCode users will be provided with a small handheld six-digit numeric code key which refresh on the device every 60 seconds. To log onto an AOL account equipped with the service, users will have to type in the six-digits in addition to their regular password.

The price of the code-key device will be $9.95. Service costs will range from $1.95 to $4.95 per month. This, in addition to the usual America Online subscription fee. (AOL, published reports)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: FALSING CALLER ID

The Washington Post reports that a new technology can trick U.S. caller-ID services into displaying someone else's name and telephone number. The Web-based systems make the name and number appear in a call recipient's caller-ID box.

A company called Star38 that launched in September with plans to market to debt collectors has changed its strategy after consumers complained. Star38 admitted the approach was "flawed," and now says it will market their system to law enforcement agencies.

New Jersey-based Camophone says it will perform the service on a call-by-call basis for a fee of $5 and up. The company said it recognizes that the service could be abused but insists its intent is to help customers protect their privacy.

But consumers worry that the technology could be used by stalkers and debt-collection agencies, some consumers worry. The Direct Marketing Association said masking a marketer's identity is illegal under rules enforced by the Federal Trade Commission and the Federal Communications Commission. (Washington Post)

WORLDBEAT - UK: FINAL G5RV LOGBOOK RETRIEVED FROM EBAY

Meantime, word from the United Kingdom that the final log book of one of the worlds best-known radio amateurs has been saved for posterity. This, after it was put up for auction on eBay.

The late Louis Varney, G5RV, of G5RV antenna fame was one of the founding members of the Chelmsford Amateur Radio Society in 1936. So when Chelmsford club member Duncan Munro, M0KGK spotted that G5RV's last ever logbook was being auctioned, the club decided to buy it.

Munro did the bidding. Despite fierce competition he managed to secure the logbook in the last eight seconds of auction.

The logbook shows that G5RV's final QSO's took place on the 11th January 2000 and were , appropriately enough recorded on page 73 of the logbook. The stations contacted were Ron Glover, G0WGP, in West Sussix and club President Harry Heap, G5HF, in Chelmsford. Louis was, of course, using his famed G5RV antenna for all of the contacts. (GB2RS)

THAT FINAL ITEM: UK HAMS ON THE AIR WITH EXPANDED 40 METER PRIVELEGES

And finally this week, hams in the U-K have taken to the airwaves with their recently expanded privileges. RSGB Newsreader Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, is where it all took place:

UK radio amateurs gained access to new frequencies between 7.1 and 7.2MHz from 31st October.
After dark, the band between 7.1 and 7.2MHz is still full of powerful broadcast stations, although some clear frequencies can be found.

The band became available on the second day of the CQ World Wide DX Phone Contest. Many UK stations took advantage of the new band by making contest QSOs with stations in the USA on their own frequency, instead of having to work 'split' as had been the case when contacting North America on 40 metres SSB.

During the daytime, numerous UK stations are now able to have virtually interference-free inter-G contacts above 7.1mhz.

The new band is available to radio amateurs on a Secondary, non-interference, basis until 2009. After the end of March 2009, the broadcast stations should move to other frequencies and 7.1 to 7.2MHz will then become an amateur Primary band.

Jeremy Boot, G4NJH, in Nottingham.

Amateurs in the Republic of Ireland were also granted access to 7.1 to 7.2 MHz towards the end of October, joining those in Croatia, Norway and San Marino who already had access to these frequencies. Hams in Switzerland will also gain access to 7.1 to 7.2MHz from 1st January 2005.  (GB2RS)

A wireless message relayed to a ship rescuing survivors from the Titanic -- and sent by Guglielmo Marconi, the creator of wireless radio -- was sold for almost $5,500 yesterday at a British auction house.

The Marconigram, asking for news of the 1912 disaster, was relayed from New York to the SS Carpathia as members of her crew plucked survivors from the Atlantic Ocean. Transcribed in pencil, a Marconigram was transmitted by a wireless designed by the man known as the father of radio.

That's real nice. But taking a cue out of your playbook I must ask if the Globe and Mail are on shortwave?

Is the auction house on shortwave?

Is Marconi still on shortwave?

Is the Titanic stil on shortwave?

Back then, did the Titanic or Marconi actually use shortwave, or was it what we know today as longwave?

Etc.

The Daily DX http://www.dailydx.com/ reports that new 60-meter beacons are on the air from England and Scotland. GB3WES in Cumbria, England, and GB3ORK in Scotland's Orkney Islands join GB3RAL in Oxfordshire, which has been on the air since mid-2003. All transmit on 5290 kHz. Each beacon has a stepped transmit power sequence and a 30-second sounder sequence of 0.5 ms pulses at 40 Hz. All three beacons transmit at a nominal power of 10 W.

There's more information, including how to file reception reports, on the RSGB Beacon Reporting website

I doubt that would work.  If I didn't know anything about him and was bidding on something, I would look at his feedback and figure YOU had an axe to grind and bid anyway.  I don't know how many people would do the same. Knowing what I DO know, (which is only what a few of you say) he has many more happy customers than unhappy and it's not out of the question that I MIGHT bid on something of his.  It would depend on many things...

Alas My 7030+ "portable" doesn't have a handle as it weighs too much for the handle that the case company (elenco?) makes for it.  Too bad, it was a slick handle.

But the radio is mounted in a case with two sets of NIMH battery packs that put out 14.4v, the Avantek preamp, and a rapid charger.  A little too interesting at the airport check in lines, and I wouldn't want to take it on a hike, but it fits in an attache case sized toolbox, and it's a heck of a lot more portable than the Racal 6790/gm I used to take on camping trips and vacations.

It also has 3.24 and 6.8khz crystal filters that were originally made for the 6790, so the audio is beautiful too.  :)

MFJ stuff seems to be aimed at the penny pinching consumer.  Give me something Uncle Sam paid a fortune for and I'll probably be happy.  I also bought a preamp a few years ago for about $50 from an outfit in Connecticut - forget the brand.  It performed well, but died young.

The magic of the amrad really is in the preamp - and if I was building one, that's where I'd start.  You can even buy a PC board for it.

I'm not sure how Wellbrook does what they do, and they stick the electronics in epoxy or something similar so folks can't copy the circuit - but folks who have them all seem to like them and feel they perform as advertised.

Not sure how you'd get their email addresses, but I'd venture a guess at least one of the bidders would turn you in to ebay.  (How do you know you're not warning a

Yes that is half true Honus. There is nothing wrong with the bible at all, but rather how various groups twist the information therein to fit the hate they are trying to spread.

you have all sorts of white hate groups like the Michigan militia, the KKK, the Order, the skin heads, and thousands of other hate groups who hold the Bible up in the air and try to justify their mad dog white supremacist ideology.

There is absolutely nothing in the bible that supports their ignorant notions that white people are inherently better than darker people.

The truth is that nearly every important person in the Bible is black or dark skinned, from Noah, to Moses to Jesus.

It is also a very nasty thing to do trying to tie in the gay rights movement with racism.

Black people are highly spoken of through out the Bible. God even says that he loves them.

Whereas some of the strongest condemnation in the Bible goes to homosexuals. It is called an ABOMINATION. GOD blew up an entire city because of his disgust with homosexuality. If you claim to be a Christian, you need to understand those things and live by them.

George Bush, Jerry Falwell, and Pat Robinson, calls himself a Christian. He condemns abortion in one breath, and then approves the killing of tens of thousands of innocent Iraqi and Afghani babies, children, and others.

In the tenth commandments, the bible says "Thou shalt not kill" period!!

I don't see anywhere in the bible where it says a person will be rewarded with a ticket to heaven for: lying, thieving, massacring thousands of innocents, deliberately putting America in the path of destruction , coddling our enemies, worshipping money, and trampling over our friends.

What is then? Your opinion? :-) Can you make the sun rise and set? The seasons change? If, not, then maybe you and those who don't look to nay higher power need to sit down and rethink things.

When the earth starts trembling violently, which way do you look? Up towards heaven? Or down towards Satan?

You can if you want, but I would prefer if you would give me the book chapter and verse so I can read it for myself, and thank you if you share something with me that is relevant.

What American people really need to read is the book of Proverbs. I don't know who wrote that book, but it is full of wisdoms, that if they were followed would result in a much better planet for all of us.

Read the Beatitudes also.

They say things like: Blessed are the peacemakers for they shall inherit the earth.

What does that mean? What I'm saying is that they have no proof using science, nature, religion, or culture that gives them grounds to demand that their lifestyle be given equal treatment to normal heterosexual people.

If you have information from people that the world loves, Nobel peace prize folks for example, then show it to me. Don't however, post anything written by some unknown groups of folks.

Yes, it can be FOUND! We all know that, but only in 2 or 3% of the population whether it be human, monkeys, chimps, or any other animal.

An intelligent person would not try and turn a society upside down for something that is so obviously despised worldwide and practiced by so few people. It is deviant behavior just like people who screw sheep, jack rabbits, guinea pigs etc.

Because homosexuality is given the STRONGEST condemnation of anything in the Bible. GOD blew up a city because he despised it so much. You may think you are wise, but I have a lot more trust in what I see in the KJV, than from what issues from your mouth.

Very true. I have taken a semester long course on electricity however, and in every instance likes repel, and opposites attract.
>You've chosen to use a not very good analogy.  Human sexuality is not >as simple as you want us to believe.

For most of us it is simple. We all have thoughts of doing things that we know we shouldn't. Most of us have enough self control that we don't do everything that we think about. Or if we do do it, we don't go out and try to legalize it. We just keep quiet about it.

Do you see a movement afoot to legalize adultery? Many of us have done that. It is a lot more natural than being a queer. Yet adulterers are wise enough to keep quiet about what they are doing and not try and make the Nation swallow that this is a moral, and uplifting way to live.

Gays should go back in the closet and be quite. If they don't, they are going to anger WHITE Americans to the point where they may decide to get rid of homosexuals.

We can all see right now just how violent white men can be when they get angry about something. It doesn't matter whether they are right or wrong. They control the weapons, and they decide who lives and who dies. That will probably change much sooner than we think however.

Maybe so, but as you conveniently neglected to mention the two penguins weren't bongholing each other? did the article show pictures of them doing that? I have lots of kittens, and I feed them, keep them warm on my chest when they are cold, and the mother doesn't want to do it, I buried one this morning that died from distemper.

The BBC is planning to axe as many as 50 per cent of jobs across the board, insiders revealed today.

A raft of cuts is being designed to prove the BBC is giving value for money before a review of its 10-year royal charter in 2006.

High-ranking sources say earlier rumours of 6,000 losses from 28,000 staff may turn out to be a wild underestimate.

No you can contact bidders on Ebay with even bidding. Check the names on the bids of the item, hit their feedback, then "Contact member"

You can see the shadow of her left hand and the shadow of the smoke at the top of the abortuary.  That is the shadow caused by the flash camera.

Did you read of all the folks who saw it?

Wonder why it got so little coverage?

I'll bet had she doused herself with gasoline and THEN walked into the abortuary to light herself up it would have gotten LOTS of attention -- especially had she grabbed a baby killer around the neck before flicking her Bic!  Oh, I can see the headlines and hear the comments now, but I'll save them for later!  ;-)

Yes. I was a professional phographer at one time and I'm still avidly involved in freelance work. The cut and paste in that middle pic is sub par.

Interesting is that the guy starts off on a bad foot at the start... "Our budget was $600 at most, including tax; we could not go a penny higher."

To me that says it all... he's simply justifying his purchase. (bias).

Nice article though.

Not to mention the squaring off of the pasted pic and no shadow behind the

I don't know that much about DRM, but my understanding is that stations either come in very clearly or not at all. In other words, if there's a really distant station, you can't dig it out of the mud and just have to write it off. Is that correct? If so, I don't think I'd want a DRM receiver. But again, I could be wrong about this.

MII,

Actually most of the good old fashion "International Communist"
[Socialist One Worlders] are what is now being called NEO-DEMS and they form the backbone (Hard-Core) of the Political Cadre of
the Democrat Party of the USA.
{These are a "Stalinist" Faction of the Neo-Dem 'The Movement'.}

For the most part these NEO-DEMS are ELILIST who believe that their "Special Knowledge" places them above the 'common people'
as Leaders {Overseers} of Thought and Deed [.]

One "Cause" that the NEO-DEMS 'champion' is "Environmentalism"
as a means of using an Issue to Gain Power and Control over the Masses; and Dictating "How People Act and Live" according to the 'Environmental Dogma' of the Leadership of 'The Movement'.
{These are a "Maoist" Faction of the Neo-Dem 'The Movement'.}

SD,

Good 'old fashion' (Tried-and-True) "Analog" AM International Broadcasting {Long Distance} may have it's FADE and Weak Signals.
- Remember Analog Celphones ?

DRM "Digital" AM Broadcasting AM International Broadcasting {Long Distance} has it's Signal Drop-Off.
- Its Here (Can be Heard) "Great Sound" and then Its Gone [.]
- Think of Digital Celphones !

DRM may be good and useful for In-Country 1000 Mile Broadcasting;
but for "Around-the-World" International Broadcasting it offers no real advantage in Punching the Signal Through and Getting Heard.

NOTE: Single Side Band (SSB) Transmissions do a better
'energy efficent' job and has a real advantage in Punching the Signal Through and Getting Heard.

The Most Cost-Effective-Method and the Trend for Governments and 'others' who want to get their Message-Out to the Masses of other Countries will continue to be Internet Broadcasting "On-Demand"

Streaming Audio that is THERE when the Listener Whats to Hear It; and Host Country Re-Broadcasting via 'local' AM and FM Band Radios; or via "In-Country" Shortwave Relays.

If you've never heard of this twisted SOB, brace yourself before you go to that link. Their old slogan was "Documenting the desecration" or something along those lines. He took the biblical notion of bringing the evil in the world into the light a little too literally. It was the only Christian site that I know of where you could actually see two men "going at it". So clear the air, Patrick...do you support this guy? I can't wait for Mr. Martin and Mr. Knowledge to chime in.

INVADER 3 K,

Since you have your Grundig Yacht Boy (YB) 400 PE Radio and the Sony AN-LP1 Active Antenna to start with; try a few test first.

Your problem is two-fold the Building Frame is acting like an RF Shield and the RFI/EMF of the Building is be Trapped and Reflected within the Building.  The Result is Low Signal Levels and High Noise Levels.

"IF" (Big If) you can open your Windows and Remove the Screen:
Then 'buy/get' the following:
1 - Roll of Black Electrical Tape
1 - 25 Foot Piece of 1/8" or 3/16" Rope
1 - 10 Foot Piece of 1/2" or 3/4" PVC Pipe
1 - PVC Pipe "T" Joint same size as the Pipe

*  Place (Glue) the "T" Joint on one end of the PVC Pipe.

*  Tie one Rope end through the "T" Joint.

*  Take the Loop Head of the Sony AN-LP1 Active Antenna and Plug it into the Feed-in-Line Cable and 'tape' the Connection.

*  Tape the Loop-Head to the "T" so that the Loop-Head is Hanging Down and Perpendicular to the Length of the PVC Pipe.

*  Tape the Feed-in-Line Cable and the Rope to the PVC Pipe each Foot (12") to secure it and to act as a Distance Marker.

*  Secure the other end of the Rope to a Table Leg or Chair.

*  Plug the Sony AN-LP1 Controller into the Radio.

OUT THE WINDOW SIGNAL-TO-NOISE TESTING:

Start with the Sony AN-LP1 Loop-Head next to the Surface of the Building and "Test" for Shortwave Reception on several of the Shortwave Bands 'noting' (Writing Down) what can be Heard.

Move the Loop Head out One Foot from the Surface of the Building and again "Test" for Shortwave Reception on several of the Shortwave Bands 'noting' what can be Heard at this distance from the Building.

Move the Loop Head out Two Feet from the Surface of the Building and again "Test" for Shortwave Reception on several of the Shortwave Bands 'noting' what can be Heard at this distance from the Building.

Repeat this "Test" at: Two Feet from the Surface of the Building;

Three Feet from the Surface of the Building; Two Feet from the Surface of the Building; Four Feet from the Surface of the Building; Five Feet from the Surface of the Building; Six Feet from the Surface of the Building; and Seven Feet from the Surface of the Building. Record your Results at each Distance.

Now start pulling the Loop-Head back-in One Foot at a time and again "Testing" your Reception at each Foot.

You should find that between three and five feet away from the Surface of the Building; that your Reception Improves with Higher Signal Levels and Lower Noise Levels. (You're outside the RF 'envelop' of the Building.)

YOUR ANTENNA CHOICES ARE:

* Placing the Loop-Head 'sticking-out' the Window when you are Listening to Shortwave. You are already set-up to do so :o)

* Shooting an Antenna Wire Element from the Window to some object (Tree etc) of another building. Use an small Insulated Wire like Hook-Up Wire. RadioShack Catalog #: 278-1218

* Dropping a 'very thin' 30-50 Foot Antenna Wire Element from the Window with a small Rubber Ball as a weight. Adjust the Length of the Wire so that the Rubber Ball is between Floors and not hitting any Windows. RadioShack Catalog # 278-502

TIP: Often the Metal Frames of Window use in newer Building are Grounded. If for the last Six Feet (6') of your Antenna you use a Piece of Audio Patch Cord with a 1/8" Mono-Plug at one end and Tinned Leads at the other end. RadioShack Catalog # 42-2434
- Tie a Double Overhand Knot with the Antenna Wire and the Patch Cord. http://www.iland.net/~jbritton/doubleoverhandknot.htm
- Then Solder the Antenna Wire Element to the Center Wire of the Patch Cord.
- Next at about One Foot from this Knot 'strip' about Three Inches of the Outer Cover from the Patch Cord to "Expose" the BARE Shield-Wire.
- Run/Route the Antenna Wire Element and 'position' the Patch Cord so that when the Window is Closed-Shut the BARE Shield-Wire is 'pinched' between the Metal Parts of the Window.
- Plug the 1/8" Mono-Plug into the Radio's 1/8" Mono-Jack External Antenna Input.

LM,

One 'dynamic' of "9/11" was for many Americans to do a Self Assessment of 'Who-They-Are' ? ? ?

Most self-identified themselves by their life experiences and family histories as 'basically' be Christians in their Beliefs.
[ As 'contrasted' to Islam and Atheism. ]

In Doing So: Identifying themselves as 'secular' Christians in their basic "Beliefs": These Americans "Voted" their 'personal' deeply held "Fundamental" AMERICAN Values.

LOOK AT IT THIS WAY:

About 1/3 of American Citizens (Voters) would 'identify themselves' as "Practicing Christians" {Weekly Church Going Christians}.

About 1/3 of American Citizens (Voters) would 'identify themselves' as 'secular christians' as reflected by "Their" Personal Life History and the American Culture and Traditions "They" Observe.
{Attend Church at Christmas and Easter; and Get Baptized and Get Married in a Church.}

About 1/3 of American Citizens (Voters) would 'identify themselves' as something "Other". Such as: Jewish, Islamic, Buddhist, Hindu, or may be an Agnostic; or possibly an Atheist.
- Many of whom LOVE Their Country !

This Is WHY I Said: Most (Two-Thirds) would 'self-identified' themselves by their life experiences and family histories as 'basically' be Christians in their Beliefs.
[ As 'contrasted' to Islam and Atheism. ]

You may wish to Label them as "Fundamentalism" Christians.
But most whould simply say: "Hey Your Right, I 'am' a Christian !"

well that is my 'theory' - what more can i say ~ RHF
I can agree with John 'ff' Kerry on one thing:
"God Bless America" amen, Amen. and AMEN !

The Owners manual I downloaded doesn't say whether the YB550 is dual conversion... and the address they gave to write for additional info customersvc@etonncorp.com is not active. So I'm assuming that if it were dual conversion, they'd have mentioned it and there would not be so much confusion. Does anyone know for sure?

Agree completely.  The downside of having a free forum is that it is unmoderated and any fool can rant on for pages.  Because I've never heard of a message being deleted or an id revoked, I assume the google groups are wide open.  Many of the authors of these pointless messages are looking to provoke a response. By ignoring them we exercise the only control we have.  The others who use the shotgun approach and post the same message to many forums rarely read any responses.  They are sending this stuff out for their own self-enhancement.

Best to keep with the shortwave related posts and ignore the fools.

MII,

Actually most of the good old fashion "International Communist"
[Socialist One Worlders] are what is now being called NEO-DEMS
and they form the backbone (Hard-Core) of the Political Cadre of
the Democrat Party of the USA.
{These are a "Stalinist" Faction of the Neo-Dem 'The Movement'.}

For the most part these NEO-DEMS are ELILIST who believe that their "Special Knowledge" places them above the 'common people'
as Leaders {Overseers} of Thought and Deed [.]

One "Cause" that the NEO-DEMS 'champion' is "Environmentalism"
as a means of using an Issue to Gain Power and Control over the Masses; and Dictating "How People Act and Live" according to the 'Environmental Dogma' of the Leadership of 'The Movement'.
{These are a "Maoist" Faction of the Neo-Dem 'The Movement'.}

so say i, my opinions stated as facts ~ RHF

Hom many people voted and how long did it take to count the vote?
I am asking because this is an ongoing debate at work, with me taking the anti-technology position that newer isn't always better.

Kentuky had about 99% of the votes counted within 2 hours of the western precincts closing. We have the added joy of being in two time zones.
Which is better then 30+ years ago when the state had eastern and central time zones and an odd mix of DST and non DST counties.

Here in KY, the absentee ballots could not effect the outcome for President. Even if they were all for Kerry, it would not have been enough to shift the result. Granting that the count was "fair".

I argue you can have it fast or accurate, you choose.
And they respond that "Terry, you are just nuts!"
This inspite of the fact that our credit union, with about 100,000 members, have at least one case of ID theft a WEEK! The blind sheep refuse to see that paperless means theft prone.

SB PROP ARL ARLP046
ARLP046 Propagation de K7RA

This was a wild week for propagation, fraught with radio blackouts, 6-meter auroral propagation, wild solar wind and severe geomagnetic storms.

Looking at the numbers summarized at the end of each bulletin, this week's average daily planetary A index (indicating geomagnetic instability) was up by nearly 70 points to 77.6, and the mid-latitude A index increased over 36 points to 41.9. Average daily sunspot numbers and solar flux declined. Our reporting week, for the convenience of putting out this report prior to each weekend, runs from each Thursday through the following Wednesday.

The prediction for the next few days is for continuing aurora displays and geomagnetic storms, but the storms should subside. The predicted planetary A index for today, November 12, is 100, followed by 30 on Saturday and 10 on Sunday. Today's possible geomagnetic storm is predicted because of a coronal mass ejection blown into space on November 10. But this blast is not aimed at earth, so the effect is not as strong as it would be if the event were squarely in the middle of the solar disk.

Predicted solar flux, which averaged under 130 this week, is expected to decline over the next few days and then rise again, with predicted flux values of 90, 85, 85, 90, 100 and 105 for November 12-17. Solar flux and associated sunspot numbers for the short term are expected to peak some time around November 23-24.

A good web site to look at to see the rise of geomagnetic numbers over several latitudes is at, http://www.sec.noaa.gov/ftpdir/indices/DGD.txt. This shows the previous month, so if you're looking at this in the future (perhaps on the archive on the http://www.arrl.org/w1aw/prop/ web site), you'll only see the current conditions, not what we're seeing today.

The numbers are quite dramatic, especially if you have a feel for the A index and K index that you hear on the hourly WWV broadcasts, and how they relate to what you are hearing on the air.

Lots of mail came in concerning geomagnetic storms, which accompanied unstable and often unusable conditions on the HF bands, but produced interesting propagation and excitement on VHF. Jon Jones, N0JK, paraphrasing last week's bulletin, wrote that "The VHF Community is not hoping 'it is more moderate than the current prediction.'"

Chip Margelli, K7JA wrote an interesting note concerning HF conditions at the end of the CW Sweepstakes followed by all the excitement on 6-meters. He said that some signals on 15-meters had a distinct aurora flutter, but others were completely flutter-free and quite loud. About 50 percent of the stations to the east of him (he is in Southern California) had an auroral characteristic.

I'll let Chip tell the rest: "About 0545z November 8th (late Sunday night in California), KH6SX reported on the 50 MHz Propagation Logger that he was hearing the K6FV beacon on 6-meters. I quickly rotated my beam in his direction, and with one call I had him in the log. His signal was full of rapid aurora flutter, which is astounding for a path to Hawaii!"

He goes on to say, "The opening then moved westward, with W6YM, WA6KLK, KG6I, and others in the Northern California working him. It progressed to the Northwest, where N7EPD, KE7V, K7SS, and undoubtedly more logged him. Then further west to KL7FZ in BP51! And then JA2DDN and a host of other JAs were worked by KH6SX!"

Chip adds, "From here in Southern California, the signal characteristics suggest some odd auroral-E to AU link. It's hard to imagine a "normal" E opening with such a wide distribution, and the westward progression suggests an enhancement ahead of the heliopause. But I think the book may need some re-writing on this one, and the exact mechanics are a bit of a mystery to me. I bet an inspection of the solar wind velocity plots after 0500z would make interesting reading."

He continues, "No easterly propagation was observed, to my knowledge, from Southern California prior to the KH6 event. If this really was an aurora event worked from Hawaii, this may be a "first," and KH6SX is to be congratulated for being so on the ball!"

The 50 MHz Propagation Logger web page that Chip mentioned is at, http://www.dxworld.com/50prop.html.

K7SS here in Seattle related moments of sheer joy on 6-meters. It was reported that in Connecticut, Dennis Motschenbacher, K7BV, bagged his fiftieth state on 50 MHz when he worked Kevin Forster, NL7Z in Wasilla, Alaska via aurora.

Junji Saito, JA7SSB wrote that he was on 20 and 30 meters on November 8 around 1430-1500z (late evening in Japan) when the bands are usually closed for him, but he generated a big pileup of European stations. He noticed that the signals had deep fading and echoes.

Carl Zelich, AA4MI sent in a useful link to a glossary of solar-terrestrial terms. It is on the NOAA Space Environment Center web site at http://www.sec.noaa.gov/info/glossary.html.

For more information concerning propagation and an explanation of the numbers used in this bulletin see the ARRL Technical Information Service propagation page at, http://www.arrl.org/tis/info/propagation.html.

Sunspot numbers for November 4 through 10 were 135, 83, 106, 94, 93, 90 and 50 with a mean of 93. 10.7 cm flux was 136, 141.2, 128.8, 129.6, 124.1, 140.9 and 104.6, with a mean of 129.3. Estimated planetary A indices were 7, 4, 3, 39, 189, 120 and 181, with a mean of 77.6. Estimated mid-latitude A indices were 5, 1, 4, 19, 116, 47 and 101, with a mean of 41.9.

The latter is a misleading part of an otherwise interesting report. I'm sure it was their experience on the bands they were on, you just can't draw conclusions that they intend the reader to make.  Propagation from Pt Reyes (Southern) California to the East coast was consistent for part of every day and almost all night long, all week.

I power everything from solar and a 440 amp-hour battery bank.

Some thoughts:

- EVERY wire to/from the battery (bank) must be fused.
- All of my batteries are gel-cells, obtained at rock-bottom prices from people who replace life-critical batteries every year.  $30 for an 80 Ah battery and the like.
- I use the West Mountain Radio Rigrunner for distribution to individual radios.  Size the fuses there appropriately -- these are the ones that should blow from something going wrong "normally" (as opposed to a catastrophic failure, which is what the battery fuses are for).
- If you use a charger powered by the mains, make sure that it tops off properly and handles overload conditions gracefully.  The reason for the latter is obvious.  The reason for the former -- ESPECIALLY with gel-cells or AGM batteries is that overcharging destroys them.
- If you use solar power, chargers are available from a large number of places.  I recommend Morningstar.  There are also Maximum Power Point chargers that will produce the most efficient voltage/current for the panels, but cost more.
- For solar panels, I recommend Solarex.
- For solar equipment suppliers, I recommend Backwoods Solar (www.backwoodssolar.com)

I purchased a new Icom R-75 about 3 weeks ago, and noticed that there is no clear plastic window covering the LCD panel. Touching the LCD panel causes the blurring or distortion effect on the digits that you would normally see.

After checking the Yahoo newsgroup one other person responded that his R75 does not have the window either. This surprises me, since even my $5 desk calculator has a protective window for the LCD panel.

So now I'm wondering if it was left off some radios during manufacture, or if this is actually a design flaw.

Could owners of R-75's please reply to this post whether or not their receiver has a clear protective window over the LCD panel?

My R 5000 just developed a noise problem that masks signals at aprox 8 mhz and up and is awful at the 10 meter band.....I suspect microprocessor noise or synthsizer noise is getting into the front end......perhaps a buypass cap has gone bad some where...has any one had a problem like this?????...GC

My R-75 didn't come with any friggin' Saran Wrap patches stuck to it.
Usually it is the sync detector the people complain about.

Just kiss it up to god and hope for the best...

I have been getting superb performance from my RF Systems DX 1 Pro active antenna for some years now. It is made in Holland and is used by many embassies and government services. My reception on LW, MW and Tropical Bands is outstanding and the antenna is very quiet compared with my longwire antenna's which I have now dismantled.

Get a copy of Passport 2005 where you will find very good reviews of all the available active antenna's. They favour the Wellbrook antenna's.
See http://www.passband.com/ if you want to order one

Don't believe what they say about the DX 1 being noisy, as it's not.
Visiting DXer's to my urban town shack always remark on how quiet it is.

Im Hotep (In peace)

Sorry to trick you all this way, but it really bothers me when I see people burying their heads in the sand and talking about kill filling people who oft times are presenting them with information that could change their lives for the better. Folks who are trying to help you; not harm you.

I'm not an ordained minister, but I want to share this link with you all because I see tons of hatred, ignorance, and hostility on this forum just as I do all over the Internet.

I was telling you earlier about the beauty that lies in the Beatitudes.

The King James Version of the Christian Bible is still the best selling book ever! However, very few people have taken the time to read this amazing history of African People on planet Earth.

Your preachers wax eloquent every day about the Bible, but they only read to you what they want yo to know. they rarely talk about what you will see and hear at these sites below.

I'm not sure who wrote the bible, but I can tell by the way the words are phrased in such a beautiful manner, by the incredible amounts of good life advice that are given to readers, and by the way it flows unlike any other book that has ever been written that it is divinely inspired.

So you can run, but you can't hide. there are certain evils going on in American that you all refuse to discuss. One day the victims of these evil may turn up at your front door very angry. Then it will be to late to say you want to sit down and talk. That will be judgment for you.

So click on this link and click on the link to the "Beatitudes" first. Watch that beautiful short video. Then when you have caught your breath and dried your eyes, click on the "Lords Prayer".

I know this is foreign to those of you who don't grow up in religious home, but it won't hurt you at all to look closely at this. I'm not going to interpret this for you as preachers do. I think you are smart enough to understand for yourself what is being said and the true meaning of it.

Nowhere on this web site will  you find any hatred. Only peace, love, and soul.

Enjoy it. I know some of you will thank me for this right away. Others may take a little longer. There will be some lives altered for the better because of this one simple link.

Then try and find anywhere in the Bible where it says anything negative about black people

Just remember, we all are children of the universe. No less than the wind and the stars. We have a right to be here. And whether or not things are clear to you; no doubt the galaxy is unfolding as it should. Be true to yourself. Strive to be happy. Even though life is full of pain and drudgery; everywhere you can find people of truly high morals and ideas. It is still a beautiful world.

If you have an inside line to GWB and his band of devils, email them and tell them to look over the information at this site carefully, and then ask themselves is killing everyone who doesn't agree with you the way to true peace among mankind?

Go safely

Knowledge

P.S.

Here are a few more scriptures that show the huge role black folks played in the Bible.

Numbers chapter 12 verse 1

King Solomons mother Bathsheba was a black woman. that means Solomon was at least half black. Yet the LORD,GOD, says below that "the LORD loved him"
Now if GOD loves black people don't you think you should learn to do so as well?

2 Samuel 12:23 But now he is dead, wherefore should I fast? can I bring him back again? I shall go to him, but he shall not return to me.
24 And David comforted Bathsheba his wife, and went in unto her, and lay with her: and she bare a son, and he called his name Solomon: and the LORD loved him.

1Co 5:13 But them that are without God judgeth. Therefore put away from among yourselves that wicked person.

1 Corinthians chapter 6

9 � Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with mankind, 10 Nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God.
11 And such were some of you: but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus, and by the Spirit of our God.
12 � All things are lawful unto me, but all things are not expedient: all things are lawful for me, but I will not be brought under the power of any.
13 Meats for the belly, and the belly for meats: but God shall destroy both it and them. Now the body is not for fornication, but for the Lord; and the Lord for the body.
14 And God hath both raised up the Lord, and will also raise up us by his own power.

Jesus tells his disciples that "A rich man has as much of a chance of going to heaven as a Camel does passing through the eye of a needle

Mt 19:18 He saith unto him, Which? Jesus said, Thou shalt do no murder, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, 19 Honour thy father and thy mother: and, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

20 The young man saith unto him, All these things have I kept from my youth up: what lack I yet?
21 Jesus said unto him, If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come and follow me.
22 But when the young man heard that saying, he went away sorrowful:
for he had great possessions.
23 � Then said Jesus unto his disciples, Verily I say unto you, That a rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven.

----------------------------------------------------------------------------------
-----------------------

24 And again I say unto you, It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

----------------------------------------------------------------------------------
----------------------------

25 When his disciples heard it, they were exceedingly amazed, saying,
Who then can be saved?
26 But Jesus beheld them, and said unto them, With men this is impossible; but with God all things are possible.
27 Then answered Peter and said unto him, Behold, we have forsaken all, and followed thee; what shall we have therefore?
28 And Jesus said unto them, Verily I say unto you, That ye which have followed me, in the regeneration when the Son of man shall sit in the throne of his glory, ye also shall sit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

That means people who worship money and will do anything immoral, or unethical to get it do not find favor in the eyes of GOD.

Here is a parable that most of you probably have never heard that again warns you of being greedy and living for money as our administration does.

Lu 12:13 � And one of the company said unto him, Master, speak to my brother, that he divide the inheritance with me.
14 And he said unto him, Man, who made me a judge or a divider over you?
15 And he said unto them, Take heed, and beware of covetousness: for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth.

----------------------------------------------------------------------------------
----------------------------

16 And he spake a parable unto them, saying, The ground of a certain rich man brought forth plentifully:
17 And he thought within himself, saying, What shall I do, because I have no room where to bestow my fruits?
18 And he said, This will I do: I will pull down my barns, and build greater; and there will I bestow all my fruits and my goods.
19 And I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry.

20 But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee: then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided?
21 So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God.
22 � And he said unto his disciples, Therefore I say unto you, Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat; neither for the body, what ye shall put on.
23 The life is more than meat, and the body is more than raiment.

----------------------------------------------------------------------------------
---------------------------

24 Consider the ravens: for they neither sow nor reap; which neither have storehouse nor barn; and God feedeth them: how much more are ye better than the fowls?
25 And which of you with taking thought can add to his stature one cubit?
26 If ye then be not able to do that thing which is least, why take ye thought for the rest?

Here is a description of Jesus having "wooly hair" and feet like "Brass" find some real Brass and look at how dark it is.

The American churches need to stop lying by portraying Jesus as a white man when he most definitely wasn't. That is a sin of the highest order.

Re 1:9 � I John, who also am your brother, and companion in tribulation, and in the kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ, was in the isle that is called Patmos, for the word of God, and for the testimony of Jesus Christ.
10 I was in the Spirit on the Lord's day, and heard behind me a great voice, as of a trumpet, 11 Saying, I am Alpha and Omega, the first and the last: and, What thou seest, write in a book, and send it unto the seven churches which are in Asia; unto Ephesus, and unto Smyrna, and unto Pergamos, and unto Thyatira, and unto Sardis, and unto Philadelphia, and unto Laodicea.

----------------------------------------------------------------------------------
--------------------------------

12 And I turned to see the voice that spake with me. And being turned, I saw seven golden candlesticks; 13 And in the midst of the seven candlesticks one like unto the Son of man, clothed with a garment down to the foot, and girt about the paps with a golden girdle.
14 His head and his hairs were white like wool, as white as snow; and his eyes were as a flame of fire; 15 And his feet like unto fine brass, as if they burned in a furnace;
and his voice as the sound of many waters.

----------------------------------------------------------------------------------
----------------------------

16 And he had in his right hand seven stars: and out of his mouth went a sharp twoedged sword: and his countenance was as the sun shineth in his strength.
17 And when I saw him, I fell at his feet as dead. And he laid his right hand upon me, saying unto me, Fear not; I am the first and the last:
18 I am he that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen; and have the keys of hell and of death.
19 Write the things which thou hast seen, and the things which are, and the things which shall be hereafter;
20 The mystery of the seven stars which thou sawest in my right hand, and the seven golden candlesticks. The seven stars are the angels of the seven churches: and the seven candlesticks which thou sawest are

Another admonishment about not getting involved with homosexuality

Romans Chapter 1:verse 25 Who changed the truth of God into a lie, and worshipped and served the creature more than the Creator, who is blessed for ever. Amen.
--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------
26 For this cause God gave them up unto vile affections: for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature:
27 And likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust one toward another; men with men working that which is unseemly, and receiving in themselves that recompence of their error which was meet.
------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------
28 And even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not convenient;
29 Being filled with all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, debate, deceit, malignity; whisperers, 30 Backbiters, haters of God, despiteful, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents,
31 Without understanding, covenantbreakers, without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful:
32 Who knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things are worthy of death, not only do the same, but have pleasure in them that do them.

Here is the strongest condemnation of homosexuality in the Bible

Le 18:22 Thou shalt not lie with mankind, as with womankind: it is abomination.
23 Neither shalt thou lie with any beast to defile thyself therewith: neither shall any woman stand before a beast to lie down thereto: it is confusion.
------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

24 Defile not ye yourselves in any of these things: for in all these the nations are defiled which I cast out before you:
25 And the land is defiled: therefore I do visit the iniquity thereof upon it, and the land itself vomiteth out her inhabitants.
26 Ye shall therefore keep my statutes and my judgments, and shall not commit any of these abominations; neither any of your own nation, nor any stranger that sojourneth among you:
27 (For all these abominations have the men of the land done, which were before you, and the land is defiled;)
28 That the land spue not you out also, when ye defile it, as it spued out the nations that were before you.
29 For whosoever shall commit any of these abominations, even the souls that commit them shall be cut off from among their people.
30 Therefore shall ye keep mine ordinance, that ye commit not any one of these abominable customs, which were committed before you, and that ye defile not yourselves therein: I am the LORD your God.

God destroying SODOM because of the perverted behavior going on there.

Ge 18:18 Seeing that Abraham shall surely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth shall be blessed in him?
19 For I know him, that he will command his children and his household after him, and they shall keep the way of the LORD, to do justice and judgment; that the LORD may bring upon Abraham that which he hath spoken of him.
20 And the LORD said, Because the cry of Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and because their sin is very grievous;
21 I will go down now, and see whether they have done altogether according to the cry of it, which is come unto me; and if not, I will know.
22 And the men turned their faces from thence, and went toward Sodom: but Abraham stood yet before the LORD.
23 � And Abraham drew near, and said, Wilt thou also destroy the righteous with the wicked?
24 Peradventure there be fifty righteous within the city: wilt thou also destroy and not spare the place for the fifty righteous that are therein?
25 That be far from thee to do after this manner, to slay the righteous with the wicked: and that the righteous should be as the wicked, that be far from thee: Shall not the Judge of all the earth do right?
26 And the LORD said, If I find in Sodom fifty righteous within the city, then I will spare all the place for their sakes.
27 And Abraham answered and said, Behold now, I have taken upon me to speak unto the Lord, which am but dust and ashes:
28 Peradventure there shall lack five of the fifty righteous: wilt thou destroy all the city for lack of five? And he said, If I find there forty and five, I will not destroy it.
29 And he spake unto him yet again, and said, Peradventure there shall be forty found there. And he said, I will not do it for forty's sake.
30 And he said unto him, Oh let not the Lord be angry, and I will speak: Peradventure there shall thirty be found there. And he said, I will not do it, if I find thirty there.

31 And he said, Behold now, I have taken upon me to speak unto the Lord: Peradventure there shall be twenty found there. And he said, I will not destroy it for twenty's sake.
32 And he said, Oh let not the Lord be angry, and I will speak yet but this once: Peradventure ten shall be found there. And he said, I will not destroy it for ten's sake.
33 And the LORD went his way, as soon as he had left communing with Abraham: and Abraham returned unto his place.

Genesis chapter 19

1 � And there came two angels to Sodom at even; and Lot sat in the gate of Sodom: and Lot seeing them rose up to meet them; and he bowed himself with his face toward the ground;
2 And he said, Behold now, my lords, turn in, I pray you, into your servant's house, and tarry all night, and wash your feet, and ye shall rise up early, and go on your ways. And they said, Nay; but we will abide in the street all night.
3 And he pressed upon them greatly; and they turned in unto him, and entered into his house; and he made them a feast, and did bake unleavened bread, and they did eat.
4 � But before they lay down, the men of the city, even the men of Sodom, compassed the house round, both old and young, all the people from every quarter:
5 And they called unto Lot, and said unto him, Where are the men which came in to thee this night? bring them out unto us, that we may know them.
6 And Lot went out at the door unto them, and shut the door after him,
7 And said, I pray you, brethren, do not so wickedly.
8 Behold now, I have two daughters which have not known man; let me, I pray you, bring them out unto you, and do ye to them as is good in your eyes: only unto these men do nothing; for therefore came they under the shadow of my roof.
9 And they said, Stand back. And they said again, This one fellow came in to sojourn, and he will needs be a judge: now will we deal worse with thee, than with them. And they pressed sore upon the man, even Lot, and came near to break the door.
10 But the men put forth their hand, and pulled Lot into the house to them, and shut to the door.
11 And they smote the men that were at the door of the house with blindness, both small and great: so that they wearied themselves to find the door.
12 � And the men said unto Lot, Hast thou here any besides? son in law, and thy sons, and thy daughters, and whatsoever thou hast in the city, bring them out of this place:
13 For we will destroy this place, because the cry of them is waxen great before the face of the LORD; and the LORD hath sent us to destroy it.
14 And Lot went out, and spake unto his sons in law, which married his daughters, and said, Up, get you out of this place; for the LORD will destroy this city. But he seemed as one that mocked unto his sons in law.

15 � And when the morning arose, then the angels hastened Lot, saying, Arise, take thy wife, and thy two daughters, which are here;
lest thou be consumed in the iniquity of the city.
16 And while he lingered, the men laid hold upon his hand, and upon the hand of his wife, and upon the hand of his two daughters; the LORD being merciful unto him: and they brought him forth, and set him without the city.
17 And it came to pass, when they had brought them forth abroad, that he said, Escape for thy life; look not behind thee, neither stay thou in all the plain; escape to the mountain, lest thou be consumed.
18 And Lot said unto them, Oh, not so, my Lord:
19 Behold now, thy servant hath found grace in thy sight, and thou hast magnified thy mercy, which thou hast shewed unto me in saving my life; and I cannot escape to the mountain, lest some evil take me, and I die:
20 Behold now, this city is near to flee unto, and it is a little one: Oh, let me escape thither, (is it not a little one?) and my soul shall live.
21 And he said unto him, See, I have accepted thee concerning this thing also, that I will not overthrow this city, for the which thou hast spoken.
22 Haste thee, escape thither; for I cannot do any thing till thou be come thither. Therefore the name of the city was called Zoar.
23 The sun was risen upon the earth when Lot entered into Zoar.
24 � Then the LORD rained upon Sodom and upon Gomorrah brimstone and fire from the LORD out of heaven; 25 And he overthrew those cities, and all the plain, and all the inhabitants of the cities, and that which grew upon the ground.
26 � But his wife looked back from behind him, and she became a pillar of salt.
27 � And Abraham gat up early in the morning to the place where he stood before the LORD:
28 And he looked toward Sodom and Gomorrah, and toward all the land of the plain, and beheld, and, lo, the smoke of the country went up as the smoke of a furnace.
29 And it came to pass, when God destroyed the cities of the plain, that God remembered Abraham, and sent Lot out of the midst of the overthrow, when he overthrew the cities in the which Lot dwelt.
30 � And Lot went up out of Zoar, and dwelt in the mountain, and his two daughters with him; for he feared to dwell in Zoar: and he dwelt in a cave, he and his two daughters.
31 And the firstborn said unto the younger, Our father is old, and there is not a man in the earth to come in unto us after the manner of all the earth:
32 Come, let us make our father drink wine, and we will lie with him, that we may preserve seed of our father.
33 And they made their father drink wine that night: and the firstborn went in, and lay with her father; and he perceived not when she lay down, nor when she arose.
34 And it came to pass on the morrow, that the firstborn said unto the younger, Behold, I lay yesternight with my father: let us make him drink wine this night also; and go thou in, and lie with him, that we may preserve seed of our father.

35 And they made their father drink wine that night also: and the younger arose, and lay with him; and he perceived not when she lay down, nor when she arose.

36 Thus were both the daughters of Lot with child by their father.

37 And the firstborn bare a son, and called his name Moab: the same is the father of the Moabites unto this day.

38 And the younger, she also bare a son, and called his name Benammi: the same is the father of the children of Ammon unto this day.

Genesis chapter 20

Here GODS right hand man Moses is supported by GOD for marrying an Ehtiopian, black African woman; not a white woman like the lie told in the movie 10 Commandments, or in Mel Gibsons piece of trash movie.

Nu 12:1 � And Miriam and Aaron spake against Moses because of the Ethiopian woman whom he had married: for he had married an Ethiopian woman.

2 And they said, Hath the LORD indeed spoken only by Moses? hath he not spoken also by us? And the LORD heard it.

3 (Now the man Moses was very meek, above all the men which were upon the face of the earth.)

4 � And the LORD spake suddenly unto Moses, and unto Aaron, and unto Miriam, Come out ye three unto the tabernacle of the congregation. And they three came out.

5 And the LORD came down in the pillar of the cloud, and stood in the door of the tabernacle, and called Aaron and Miriam: and they both came forth.

6 And he said, Hear now my words: If there be a prophet among you, I the LORD will make myself known unto him in a vision, and will speak unto him in a dream.

-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

7 My servant Moses is not so, who is faithful in all mine house.

8 With him will I speak mouth to mouth, even apparently, and not in dark speeches; and the similitude of the LORD shall he behold: wherefore then were ye not afraid to speak against my servant Moses?

9 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against them; and he departed.

10 � And the cloud departed from off the tabernacle; and, behold, Miriam became leprous, white as snow: and Aaron looked upon Miriam, and, behold, she was leprous.

------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

11 And Aaron said unto Moses, Alas, my lord, I beseech thee, lay not the sin upon us, wherein we have done foolishly, and wherein we have sinned.

12 Let her not be as one dead, of whom the flesh is half consumed when he cometh out of his mother's womb.

13 And Moses cried unto the LORD, saying, Heal her now, O God, I beseech thee.

14 And the LORD said unto Moses, If her father had but spit in her face, should she not be ashamed seven days? let her be shut out from the camp seven days, and after that let her be received in again.
15 And Miriam was shut out from the camp seven days: and the people journeyed not till Miriam was brought in again.
16 And afterward the people removed from Hazeroth, and pitched in the wilderness of Paran.

So obviously interracial marriage must be OK in GODS eyes if his top general had a black woman for his wife, and GOD punished those who criticized the relationship.

Here is the story of another of GODS great men "Abraham" He had a child by his wifes handmaiden "Hagar the Egyptian" Egypt is and always has been in North Africa; not europe.

That mulatto child became the ancestory of both the Israelis and the Palestinians. Both races have massive amounts of African genetic makeup.

Ge 16:1 � Now Sarai Abram's wife bare him no children: and she had an handmaid, an Egyptian, whose name was Hagar.
2 And Sarai said unto Abram, Behold now, the LORD hath restrained me from bearing: I pray thee, go in unto my maid; it may be that I may obtain children by her. And Abram hearkened to the voice of Sarai.
----------------------------------------------------------------------------------
------------------------------------
3 And Sarai Abram's wife took Hagar her maid the Egyptian, after Abram had dwelt ten years in the land of Canaan, and gave her to her husband Abram to be his wife.
4 � And he went in unto Hagar, and she conceived: and when she saw that she had conceived, her mistress was despised in her eyes.
----------------------------------------------------------------------------------
-------------------------------
5 And Sarai said unto Abram, My wrong be upon thee: I have given my maid into thy bosom; and when she saw that she had conceived, I was despised in her eyes: the LORD judge between me and thee.
6 But Abram said unto Sarai, Behold, thy maid is in thy hand; do to her as it pleaseth thee. And when Sarai dealt hardly with her, she fled from her face.
7 � And the angel of the LORD found her by a fountain of water in the wilderness, by the fountain in the way to Shur.
8 And he said, Hagar, Sarai's maid, whence camest thou? and whither wilt thou go? And she said, I flee from the face of my mistress Sarai.
9 And the angel of the LORD said unto her, Return to thy mistress, and submit thyself under her hands.
10 � And the angel of the LORD said unto her, I will multiply thy seed exceedingly, that it shall not be numbered for multitude.
11 And the angel of the LORD said unto her, Behold, thou art with child, and shalt bear a son, and shalt call his name Ishmael; because the LORD hath heard thy affliction.
12 And he will be a wild man; his hand will be against every man, and every man's hand against him; and he shall dwell in the presence of all his brethren.

13 And she called the name of the LORD that spake unto her, Thou God seest me: for she said, Have I also here looked after him that seeth me?
14 Wherefore the well was called Beerlahairoi; behold, it is between Kadesh and Bered.
15 � And Hagar bare Abram a son: and Abram called his son's name, which Hagar bare, Ishmael.
16 And Abram was fourscore and six years old, when Hagar bare Ishmael to Abram.

Remember, wherever you go in life, there you are!

Al,

Do you EVER post anything about shortwave radio?  I feel like all you do is try to incite people to anger.  Get a fucking life.

The Bible is a history of blacks? How absurd and demonstrably false.

It doesn't say anything positive about blacks either. In fact, it hardly mentions them at all.

So why aren't you condemning the muslims? If anyone is killing everyone that doesn't agree with them, it is the MUSLIMS. Oh, I see, since you are a BLACK RACIST, you don't want black muslims to be portrayed negatively. You just be hatin dem blue-eyed devils.

Where does it state that she was black? Why didn't you quote any scripture that says she was black? The answer is obvious, there is no such scripture and you're a liar, a con-man, and a black racist.

You're full of crap.

I just got mine like a month ago and it has no cover I can detect. Hmm, perhaps like one poster said the lens might distort the LCD but someone I just can't see how. This is good question to ask Icom support about.

Usually these things are resource based decisions. I guess they felt it was unneccessary and not worth adding. I would have never noticed it till you pointed it. Now I have to think of this and you every time I look at the display :)

Hey wait, look at large LCD TV screens and some monitors. They have no protective plate at all. I guess for visual quality. Might apply here too.

Not sure of this will help you, but one gentleman I read about had all sorts of noise issues. Nothing helped till someone mentioned he should unscrew the IF board and clean the aluminum ground contacts off with alcohol. He did and it fixed his issues though yours sounds too isolated.

Another way is to contact Ebay and complain to them. Ask them why they allowed a known cheat to operate after they banned him.
Well, we know *why they allowed him back on, but let's throw it in their face.

And yes I got burned by him to some degree. Not totally, but he tricked me into believing it was "just like new" with the 2 original boxes also. It had scratches on top when the pictures showed none. A switch was also bad. But it said "it has been fully tested and checked out" and "like brand new"

He's a liar, a pump artist, a scammer. I actually believed at one time {and still do to some degree} that most people in this hobby are pretty mild mannered guys with above average responsibility and would do no wrong to one another.

GG,

GG - You seem to be 'trapped' in a "Fascist-State-of-Mind"
all of your own making and imagination.
[ Here a Fascist! There a Fascist! Everywhere a Fascist! ]
{ I See Fascist! I See Fascist!  Lot and Lots of Fascists! ]

President George "W" Bush's MANDATE is Clear and

WE the American People (Citizen Voters) have Spoken [.]

Strike One.
A 'mandate' is when you get 50%+ of the Vote;
- Which Bill Clinton NEVER Did [.]

Strike Two.
A 'mandate' is when you carry new members of the US House into Office:
- Which Bill Clinton NEVER Did [.]

Strike Three.
A 'mandate' is when you carry new members of the US Senate into Office:
- Which Bill Clinton NEVER Did [.]

That's Three Strikes for a "MANDATE"
- "GG" You're Out [!]

"GG" - I 'guess' in your mind the "Majority" of the American Voting Public are ALL 'part' of the Vast Right-Wing Conspiracy.
{ Hello "GG" It's Time for a Reality Check ! }

WE'RE HERE ! (We're not Queer.)
Just 'the common' American Citizens - Who Love Their Country.
Per John 'ff' Kerry:
"God Bless America" amen, Amen. and AMEN !

DES MOINES, Iowa
- Iowa has a WINNER
- President George W. Bush.

The Bottom Line:
* President George "W" Bush "Wins" with 286 Electoral Votes.
* Senator John 'ff' Kerry got 'only' 252 Electoral Votes and lost.

Per John (The Mouth Piece) Edwards:
Every Vote Should Count !
Every Vote Should Be Counted [.]

WE "The {American Citizens} People" Have Spoken:
* President George "W" Bush received the Majority of the Popular Votes.
* President George "W" Bush received the Highest Number of the Popular Votes in the History of US Presidential Elections.

But you're not using a "wide" brush when you say "left" and lump everyone together.  Right JD.  You've proven yourself yet again to be the biggest moron on the planet - the "whole" planet.... lump that.

And you seem to be a trapped fascist.

I like my position better.

Radio Guy,

The "Re-Ability" Factor of any recurring eMail goes up when it is Kept 'short' by providing 'Links' to  bits of Text and Formated Data that may not change with each eMail Message.

The second Advantage to this Structure, Formating and Presentation of "Information" causes the Reader-Recipient to Click-On the Link.
This can be Tracked by the 'originator' of the eMail back to their WebSite and allow them to better 'identify' the needs of the "Customer" of their Informationa and the Service they provide.

Adding things like the protective window would add to the cost of the radio, and it's probably not the sort of feature people think about when shopping.

Another radio without protection for the LCD's is the Racal 6790 - and this may be one reason why there's a regular market for replacements.

CW,

Actually a little more is needed.

Power Recharging End - Battery Charger

Middle - Battery and Double Knife Edge Switch*

Radio Reception End - Radio/Receiver

* Note:  The Knife Edge Switch is wired with the Battery as the Center Switch-Arm Position; the Recharger on one side; and the Radio Receiver on the other side.  This provides an 'effective' Safety Lock-Out to prevent any chance of directly connecting the Battery Charger to the Radio.

Is the Superheterodyne set over rated? It seems to me there were certain advantages to the OLD ways. Ease of control perhaps not being one of them.

What was the WORST feature of the Regenerative sets? The BEST feature?

Would it be worthwhile to build a kit?

In this hobby there are gadgets for everything, but that isolator is not one that has any usefulness whatsoever. In all mobile (cars, boats, aircraft) operations the alternator is not isolated from the radio, nor does any harm come from a battery charger being in parallel with the radio. Well o.k., I can see it might protect an IDIOT from setting a commercial battery charger to "boost" while the radio was operating. Short of that, a waste of money imo.

November 13, 2004

By Adam Sherwin, Media Reporter
The Times

It is a typically eclectic mixture of 1970s German rock, hardcore "grime" and Liverpool indie. The final programme recorded by John Peel will be broadcast by the BBC World Service next week.

Peel's weekly show allowed millions of listeners to share his musical passions and fans in China and India were among the thousands sending tributes to the Service. He recorded a series of programmes before his trip to Peru where he suffered a fatal heart attack. The last will be transmitted this Friday.

"Unwrapping the final John Peel programmes was a bittersweet experience," said Bobby Seiler, his producer. He added: "What this programme does do is represent the breadth of music that John always promoted. Among the records on this show, there are examples of music from Sweden, Germany, the United States, Czech Republic and his own beloved Liverpool."

There is a track by Neu, a 1970s German band whose driving "motorik" sound influenced electronic pop music. A classical cellist-turned hip-hop producer from Brooklyn calling himself Mad provides a track called I am 6 on the Ad Noiseam label.

Ella Guru, a new Liverpool band, are given a spin along with a Czech techno act called Matoa. The final record is Dr Venom an artist from the underground "grime" hip-hop scene with a track called Mumra.

Mr Seiler said: "You're always looking out for that monumental moment where John hints at some unforeseen event or some double meaning in the records he chose. As it happens, there is none of this, as unsurprisingly John never expected this to be his last programme.

"He was truly one of the planet's favourite voices. His weekly e-mails ranged from Malaysia to Manchester, Israel to Ipswich, and his patronage of new artists extended well beyond the English Channel."

The prerecorded programmes also included The Fall, Peel's all-time favourite, and one track from an album of Lebanese/Egyptian Arabic hip-hop.

The final programme will be introduced by World Service presenter Mark Coles and broadcast on Friday at 10:30am, then repeated at 1:30pm, 7:30pm and Saturday at 01:45am.

HMV's 200 stores across Britain and Ireland observed a minute's silence at noon yesterday in honour of the DJ. Music fans said Peel would have preferred one minute of noise. Each store then played Peel's favourite song, The Undertones' Teenage Kicks as a tribute.

Leonard, It has many more good points vs. bad points. My favorite feature, is the Slot Frequency control,  which really comes in handy when you encounter the need to eliminate adjacent or co-channel interference. The receiver has a low noise floor, and a great noise limiter circuit, to knock out man-made hash. The smooth bandspread tuning capacitor, is a pleasure to use, and it also helps when you're trying to pull a weak signal out of the muck. Some may consider it's size and weight a bad point, but if you have the room and a sturdy bench in the shack, it's not a problem. Main tuning dial calibration can be a problem, but the crystal oscillator helps to establish reference points on each band, so you know what frequency you're tuned into. Some may grow weary of the need to peak the antenna trimmer for each band, but I've allways liked this feature in a receiver. My HQ-180 often outperforms my JRC NRD-535D, which sits next to it, and that says a lot in itself. If you have any questions about the HQ-180, send me an e-mail, and I'll try to answer them. Good DXing to you, Gary

Someone sent me this link www.sorryeverybody.com

I looked at this site, and had to laugh at all of these folks. In a way it made me sad that these people felt the need to apologize.

So, I created my own site! They have a week and a half head start on me, but I am hoping we will catch them in no time (since we have a 52-47 majority)

Visit http://www.thankseverybody.com/ and send us your photo. Let us know why you are thankful for the outcome on Nov. 2nd.

Darn, I wonder what will take the place of all those Grundig SAT 800 ads, that is if it really is discontinued.

Actually, superheterodyne is a pretty "OLD" way. It's just that it has not been surpassed - till now, with the SDR - Software-Defined Radio (of which superheterodyne is the front end anyway).

>What was the WORST feature of the Regenerative sets?

Selectivity, dynamic range, tricky adjustment.

Simplicity, cost.

It is always worthwhile to tinker with radios... ;-)

93,000 EXTRA VOTES In only Cuyahoga County -- Outrage In Ohio
By Teed Rockwell
Philosophy Department, Sonoma State University 11-12-2004

Smoking Gun

You may have seen the associated press story about the precinct in Cuyahoga county that had less than 1,000 voters, and gave Bush almost 4,000 extra votes.

But that turns out to be only the tip of a very ugly iceberg. The evidence discovered by some remarkably careful sleuthing would convince any reasonable court to invalidate the entire Ohio election.

In last Tuesday's election, 29 precincts in Cuyahoga County, Ohio, reported votes cast IN EXCESS of the number of registered voters - at least 93,136 extra votes total. And the numbers are right there on the official Cuyahoga County Board of Elections website:

Bay Village - 13,710 registered voters / 18,663 ballots cast
Beachwood - 9,943 registered voters / 13,939 ballots cast
Bedford - 9,942 registered voters / 14,465 ballots cast
Bedford Heights - 8,142 registered voters / 13,512 ballots cast
Brooklyn - 8,016 registered voters / 12,303 ballots cast

Brooklyn Heights - 1,144 registered voters / 1,869 ballots cast
Chagrin Falls Village - 3,557 registered voters / 4,860 ballots cast
Cuyahoga Heights - 570 registered voters / 1,382 ballots cast
Fairview Park - 13,342 registered voters / 18,472 ballots cast
Highland Hills Village - 760 registered voters / 8,822 ballots cast Independence - 5,735 registered voters / 6,226 ballots cast
Mayfield Village - 2,764 registered voters / 3,145 ballots cast Middleburg Heights - 12,173 registered voters / 14,854 ballots cast
Moreland Hills Village - 2,990 registered voters / 4,616 ballots cast
North Olmstead - 25,794 registered voters / 25,887 ballots cast
Olmstead Falls - 6,538 registered voters / 7,328 ballots cast
Pepper Pike - 5,131 registered voters / 6,479 ballots cast
Rocky River - 16,600 registered voters / 20,070 ballots cast
Solon (WD6) - 2,292 registered voters / 4,300 ballots cast
South Euclid - 16,902 registered voters / 16,917 ballots cast
Strongsville (WD3) - 7,806 registered voters / 12,108 ballots cast University Heights - 10,072 registered voters / 11,982 ballots cast Valley View Village - 1,787 registered voters / 3,409 ballots cast
Warrensville Heights - 10,562 registered voters / 15,039 ballots cast
Woodmere Village - 558 registered voters / 8,854 ballots cast
Bedford (CSD) - 22,777 registered voters / 27,856 ballots cast Independence (LSD) - 5,735 registered voters / 6,226 ballots cast
Orange (CSD) - 11,640 registered voters / 22,931 ballots cast Warrensville (CSD) - 12,218 registered voters / 15,822 ballots cast

<snip>

According to the link you provided, that county gave 66.41% of it's votes to the candidate who lost the election.  That's more than a 2-1 ratio between the two top candidates.

Do you really think the actual ratio was more than 3-1?

Mark,
do you use the sideband feature using the 9Mhz 2.4 filter?  I've been testing it and it works pretty well. I'm surprised Icom doesn't advertise this as a feature.

Yep, I don't understand the attraction of DRM receivers. It sounds like they promise to bring the primary disadvantages of other broadcast media to shortwave.

No one, except for conspiracy theorists and googoo purists (googoo = good government) is going to pursue this, whether the evidence for it is good or bad.

Why would the Republicans, who won all the electors for Ohio, want to start recounting the votes - including votes in Republican areas??? They might take extra precautions next time, but...asking for a recount when you've won is bad karma.

Did the Cuyahoga (Cleveland area) vote come in late? That's the trick Richard Dailey allegedly pulled in 1960. Downstate Illinois voted for Nixon and, allegedly, Mayor Dailey fudged the count in Cooke County to put Kennedy over.

If Nixon had won Illinois and Texas, he would have been sworn in in 1961 instead of JFK. One of my high school social studies teachers who hated Nixon's guts (and this was before Watergate) said Nixon had done a great thing by refusing to ask for a recount in 1960 because it would be bad for the country.

JP,

As I stated the use of the Double Knife Edge Switch is an an 'effective' Safety Lock-Out to prevent any chance of directly connecting the Battery Charger to the Radio.

And as you have correctly stated its use does "IDIOT" Proof the Radio, Battery Power and Recharger Set-Up.

DG - Gee Wow ! You Are Right :o)

I just 'touched' the LCD and you are right the Numbers do seem to change ever so slightly; when a finger is place on them :-{

Note:  The LCD is rather 'deeply' Recessed from the other Front Panel Surface Areas of the Radio.

But maybe its me, my stubby old fingers have a tendancy to move about the Radio 'touching' the Knobs and Buttons ;-}

It is my Eyes that are 'focused' on the LCD Screen :<]

I scanned the Icom IC-R75 Manual and could not find any reference to the 'fact' that it had a "Touch-Screen" Feature 8-)

GG,

"And you seem to be a trapped fascist."

Then 'you' Know Me NOT !

For most people who do know me, call 'me' "Brother" out of a sense of Friendship and Love.

"I like my position better."

I would NOT like 'being' "You": Since you seem to 'enjoy' "Denigrating" many people with terms like FASCIST.

The way You use the term "Fascist" is clearly a Form of Hate Speech designed to stifle Free Speech and to cause FEAR in those who you would attempt to Victimize by its use.

In-the-End: When All Is Said and Done - The Facts Remain:

*  You Are You.

*  I Am Me.

*  President George "W" Bush Won the Election and IS 'POTUS' [.]

re: advisable to leave the radio in the car. What do the owners think/do? Thanks,John/WD9IWC

John, about 15 years ago I blew up a 2 meter radio after leaving it sit out in the car all night on a below 0 nite. Took the finals and drivers out. Resistance values of components change when introduced to extreme temperatures.  With newer radios, it is possible that swr fall back circuitry may prevent the situation that I experienced, but I am not going to chance it.  I always either bring my radio inside or else make sure not to power it, or especially transmit on it till temperatures inside the box are more stable.  I might be being too carefull, but repairs are expensive so I am not taking any chances.

Good Luck

MM,

Or just may be... The majority of American Citizens (Voters) were simply motovated by "Love-of-Country" and decided to 'choose' President George "W" Bush over Senator John 'ff' Kerry; because they believed that President George "W" Bush reflected their 'values' better.

Well since your not an ordained minister I guess you still have some reservations about spreading the word of god then?
What qualifies you to spread anything other than peanut butter?
If you dont like the hate on the net...flip the switch to OFF....Now tell me WHO is the ignorant one that cant figure that one out?

Children of the Stars and Wind.....Universe?.....Actually my mom and dad claim I'm theirs.....I could be wrong but I can (BREAK) wind just like my dad and play "Onward Christian Soldiers" in its entirety!

First , let me say I don't know the seller.
But I have a DA5 and for MW BCB DX it is great.
I bought mine used about 20 years ago and paid $100. And it was a steal. The only thing I dislike, too strong word realy, is that the internal 120V AC to +12V supply is a little too noisy. I bypassed the diodes and used some additional RFI tricks, but in the end decided to just use my RF quiet +12 main supply.
I removed the AC cord and mounted a Radio Shack coaxial female power connector in it's place.
This is a great MW antenna., and even works in strong RF, like when you use it less then a mile from a 10KW MW station, locations.

Heh, that's what it is - a touch screen! 'Course it won't actually control anything - that will be included in the R75-A :)

A friend sent me this URL:
http://www.rense.com/general50/acci.htm
I am having some effect locally.
Up until now he had insisted there where no problems. While we both agree that rense is not the most balanced place, still, the news is a little unnerving.

The Swiss Radio International broadcast station has stopped using short waves and its transmitters and antennas are being decommissioned. Members of the HB9MM  http://www.hb9mm.com/Index_e.htmclub  station in Lausanne have been given permission to use the former broadcast station facilities and antennas, including a 62-metre high curtain array weighing 135 tonnes. The special callsign HE3RSI is on the air now until 3 December on bands from 40 to 10 metres. This is the first time the HE3 prefix has been used.

I built a single compactron tube ( 3 tubes in 1 envelope) regen several years back:

Lots of fun to listen to casually, but one quickly tires of the poor selectivity and fiddling.

I'm looking for a HF (500Khz to 50MHz or so) multicoupler/ antenna-splitter that would allow mulipler receivers to use the same antenna with little or no signal loss or interaction.

Ideally, this unit would have SO-239 connectors. Number of outputs would be 4 at a minimum, more is better. Will consider active or passive units.

Thanks

FO&A,

Here is my Question:  Is there any sense in putting a Ferrite Rod at the Far-End of a Random Wire Antenna with the Wire from the End of the Wire Antenna Element 'wrapped' around it in a
"Tuned Coil" to improve the AM/MW Band  Reception ?

*  Any 'theory' behind why this Idea might Work ?

*  Does this Idea actually Work ?

I am Asking these Questions is because of what I have read about the RF Systems "EMF" Electro-Magnetic-Field Passive Wire Antenna
http://www.universal-radio.com/catalog/sw_ant/0743.html

In "John Wagner's Shortwave Tips & Tricks" he writes:
http://www.dxing.com/tips.htm
"The EMF antenna has two 35mm film canister looking objects connected to it. The canister on the Far-End is actually an excellent "Tuned Ferrite Rod" designed for MW (Medium Wave) and really helps any receiver without a built in MW Antenna Rod. Canister two (in middle) is a Balun that helps SW reception very much."

You have to remember that Howard Armstrong, who "invented" the regen (he was issued the patent, but it's something you really just trip over rather than invent). then went on to invent the superheterodyne, which does seem to have come from deliberate effort.  He was disatisfied with the regen, which led him to experiment and explore until he came up with the superhet.

The regen is simple, and that's a big advantage.  It provided good gain for a single stage, and it provides better selectivity than a single tuned circuit without regeneration.

Beyond that, it's limited.  It won't provide great selectivity, it is finicky, and can receiver limited types of modulation.

No, it can't be a serious contender for the superhet.

On the other hand, there is certainly an appeal to building something, and a regen does make it easier.  One can even argue that if someone is going to build a simple receiver, a regen makes more sense; not only simpler, but suffering from none of the superhet's disadvantages when done simply.

Some of the disadvantages, apart from the lack of good selectivbity, can be overcome at the cost of more complexity.  Add an an amplifier stage before the  detector, to isolate it from the effects of the antenna (which can cause the regen to go in and out of regen when you don't want it), add some voltage regulation, add an audio filter.  Make sure theregen control is smooth.

Charles Kitchin has done a fair amount of work on regens in recent years. Some of the circuits are floating around the web, and he's had quite a few articles in QST.  I'm too lazy to dig up the biography once again.

There have been a few other "improve the regen" articles in QST in the past decade, though I can't remember dates or author.  The first used an optoisolator to add some isolation, and there was another using a bridge for isolation.

My thought would be that, at MW frequencies, the 'wire' part of the antenna is pretty much 'lumped' (no significant phase change along its length), so you have a standard ferrite rod antenna that you're hooking up via a long piece of hookup wire. That's a reasonable enough antenna.

As you approach HF, the 'wire' part of the antenna starts to become active and the two signals combine.

Still, this is very much a 'hands waving' explanation; hopefully someone else will have a more solid response.

> *  Does this Idea actually Work ?

I imagine it works as well as either antenna alone (the ferrite rods or the long wire) would, and the real question is... do the two together produce any significant additional gain? I suspect not (much), but even if so, sometimes a wideband standard gain antenna is more desirable than a higher gain single bander.

For $95, who would be tempted to clip off that sucker at the end and discover it didn't amount to a hill of beans? Self-fulfilling illusion of value perception.

Are we to believe John cracked his wallet open to then crack open the film canisters? As far as guesses goes, this is as good as any; but given the techno-drivel that populates the rest of the page, the going doesn't go very far at all.

>i want to know ~ RHF

Ah, but that would cost you $95. You would have to first discover what "designed for MW (Medium Wave)" actually means. Given the manufacturer explicitly states nothing in that regard (devoting most of the coverage to a BalUn) and calls it a "magnetic module."

Consider, if it is "designed for MW (Medium Wave)" then it is neither designed for LW nor SW, and yet the ad clearly states "covering 100 kHz to 30 MHz." Such contradictions are a clear warning with red lights and flags waving. If it is designed for "covering 100 kHz to 30 MHz," then the doo-hicky at the end is probably more useful as a monkey-fist for tossing it up into a tree.

Hey CW, Where did you find the adapter/converter or whatever you use. I tried Batteries Plus, and the converter they wanted to sell me was fifty or sixty bucks. Looking for something a bit more reasonable than that.

I don't know the answer. A ferrite inductor will increase the magnitude of inductance over an air-core coil and top-loading will increase the current in the wire part of the antenna. It's an interesting idea assuming that antennas are reciprocal for transmitting and receiving.

There will be a couple days lag because votes postmarked on election day will take time to arrive.  So what?  Why does everything have to happen so fast?

The HQ-180 is a very nice radio and they work quite well if you keep the circuits aligned properly. Depending upon the production number some will have vernier tuning (mine doesn't) and there was an IF noise immunizer acessory (I don't have it). My 4 main receivers are the Drake R-8B, HQ-180C, SP-600 and R-390A and they all see a fair bit of use. The biggest problem with "boatanchors" is that they often need to be recapped due to some of the capacitors getting leaky and sometimes it is just a good preventative measure (especially with the R-390A). If you get a chance to play around with one sit back and enjoy!

That certainly makes sense as author Tom Lewis in the book "Empire of the Air, The Men Who made Radio" generally refers to him as 'Howard Armstrong'.

you can also have the benefits of both by building a super-regenerative superhetrodyne receiver ;-)  the old Boy Scout Radio Merit Badge from the 1960s had such a design, which I built at the time, and the resulting radio receiver outperformed many commercial models costing much more ;-)

FM Stereo Broadcast Transmitter
Digital PLL - LCD - 2 Watt RF Output

Ebay item # 5730774971

Auction ends in 1 day!

Ends Nov-14-04 19:13:56 PST

I have updated my Ebay auction listing to include an MP3 sound file you can download which is an ACTUAL recording of how the FM transmitter sounds on-the-air.

Here is the direct link:
[URL=http://cgi.ebay.com/ws/eBayISAPI.dll?ViewItem&item=5730774971]http://cgi.ebay.com/ws/eBayISAPI.dll?ViewItem&item=5730774971[/URL]

Transmitter is an assembled and tested unit -- not a kit.

This transmitter design DOES NOT use the "BA" or "Rohm" analog chip - ANYWHERE IN IT AT ALL. Which is a good thing.

This transmitter can equal the sound of commercial FM stations. It outperforms ANY of the Ramsey transmitters, including the "export" version of the FM-100B which Ramsey sells for $429.99.

You can buy this transmitter for much less than that.

Here are the specifications for this transmitter (from the manufacturer):

Transmission Frequency: Adjustable between 87-108 MHz
Tuning Steps: 10 kHz
RF Power Output: Typ 1Watt @ 13V or 2 Watts @ 24V
Spurious RF Emissions: Better than -45 dB ref. to carrier
Frequency Stability: PLL Typ +/-1KHz
SWR Ruggedness: Withstands 30:1 SWR mismatch
RF Output Connector: BNC type
Audio Input Sensitivity: 0.8V rms for +/- 75 KHz deviation
Signal To Noise Ratio: 60 dBu
Frequency Response: Flat from 20 Hz to 15 KHz
Stereo Separation: >40 dB
Pre-emphasis: 75 uS (standard FCC spec for U.S. FM radio)
Audio Distortion: Better than 0.2 % THD
Audio Input Connectors: RCA Phono Jacks
Power Jack: Coaxial type, 5.5mm O.D. 2.1mm I.D. center positive
DC Power Input: 12 to 24 Vdc Regulated 600mA

The transmitter has a built-in user options menu system with two buttons for adjusting operating parameters such as transmitting frequency, modulation level, MPX pilot level, etc.

This transmitter has a clean RF output. The design includes a seven-element Low Pass RF Filter for harmonic suppression.

This transmitter has built-in audio AGC (Automatic Gain Control). The AGC feature can be adjusted using the user options menu or you can turn it off if you like.

Operating instructions will be included with the unit.

TenTec and MFJ both offer regen radio kits. I built the TenTec 4-bander a few years ago. A very simple kit and well worth the time to build. A fun radio to play with about once every 2 years or so, mainly because the gee-whiz factor doesn't last very long. Still is was worth the time assembling it.

Work is not a very well defined word. The antenna will work in that it will pick up some signal and deliver it to the radio. I think you mean to ask how well compared to another antenna.

I pretty much agree with what Joel wrote but add the following explanation. Any time you add some type of coil to a wire you are electrically increasing the electrical length over the physical length of the wire. The coil on the end will cause the wire part of the antenna to resonate at a lower frequency. This is generally not a good or effective way to make a sensitive antenna but it will "work."

Generally a wire antenna will pick up a significant amount of signal energy at frequencies above its electrical length and perform much worse below its resonate frequency so basically this looks like a attempt to get a rather short piece of wire (16 feet) to "work" down to a frequency far below its resonant physical length.

The BALAN coil depending on design could be a good thing in that it will cause the high impedance of the wire to be closer on average to the impedance of the coax cable part of the antenna and the radios input.

You might want to check this out:

http://www.stridsberg.com/

Though I don't think any have SO-239's, they work very well.

I use the MCA104 here, which is quite similar to the MCA104M.

Beware of the sticker shock though, as prices have gone up.

You bet it's too simple.  I was suggesting that it's plausible that Bush supporters are heterogenius; that different folks had different reasons, etc.

Avoid anything by Stridsberg - overpriced!

Try: http://www.arraysolutions.com/Products/ice/

Not only will it meet or exceed specs of anything Stridsberg builds for a LOT less money, ICE will custom install the connectors of your choice at no extra charge. I use ICE active multicouplers for my guard receivers, and am very happy with all of the many products I have purchased there.

I gave you several verses that spoke directly to how someone looked, or the country from where their spouse originated. What more do you need?

Solomon's mother Bathsheba was married to "Uriah the Hittite" before King David killed him and took her to be his wife. Biblical authorities have long known and accepted the fact that the Hittites were a dark race of people. Do a google search on the word "Hittites" and you will find articles that tell you that. So that means that King Solomon was at least half black. His father David was also black, but I would have to go into a lengthier explanation to prove that and I'm not sure that anyone is reading this anyway so I don't have the time to waste. Join my list if you really want to know the truth of these things, :-)

Also Jesus received all of his genetic makeup from his mother. The bible says that it was a "Virgin birth" meaning he was born, but his mom didn't have sex with his step dad. It is easy to trace Mary's ancestry line back and it is full of black people.

There are probably people on this list from Italy and other European countries where they still bow down to and worship a black Jesus and a black virgin Mary. I saw them portrayed that one in a small church in Acquilea, Italy near Trieste once upon a time.

>>Then try and find anywhere in the Bible where it says anything >>negative about black people

The bible doesn't mention blacks specifically because their was little to no race hatred back in those days. So people were used to blacks being in power and running the show. Since nearly everyone in the bible was black it would be silly to keep saying  "so and so was a black person"

You can also look at the region of the world where the bible took place, All of that area was called Africa back 2004 years ago. There was no middle east. That is a term that came about during the early 1900's. There also was no SUEZ canal which divides Africa today from Saudi Arabia. Europe is connected to Africa. There are only about 25 miles separating Europe from the continent of Africa. That is why ALL humans, including you, have lots of African genetic makeup. Your denying that, doesn't change the reality at all.

The entire Muslim world didn't attack us. Only Saudi Arabians and Egyptians did. You don' burn down the barn to get rid of the rat. We killed nearly a million innocent people over there from 1991 to 2004 with our sanctions. So America was aggressor! Osama was angry at our destroying people in the Middle East, and it took him several years before he figured out how to try and defend his countries in the Middle East. He struck a second time on 91101, but even then we have stilled slaughtered a 100 times more of their people than they have ours. AND... don't forget this. We started it. Just like we went to Panama and jumped on Noriega. We started the fight. We went to Somalia and jumped on them halfway around the world. We started it. If you can't accept those simple truths, then your brain is already fried, and good for nothing except twirling the shortwave dial and piddling with yourself.

Go read 2nd Samuel where it talks about Bathsheba and her husband. Again, remember the world hasn't always been so full of race hate like it is now. So the people in the bible didn't feel it was necessary to identify each person by race.

If you have the ability to reason in a sane manner, then when you see in Numbers chapter 12 verse where it says that Moses was married to an "Ethiopian woman" then if you know anything about geography, you would know that Ethiopia is in sub-Saharan African where the people are brown to black.

When you see in Genesis that Abraham went in to his wife's handmaiden "Hagar the EGYPTIAN" if you were a properly educated human you would know that EGYPT is in North Africa. Some of the people there are light and some are dark. However 2,000 years ago when there was much less migration of people from one place to the other, the Egyptians were mostly brown, or black people as well.

Don't fight the truth. Revel in it. Don't worry. Be happy. You and everyone on this list are ni..ers! It's good to be a ni..er! :-) All of GODS chosen people are ni..ers.
White people are not GODS chosen people. They are albinos that were cast out from African by their parents because they were so weird looking not having any melanin in their skin. They hooked up with each other over the centuries and slowly moved north in to what is now called Europe. They created a group of people who are the most ignorant, violent, inhumane people that the world has ever seen. Everywhere they go, they kill, loot and rape, then take over the country from the people who were there first.

So rejoice in your African heritage. Africa had advanced civilization thousands of years ago. Africans built the pyramids. Scientists today still don't know how they did it. Africans embalmed people and they remained mummified for thousands of years in good condition.There were libraries and universities on the gold coast in African when "white people" were living in caves and eating each other in Europe.

No I'm full of KNOWLEDGE. You're full of hatred, rabies, and other mental illnesses.

Yes, Stridsberg is indeed expensive. I may order up one of the ICE units and test it out.

I was fortunate enough to get my MCA104 on eBay a number of years ago for $60.

Do you use the supplied power supply or do you use something else for the +12V DC?

Really?  It seems to me choosing one candidate over another is like choosing the least of evils.  It's neither a "flat out" rejection of one candidate or a "flat out" acceptance of the other.  Further, there's no evidence that the "majority of voters" even share the same point of view other than they apparently believe Bush is the "least of evils".

The one I have that I purchased on eBay did not come with a power supply. I currently use a wall-wart.

But there's a scary answer to it.  The far right Christians [Reconstructionists, Dominion, Moonies, etc.] have used a comment by Paul in one of his letters "I am all things to all men..." as an excuse to lie in order to accomplish their aims.

Another best feature is that there is no bandwidth filter. If you get a strong signal in the clear with good audio and run the rig thru an amplifier you will be very surprised how good it can sound.

I recall doing that on a Radio Espania signal and being blown away by the full frequency audio.

SEOUL, South Korea - (KRT) - The U.S. government is preparing to smuggle tiny radios into North Korea as part of a newly financed program to break down the country's isolation.

http://www.philly.com/mld/philly/news/world/10167061.htm?1c

Any ideas as to what kind of radios? Maybe like the RadioShack 'Flavor' radios the US dumped on Haiti perhaps?

Yeah, those were interesting posts.  That's what triggered my thoughts on using a computer as a DRM detector with the 62 and feeding the signal back to radio's hi-fi audio section.  The experiment would be cheap enough for me, and it's probably doable, but I'm just not interested enough in DRM to start playing with it.

Hello John
i looked at the DX-1 PRO RF System as they are advertised hear in the uk in short wave magazine sold by Haydon communications at a cost of �359.95.... i tried looking this antenna up on the net for the spec but could not find any information on the antenna... would have a website address for the company who makes the DX-1.
i would need to research the antenna before i buy due to the high cost.
as i am living right next to Heathrow air port.... and as you can imagine there are lots of strong signals from the air port.
some days i can not even use some of the HF bands do to interference ...so i would need to know what would be best for me to use i don't mind spending good money on an antenna but only if it improves my reception would not want to spend all that money and not see a big difference.......could you post the spec of the antenna hear what is the size of the antenna when fully assembled.... i don't have any problems putting an antenna up out doors.

thanks: John

You get a similar effect touching the L.E.D. screen on Pioneer Super-Tuner car radios, also.

Find a definition for "fascist" that doesn't apply to Bush.

<crickets>

"THE PEOPLE HAVE SPOKEN..

THEY say that in life you get what you deserve. Well, today America has deservedly got a lawless cowboy to lead them further into carnage and isolation and the unreserved contempt of most of the rest of the world.

This once-great country has pulled up its drawbridge for another four years and stuck a finger up to the billions of us forced to share the same air.
And in doing so, it has shown itself to be a fearful, backward- looking and very small nation.

This should have been the day when Americans finally answered their critics by raising their eyes from their own sidewalks and looking outward towards the rest of humanity. And for a few hours early yesterday, when the exit polls predicted a John Kerry victory, it seemed they had. But then the horrible, inevitable truth hit home. They had somehow managed to re-elect the most devious, blinkered and reckless leader ever put before them.
The Yellow Rogue of Texas. A self-serving, dim-witted, draft-dodging, gung-ho little rich boy, whose idea of courage is to yell: "I feel good," as he unleashes an awesome fury which slaughters 100,000 innocents for no other reason than greed and vanity.

A dangerous chameleon, his charming exterior provides cover for a power-crazed clique of Doctor Strangeloves whose goal is to increase America's grip on the world's economies and natural resources. And in foolishly backing him, Americans have given the go-ahead for more unilateral pre-emptive strikes, more world instability and most probably another 9/11. Why else do you think bin Laden was so happy to scare them to the polls, then made no attempt to scupper the outcome? There's only one headline in town today, folks: "It Was Osama Wot Won It." And soon he'll expect pay-back. Well, he can't allow Bush to have his folks whoopin' and a-hollerin' without his own getting a share of the fun, can he? Heck, guys, I hope you're feeling proud today.

To the tens of millions who voted for John Kerry, my commiserations. To the overwhelming majority of you who didn't, I simply ask: Have you learnt nothing? Do you despise your own image that much? Do you care so little about the world beyond your shores? How could you do this to yourselves? How appalling must one man's record at home and abroad be for you to reject him?

Kerry wasn't the best presidential candidate the Democrats have ever fielded (and he did deserve a kicking for that "reporting for doo-dee" moment), but at least he understood the complexity of the world outside America, and domestic disgraces like the 45 million of his fellow citizens without health cover. He would have done something to make that country fairer and re-connected it with the wider world. Instead America chose a man without morals or vision. An economic incompetent who inherited a $2 billion surplus from Clinton, gave it in tax cuts to the rich and turned the US into the world's largest debtor nation. A man who sneers at the rights of other nations. Who has withdrawn from international treaties on the environment and chemical weapons. A man who flattens sovereign states then hands the rebuilding contracts to his own billionaire party backers. A man who promotes trade protectionism and backs an Israeli government which continually flouts UN resolutions.

America has chosen a menacingly immature buffoon who likened the pursuit of the 9/11 terrorists to a Wild West, Wanted Dead or Alive man-hunt and, during the Afghanistan war, kept a baseball scorecard in his drawer, notching up hits when news came through of enemy deaths.

A Radical Christian fanatic who decided the world was made up of the forces of good and evil, who invented a war on terror, and thus as author of it, believed he had the right to set the rules of engagement. Which translates to telling his troops to do what the hell they want to the bad guys. As he has at Guantanamo, Abu Ghraib and countless towns across Iraq.

You have to feel sorry for the millions of Yanks in the big cities like New York, Washington, Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco who voted to kick him out. These are the sophisticated side of the electorate who recognise a gibbon when they see one.

As for the ones who put him in, across the Bible Belt and the South, us outsiders can only feel pity.

Were I a Kerry voter, though, I'd feel deep anger, not only at them returning Bush to power, but for allowing the outside world to lump us all into the same category of moronic muppets. The self- righteous, gun-totin', military lovin', sister marryin', abortion-hatin', gay-loathin', foreigner-despisin', non-passport ownin' red-necks, who believe God gave America the biggest dick in the world so it could urinate on the rest of us and make their land "free and strong".

You probably won't be surprised to learn of would-be Oklahoma Republican Senator Tom Coburn who, on Tuesday, promised to ban abortion and execute any doctors who carried them out. He also told voters that lesbianism is so rampant in the state's schools that girls were being sent to toilets on their own. Not that any principal could be found to back him up. These are the people who hijack the word patriot and liken compassion to child-molesting. And they are unknowingly bin Laden's chief recruiting officers.

Al-Qaeda's existence is fuelled by the outpourings of America's Christian right. Bush is its commander-in-chief. And he and bin Laden need each other to survive. Both need to play Lex Luther to each others' Superman with their own fanatical people. Maybe that's why the mightiest military machine ever assembled has failed to catch the world's most wanted man.

Or is the reason simply that America is incompetent? That behind the bluff they are frightened and clueless, which is why they've stayed with the devil they know.

Visitors from another planet watching this election would surely not credit the amateurism. The queues for hours to register a tick; the 17,000 lawyers needed to ensure there was no cheating; the $1.2bn wasted by parties trying to discredit the enemy; the allegations of fraud, intimidation and dirty tricks; the exit polls which were so wildly inaccurate; an Electoral College voting system that makes the Eurovision Song Contest look like a beacon of democracy and efficiency; and the delays and the legal wrangles in announcing the victor.

Yet America would have us believe theirs is the finest democracy in the world. Well, that fine democracy has got the man it deserved. George W Bush.

But is America safer today without Kerry in charge? A man who overnight would have given back to the UN some credibility and authority. Who would have worked out the best way to undo the Iraq mess without fear of losing face.

Instead, the questions facing America today are - how many more thousands of their sons will die as Iraq descends into a new Vietnam? And how many more Vietnams are on the horizon now they have given Bush the mandate to go after Iran, Syria, North Korea or Cuba...?

Today is a sad day for the world, but it's even sadder for the millions of intelligent Americans embarrassed by a gung-ho leader and backed by a banal electorate, half of whom still believe Saddam Hussein was behind 9/11.

Yanks had the chance to show the world a better way this week, instead they made a thuggish cowboy ride off into the sunset bathed in glory. And in doing so it brought Armageddon that little bit closer and re-christened their beloved nation The Home Of The Knave and the Land Of The reak.

God Help America.

Good question.

Notice how the bushkultie is forced to evade it, so predictably.

The bushkultie isn't permitted to think.

The question remains.

Here is a website with a good multicoupler, low noise and well built.

You get what you pay for.  For wet cells (marine, car batteries) you want a 3 stage charger: bulk/float/equalize.  For gel cells and AGM, you never use equalize (or you do so once, then you throw the battery away :-))

My small charger (for when I'm not using solar) is a Deltran Battery Tender.  Commercial grade ones cost much more, of course.

Mini-circuits has them.

4-way passive:

http://www.mini-circuits.com/dg03-134.pdf

8-way passive:

http://www.mini-circuits.com/dg03-138.pdf

On HF, noise is the limiting factor, so if you still have the S-meter moving above where it is when nothing is connected when you insert the 8-way splitter, you haven't lost much.  (Yes, Nf, but is that really relevent here?)

Don't know how to read the charts?  Call Mini-Circuits -- they happily do quantity 1 orders and have been helpful when I've dealt with them.

(Mini-circuits modules are what you find inside Stridsberg splitters. I don't know about ICE, but they are a reputable company, so you should get good quality whatever they do.)

WHOA... I was ready to say that in all the accounts I have read concerning the Titanic disaster that Guglielmo Marconi never sent or relayed a message.
He did send one---just one message!

Simpllicity. You could build a fairly useable radio with just 3 stages, in fact quite a few 27 Mhz walkie talkies were built that way, with the Regen detector doubling as the Oscillator/output stage in transmit.

Sounds like Al Weiner's boys have been in the sauce -- and are live on the air.

Currently telling how to use one antenna to simulcast on 3 different frequencies at one time -- if I understand it correctly.

Language is slightly . . . offensive to some - probably.

As a guess, modern Americans have come to expect everything to happen "right now". That is one major reason why our foriegn policy will never make sense. Any usefull plan will take too long and the sheeple will loose their attention and move on to the next quick fix.
Overweight, simple eat less and exercise. But that takes too long, so along come lyposuction, stomach stapple and bowel bypassing.

Kids can't read, simple take the time and energy to have one adult work with one child and find out how that child learns. But that takes too long so the school system, at least here in central Kentucky, jumps from one wild scheme to another and Jophnny still can't read.
Even the government seams to be driven by tracking polls. What is TODAYs problem? Remember Somolia? The nightmare had been going on for years before CNN etal started harping on the "starving children" and the evil warlords, the media looked like a shark feeding frenzy.
And President Bush(1) sent troups to "protect" the food chain.
Instant solution to a long term problem. Only the solution imploded.
Almost every problem facing the US or the world lacks a fast solution.
And will not be solved.
As too the elction result need for speed, I think it is driven in large part by our major media outlets. They harp on this or that delay.
And the public assumes that there is some valid need for speed.
I suspect that most Presidetnial candidates already have their cabnet choices made well before election night. If for now other reason then to cement their help in the election. I am guesing that a candidate could throw a cabnet togahter in a week or so.
The republic survived for years without instant results.
But the idiots I work with all thin the world will end unless they can go to bed at 11:00EST without knowing who won.
I have never watchted the results. When I was a child my parents treated election night as family night. We would play games, or mom and dad would tell us about their childhood. When I was 10 several of the families in our neighborhood had what might today be called a "block party". I got to (was forced to) dance with several of the girls.
As I got older I was kind of shocked to find out the the real world came to a complete halt on election night. Today my wife and I watch movies, enjoy pop corn and play Scrable.
In 2004 I heard about the election screwup on the way to work and turned my radio off in disgust. I was certain that Kentucky had messed up.

I've got next to nothing on wbcq here in Wilmington. I guess still not propagating very well, or I should check and see if my antenna is still up.

Speaking of which, if you get the chance to see the making of DSOTM, on dvd, do so. quite a bit of insight into making of this classic.
And everyone in Pink Floyd is getting old lol!

They sure can't be trusted.

Bush is not religious and needs no excuse to lie to anyone at any time.

Your antenna is probably all right.  It died out here before 20:00 EST / 01:00 UTC.   It was pretty bad about 15 min before that.  I'm in NC also, about 100 air miles from the coast, northern border.  Oh, you didn't say Wilmington, Del. or NC.  I assumed NC.  ;-)

9580 (China Broadcast) coming in great right now.

GG,

There you go using the "F" Word again.

Is the "F" Word the extent of your very limited political education ?

And what is really sad is that you do not even us the "F" Word correctly.

No problem. There is a recent US influence on religion here with more happy-clappy singing and not thinking. The influence has lead to some private schools whose students ARE scientifically illiterate, but this is few and far between.  Thank God!

There's something peculiar about religion that celebrates its conflict with the world and the recovery of those who have "fallen" (as if its better to prodigal than always faithful), while ignoring (largely) those who don't see any conflict and never had a need to be "born again", 'cause they had it right the first time.  The whole born and apocalyptic again thing is peculiarly American.  I don't know the concept at all except from recent American influence via media.  And these media types tend to be total ignoramuses (unbelievable that an idiot like Jerry Falwell has a following and a (I'm sure it must be pretend, please tell me it is) a university.)

George W's lurch from drunk driver to bible thumper, goes with the seeing of the world in need of some sort of parallel salvation as he apparently experienced.  I heard last night on Ideas (CBC/RCI) that Ronald Reagan had told a US Senate committee that they didn't need to worry about environmental effects b/c the second coming would bail us out.  How do such morons get elected?  Something's got to be wrong with a system that elects movie actors.  Celebrity and ability to manipulate others mistaken for greatness and competence!  Didn't anyone challenge Reagan or Schwartzenegger by saying "he's an actor, an uneducated boor", or Bush by saying "he's a dry drunk who ruined every company he's been part of" or Clinton by saying "he's a lecherous, dishonest lout" Any why not?

I think they should publish the marks of all who want to run for office, and also make them sit for uniform exams (do they have "departmentals" in the US? -  exams you have to pass in high school in every subject or no diploma - set by national or at least state standard?  Makes me shudder to think of what might be on some exams from some states. It'd better be national!)

Sept 11 has nothing to do with the fundamentalism issues.  This has been in place for as long as they've been doing surveys.  Abt 45% of Americans believe that God created humans in basically their present form about 4-8000 years ago, and that dinosaurs and humans lived together on the earth, and the Noah flood, etc.  The numbers hold since the late 1950's. All of which is false: shown convincingly by science to be.  These odd creationism beliefs do not register on European surverys, and only at about 8% in Canada (probably due to proximity to the US).  Over 85% of Canadians believe in God and adhere to Christianity, but they don't accept the biblical literalism so peculiar to the USA.  Europeans are in the 75-90% range depending on country.

This is a misunderstanding of what a scientific theory is with the everyday use of the term "theory".  Electricity is a theory (of electron flow), gravity is a theory, continental drift is a theory, the structure of atoms is a theory, genetic inheiritance is a theory, and so is evolution.  We cannot see the processes themselves with a scientific theory, only evidence for or against the theory.  The theory of evolution is as well established as any of these other theories.

Please state the scientific theories that might be competitors for evolution.  Well, you can't.  There are none.  And evolution should be and must be taught in every life science and biology course.  And it is in my country.  With no influence on religiousity, but a strong influence on biblical literalism.

DRM is being pushed by broadcasters because it saves power (therefore money) for the broadcasters (Transmission power) - what other reason would they have in promoting it?

Some Regens are better than others. Some Regens are better than Superhets. Example: the home-brew Regen we use for S.W. is a little more sensitive an about as selective as our straight forward low-end Hallicrafters S-38. The home-brew Regens' selectivity is improved by a judicious r.f. coupling and a.f. extraction design not found in conventional Regen design. On the other hand, you wouldn't want to call on a Regen for serious communication work.

Bottom line: Regens are fun, simple, inexpensive, forgiving, and if designed well, will compete with low end superhets. For serious radio communication, the superhet can be designed to perform giddy acts from beyond.

I was out at 56 degrees north, 103 W at about 7:30 pm local time, which is about 3 hours after sunset.  Laid out on a beach at -10C (+5 F) with the waves tinkling the ice along the shore in the dark, with an ocassional groan as the pack shifted into the beach.  In the 40 mins of watching, I saw 4 satellites tracking east to west and 2 going north to south.  It'd be interesting to have a database of these, so you could tell what you were seeing.  Maybe there's too much junk up there to sort out by time and earth observation point.

I also saw 2 meteorites, one of which broke into 3 pieces. Very cool.  The milky way was very bright.  No artificial light for about 200 miles in any direction.  Just us, the elk and the deer.

SW reception was excellent.  Took the travelling radio, the Sangean ATS 606A.  Getting FM from 450 miles away.  BBC 5975 and RN 6165 came through without the whip extended.  Tons of Spanish stations.  Lots of religious loonies plugging up the air.  This was a spectacular reception situation. Listened mostly with the 23 ft roll-up.  Had to temper the listening though, this was our anniversary trip after all.  Nothing like a good radio, some fine port, a hot tub, some elk bugleing and the woman you love, in cabin in the woods, with no-one else anywhere nearby (better put the last of the list first!)

Yeah, Wilmington, NC. I've checked bcq a few times since conditions started to deteriorate, but they've not been very audible for the most part. What town in NC are you in by the way? I grew up in Murfreesboro, and have lived in Va. Beach, Raleigh, and now Wilmington since. 9.580 fading a bit presently.

Ever since March I've been living in a situation that is not conducive to SW listening, so my Yaesu and Degen have been wrapped up and in storage. This situation was intended to be temporary until my new house was built, but construction has run into delay after delay. But the house is about half finished now, so I have a question: when I move in, should I bother to set up my listening post, or is SW a lost cause? I just got my 2005 Passport, and it has a sidebar in there asking if SW radio is "kaput" and concludes that it isn't. While several European stations have disappeared, and Voice of America is about to do the same thing, China and Thailand have been expanding services. Plus traditional SW radio is hard to censor or jam (although many stations seem to be censoring themselves). What does everybody think?

Shortwave is years away from going away, possibly decades. Granted, some of the bigger stations have reduced or eliminated SW broadcasts but there's always something to listen to.

I just spent $425 on a new radio, though, so I may be a bit biased ;)

I actually found a Flavoradio in a thrift store and paid the $1.98 and took it home. Not much of a performer, but it sure looks interesting-it's bright orange. I guess in a country as small as Haiti, you wouldn't need much of a radio. But NK is bigger, and technology is more advanced than in the Flavoradio days, so I would suspect that you could make an interesting radio to put in a small package that would suffice to pick up tx beamed from the South.

You most definitely don't need a synchronous detector for SSB reception; indeed there is nothing to synchronize to. One can argue that the "direct conversion receiver", ie a mixer and oscillator that translates the signal directly to audio, is just a variant on a regen set to oscillate in order to likewise beat the signals down to audio. A regen does have its limits when it comes to SSB, including the lack of selectivity and since they were built for simplicity, lack of stability.

Synchronous detection is not need for FM, either. What may be fooling you is that one way to detect FM is to use a phase locked loop that tracks the incoming signal; the feedback voltage hence follows the modulation of the signal and recovers the audio. There are plenty of other FM detectors, but yes the regen isn't usually one of them. Theoretically it can be used like any AM detector to demodulate FM by mistuning and "slope detection".

Actually, regens were rarely or never used for those applications. It was the superregen, also patented by Howard Armstrong, that was used. It was an extension of the regen, the addition being quenching of the detector at frequency in the hundreds of kiloHertz range. This pulsing of th regen detector allowed for maximum gain without the instability of the regen going in and out of oscillation. It also results in a much wider bandwidth. Note that the superregen is promoted for reception of FM, though in its case it is slope detection.

That one's easy. There's all kind of satellite tracking software all over the internet. A quick search under "satellite tracking" should bring in more hits than you know what to do with. I used to use several different programs myself, but that was a few years ago and so I couldn't make any recommendations. (I had to give it up because of the light pollution around where I live.)

I suppose to someone used to Catholic Masses (you're in Mexico is my guess from the "mexnet" address) American evangelical services must be quite a shock.

Yes, most of our "televangelists" have "universities" and private schools where only their view of the world is allowed and is presented as absolute truth. Most of the "graduates" of these schools are only qualified to work as preachers, so what they do is hang out a shingle, attract a few dozen followers who are dumber than they are, and open up a church. One of the great things about America's guaranteed freedom of religion is that anybody can set up their own church and teach anything they like in it. Most of these operations are the blind leading the blind, but I prefer it to a state sanctioned church that everybody is compelled to join.

Because most Americans are blind followers. You'd have to be a blind follower to sail thousands of miles and several months across open ocean to a barely explored wilderness and then attempt to settle there, with no contact with home and no idea of the natural rhythms of this strange new land. That's what the ancestors of today's Americans did. Most of them were religious zealots seeking a place where they could worship without getting their noses cut off (as was the practice in England to deal with heretics) which is why America is so religiously zealous today. None of this would matter if America was some piss ass little out of the way country that nobody cared about, but since it has almost absolute power over the world in a way not seen since the glory days of Rome the rest of the world has reason to be concerned.

No, there's no national high school exit exam (as Americans would call it) and only a few states are just now experimenting with them. Education isn't controlled at the federal or even the state level but by zillions of special governmental entities called "school districts" that cover anywhere from a small town to dozens of square miles, and that are run by elected "school boards". The boards control everything from hiring of teachers to setting of curriculum. Since serving on a school board isn't a high prestige or high pay position, only morons get elected to them, and politics, ideology and plain old infighting determines what gets taught. As a result, curriculum varies greatly from town to town, city to city, mountain to prairie. Some schools teach "creationism" (basically the belief that the Christian Bible's account of the creation of the world as told in Genesis is literally true) alongside regular science and allow students to "choose" between them. Some schools put a greater emphasis on having high self esteem than having good grades (or "marks" as you'd say). All sorts of pseudoscientific educational theories flourish and can be found in at least one school district. Add in bureaucrats who are more concerned about their political standing with the school board members than with education, and the end result is that few Americans get a good education, which is likely why movie stars get elected to public office. If you find a well educated American, he/she is likely either self educated or the child of fabulously wealthy parents.

JK, RC and CM,

I want to Thank Each of You for your replies to this question.

Note:  I am only talking about a SWL "Receive Only" Antenna here.

I suspect that may be one reason that this Far-End Loaded AM/MW Coil may work is the fact that the RF Systems EMF Antenna is 'only' Sixteen Feet (16') Long; and the Two Inch to Three Inch (2"-3") Ferrite Rod at the End of the Wire Antenna Element does have some 'measurable effect' on improving the AM/MW Frequency Band performance of such a short Antenna.
-  Relative Size may be the Controlling Factor for this 'unique' small Antenna

? ? Would this 'trick' work with a Larger {Longer} SWL Antenna ? ?

My more specific point of interest would be in whether using a Ferrite Rod with the Wire Antenna Element Wrapped as a AM/MW Coil around it would have some meaningful effect on a Horizontal Random Wire Antenna that was 75-100 Feet long.
-  For a Horizontal Random Wire Antenna ?WHY? 'place' the Ferrite Rod at the Far-End of the Wire Antenna Element ?
-  Why not 'place' the Ferrite Rod near the Feed-Point-End ?
-  Why not 'place' the Ferrite Rod near the Middle ?
-  Why not 'place' the Ferrite Rod near the slightly Off-Center 38%/62% like a Windom ?

What about a "Low Noise' Inverted "L" Antenna that is 45-100 Feet long.  For an Inverted "L" Antenna ?WHY? not 'place' the Ferrite Rod at the "Top" of the Vertical Leg where the Antenna Wire Element transitions from Vertical to Horizontal ?
-  15 Feet Up Ferrite Rod AM/MW Ferrite Coil and 30 Feet Out.
-  20 Feet Up Ferrite Rod AM/MW Ferrite Coil and 40 Feet Out.
-  25 Feet Up Ferrite Rod AM/MW Ferrite Coil and 50 Feet Out.
-  33 Feet Up Ferrite Rod AM/MW Ferrite Coil and 67 Feet Out.
Or again here would having the Ferrite Rod and Coil at the Far-End work some 'magic' trick ? and Why ?

What adapter? Standard car battery and electronic charger. B&B Auto for both. The electronic charger is better for your battery. It keeps the battery toped up without going wild like the simple transformer types can.
Don't remember who in this thread mentioned fuses but he's right. Use em.
They are cheap fire insurance. A car battery can deliver an amazing level of amperage when shorted. Don't expect it to be cheap. My charger cost about $90.00. If your radios does not run on 12 volts, a regulator is easy to make for a few bucks.

U.S. set to sneak radios to N. Korea

Smuggled receivers would get non-official broadcasts, but ally S. Korea has concerns.

By Tim Johnson
Knight Ridder Newspapers
November 13, 2004

SEOUL, South Korea -- The U.S. government is preparing to smuggle tiny radios into North Korea as part of a newly financed program to break down the country's isolation.

Washington will spend up to $2 million annually for four years to boost radio broadcasts toward North Korea and infiltrate mini-radios across its borders.

North Korea, probably the most isolated country in the world, has only radios that are rigged to capture broadcasts lionizing the nation's Stalinist leadership. The broadcasts also blare from outdoor loudspeakers.

The U.S. plan to smuggle small radios into North Korea is outlined in the North Korean Human Rights Act, which President Bush signed into law Oct. 18. The sweeping act provides money to private humanitarian groups to assist defectors, extends refugee status to fleeing North Koreans and sets in motion a plan to boost broadcasts to North Korea and get receivers into the country.

North Korea's Kim Jong Il regime says the radios will air "rotten imperialist reactionary culture" to undermine the country.

The human rights act, in its broad scope, also has encountered opposition from President Roh Moo-hyun, South Korea's center-left leader. Officials under Roh say the act will stiffen Pyongyang's resistance to the world and hinder already stalled talks to get North Korea to abandon its efforts to build a nuclear arsenal.

They scoff at the U.S. plan to smuggle in radios, saying it's a good-hearted idea but one that will worsen the plight of North Koreans. Anyone captured with a radio, they said, might face prison.

Supporters of the tactic argue that it offers a ray of hope to a populace that's hungry for news amid food shortages and an acute humanitarian crisis.

"There's an incredible desire among North Korean people to know what's going on," said Suzanne Scholte, head of the Defense Forum Foundation, a nonprofit group that focuses on U.S. policy toward North Korea.

A small number of clandestine radios are in the country, sent in by helium-filled balloons deployed by South Korean religious groups or brought in by traders across North Korea's border with China.

"Some people listen to South Korean broadcasts under their blankets," said Lee Gui-ok, a young North Korean mother who fled to China in 1999 and later moved to Seoul.

Let's approach this from the usual perspective.  Many SWLrs posting here already have the ferrite antenna in their receiver and come here for a boost in signals.  The fact that it is so easily accomplished by the addition of that same 16 feet of random wire tossed across the living room rug would suggest just how much contribution is found in the ferrite antenna.

Let's put some numbers to it.  With the ferrite antenna a DX station comes in S3, replace it with the wire and it climbs to S7.  So, if we start with just the wire antenna with the same signal at S7, and adding the ferrite to pump up da volume to S7+ would this be worth $95 to you?  What if by simply adding 6" more wire to the 16 feet gave you that same +?

As a product, it is incredibly cheesy to boot.  Look at that clunky pl259 at the end of rg174.  C'mon now, are we talking about your granddad's RCA Victor this sucker is going to plug into?  That and the lead-in is only 16 feet in its own right?  How much profit would be lost to give you a decent length of wire and lead-in?

This at least suggests a more practicable study. Loading coils don't do very much without some form of capacitance above them to draw the current. Putting a coil at the top is a fruitless exercise. It may offer to "tune" but it sure won't sing.

Greetings! I built the Ten Tec 1253, 9 band a few years ago. I thouroughly enjoyed using it. Recently I lost the FETs due to leaving the radio hooked up to the antenna during a freak thunderstorm. Arthritis will no longer allow me to repair it so I am looking into crystal sets for shortwave. The 1253 took patience in tuning, but the challenge made the listening more fun. Side band was very difficult,but I did manage to copy even on 20 meters during the day. Build one. It is worth the effort. Jon.

I say set it up; in fact, as long as you are building new - you might as well plan where you want the antenna & make sure the house is built with 'cable access' at that point.

Hello John,

I have no experience with the Dressler antennas, but I own a Wellbrook ALA 330S Active Loop Antenna. This is the best overall antenna I have ever used. (At one time, when I lived in a ranch-style home, I was able to run a 100-foot wire mounted at the very top of the attic; my Wellbrook, also attic-mounted in my small townhouse, performs better, overall, especially in the summer. It really attenuates atmospheric and local electrical noise, which is present in abundance at my location.)

It probably is not really necessary to mount the antenna on a rotator. I mounted mine on a Radio Shack $100 model, but I have found that I rarely use it. I mostly listen to SW 49 meters and down. (I do find it useful to rotate the antenna when listening to the 60 and 75 meter tropical bands.) You can always manually rotate the antenna if you put it in your attic. Note: PASSPORT says the Wellbrook works best if mounted outdoors, but this is not an option for me. They also say that attic-mounting is a very tempting alternative. They are quite correct in that assessment. My antenna works extremely well. S/N is far better than any other antenna I have tried at my current location (I must use an indoor antenna as our very active homeowners' association forbids outdoor antennas except for small satellite dishes, and even they must be approved on a case-by-case basis).

You do need to supply your own coaxial cable, but this is not a major consideration.

I read on some postings here that some people can't believe the Wellbrook is wide-ranging in frequency coverage as claimed (3 - 30 MHz). Take it from me - it is! Even on MW (on which I do very little DXing), it is quite good.

My receiver is an AOR AR7030 Plus. I also sometimes use a Grundig

Satellit 800 with this antenna.

Obviously, I am very pleased with the antenna. I bought mine from THE SHORTWAVE SHOP in the UK. In my opinion, they are a first-class operation. You can telephone (or e-mail) them with any questions or concerns about the Wellbrook antennas.

I hope this is of some help to you.

Best,

Joe

RG,

The comment was not directed at your posting to this NewsGroup.

It was in 'reference' to the eMails from China Radio International and other eMail type "News Letter" providers.

Things like a Schedule that may not change with every eMail are best 'communicated' by making them "Links" within the eMail.
This also aides to "GET" the Reader to Click-On the Links and thereby Count and Track Your Active Readers. {Cookies}

The majority of the 'Text' within the Monthly, Weekly, Daily eMail should be Fresh "News" [What's Happening Now !] that the Reader will like to know and be interested in Reading when they OPEN the eMail.

hope this clarifies the prior post ~ RHF

Yes, I do the same and get mainly radio related postings only.

Its worth the effort.

Greetings!  Now that we have retired all the castaways back to Gilligan's Island; how about the shortwave radio on one of the Andy Griffith shows.
Remember the one with the Gypsies who were listening to shortwave to make long term forcasts on the weather?  I can't remember if it was a Hallicrafters or a Hamerland .  I believe it was a Hallicrafters.
It is always fun to look at the radios they had in the office as well.  I seem to remember old Colins stuff.
Just some more useless food for fodder.  Have a great weekend!  Jon.

Sangean and Sony are also part of the DRM consortium. Obviously, they have an interest in selling a new generation of higher priced radios.

I don't think any of the Chinese manufacturers are involved with DRM.

The local oscillator operates on the regenerative principle, so Armstrong was obviously in a good position to develop the superhet.  Fessenden had discovered heterodyning years before, but he was using Poulsen arc generators as oscillators.

I don't know if this is the same thing, but I was listening to one of the local 1000 watt AMers today, and it sounded really nice.  There was a three dimensional sound from the studio that's not normally heard.  I think the normal studio reverberations and such are supressed either deliberately or as a byproduct of the usual studio audio processing.  Anyway, it sure sounded lifelike.

I'm not so sure lifelike audio is much of a selling point, however.  Hi-Fi radio has been around in one form or another since the thirties, and it's never been real popular.  I figure people usually listen to the radio casually, and pull out the recordings when they want to listen intently.

The only problem with standard AM as a high fidelity medium is it takes alot of signal to get a good signal to noise ratio.  I really doubt DRM can better the fidelity potentially availiable from standard AM with a strong signal.  But, even in very strong signal areas, there seems to be no interest in high fidelity AM anymore.

In the office (jail), I believe there was an Eico transmitter on the desk.

May I ask you guys when you use the ANF?
It says on one page in the manual it's for SSB only, then, it works in AM on another page.

I wish it had manual adjustments as well as the auto feature.

good reply as usual. i am also looking at wellbrook's.
could you tell me why you picked the 330S over the 1530? and, thanks again for helping in my decision on the 7030+. great radio. seems every time i turn it on i learn something new about it. i have an on going battle here between the Drake R8B and the AR7030+. i'm still looking for that extra filter between the 2.2 and 4.0mhz included standard filters. any info on what brand to look at?
thanks joe...

I was recently on Icom's website and noticed that they describe the frequency range of the R-75 this way:

Coverage: 0.03 - 60 MHz (0.1-29.99 and 50-54 MHz guaranteed)

I'm not on the market for a receiver, but if I were considering the purchase of an R-75, their parenthetical disclaimer would make me nervous.

Judging from what I've read elsewhere, the R-75 really does cover 0.03 - 60 mhz; but then, why does Icom only 'guarantee' more limited frequency coverage?

They do not guarantee the specs -especially on sensitivity- outside the given ranges.

I questioned that too but mine does .030 to 60Mhz   Maybe foreign models outside the US are limited??

No, as Volker stated, the specs are only 'guaranteed' within the specified

Try this one.

"This may surprise most educated people. One of the more common government strategies today, especially in developing regions is fascism. Fascism is commonly confused with Nazism.  Nazism is a political party platform that embraces a combination of a military dictatorship, socialism and fascism.  It is not a government structure. Fascism is a government structure. The most notable characteristic of a fascist country is the separation and persecution or denial of equality to a specific segment of the population based upon superficial qualities or belief systems.

Simply stated, a fascist government always has one class of citizens that is considered superior (good) to another (bad) based upon race, creed or origin.  It is possible to be both a republic and a fascist state. The preferred class lives in a republic while the oppressed class lives in a fascist state.

He would have done something to make that country fairer and re-connected it with the wider world. Instead America chose a man without morals or vision. This a guarantee of reception per all of the abilities of the receiver. You are correct that some models for some markets (I think Europe, New Zealand, Australia and possibly Japan) have some frequencies missing. The situation is apparently similar for people in the USA who cannot buy scanners with some frequencies used for cellular phones, which you can other places.

Wouldn't make me nervous. We're not talking about a $3,000 radio here...it's a five-hundred dollar box. The spec for sensitivity is only guaranteed within the area where the RF input bandpass filtering is peaked, I'm sure. If you need a radio sensitive and birdie-free from 30KHz to 100KHz, you could prbably spend a few more kilobucks and be much less nervous.

Two places. The Nov/2004 National Geographic.  Second, this is referenced in several of Stephen Jay Gould's essays which have collected into a series of books.  The belief in God does not correlate with church attendance re Europeans, Canadians and others, but is more strongly related in the USA.

I've never heard this before.  What does "quarter of 10" mean?  Is this before 10 or after 10?  I thought it was my hearing until this was repeated.  "quarter to" and "quarter after", rarely "quarter past" are all usual ways of saying this around here.  Though digital clocks make it "ten fifteen". I think this must be a regionalism or slang for somewhere in the USA (?).

I also hear "zulu" said instead of UTC (or the old GMT).

Quarter of 10 means 15 minutes to 10.

Zulu is used the same as UTC and GMT. Zulu is more of a military term.

My theory is that some broadcasters, somewhere, will always want to take advantage of the shortwave bands. With all of that bandwidth just sitting there, there's always going to be someone waiting to fill it.
The nature of shortwave programming might change significantly, but that's probably true of many other media.

Don't expect shortwave to disappear anytime soon. It probably won't happen until all the movie theaters close (because of television) and all the newspapers go out of business (because of the internet).

Thanks for your informative post.  Not in Mexico right now, back in Sask.
Back and forth.  Elderly parents live in rural Mex permanently.  Gotta babysit them as their hips get replaced and cataracts removed.  I'll change the email reference.

Curious that the "college" educated percentage is quite high for the US. Colleges to me are different than a university. There are typically three kinds of institutions: accreditted universities, who have a government approved charter (takes an act of a legislature to make a university), community and junior colleges, which offer academic upgrading and additional credits that may be recognized by tech schools and universities, but don't grant diplomas, and technical schools which have diploma granting authority and journeyman certificate training for trades (e.g., welding, carpentry, plumbing, computer). I'm guessing that the "college" educated population in the USA is from some additional private and unregulated type of school, and that "university" is a title that anyone can use.

The ANF works in either mode for me at least, but the het seems to have to be at a certain threshold for it to work. Weak hets are not notched out.

Try tuning WWV in AM mode and hitting the ANF - the tones are notched out.

Somewhere around here I have a copy of an old magazine article from the 1970s talking about how the death of AM radio is "at most" five years away. I think there's a lesson in this.

My target receivers are my Kenwood R-5000, Icom IC-R75, and Grundig Satellit 800 M.  Note with the Grundig Satellit 800 M when the SO-239 is switch on to use the External Antenna the 'internal' AM/MW Ferrite Rod Antenna is disconnected.

Not worried about the cost since this would be a 'home-brewed'
Antenna with parts I already have.

Looking to add a little more signal to the AM/MW Band area for improved Weak Signal DXing from the Inverted "L" Antennas.

RC,

I have the two Inverted "L" Antennas and about a dozen 10mm X 200mm Ferrite Rods to play with.  So for me it is a matter of De-Rigging the Antennas; winding the Antennnna Wire on the Ferrite Rod; and Re-Rigging the Antennas.

Doing a dry run with an extra piece of Antenna Wire; I can get about Nine Turns per Inch; which would be 63 Turns uniformally wrapped evenly over 90% of the Ferrite Rod.

So my 'focus' is on a "Low Noise' Inverted "L" Antenna that is 100 Feet long.  Placing the Ferrite Rod at the "Top" of the Vertical Leg where the Antenna Wire Element transitions from Vertical to Horizontal.  Rig the Antenna Wire Element with 33
Feet Up to the Ferrite Rod AM/MW Ferrite Coil and then have 67 Feet Out to the Far-End.  Would this possibly work any better then having the Ferrite Rod and Coil at the Far-End ? and Why ?

In my 'imagination' for the AM/MW Broadcast Band; the Vertical Up-Leg would act like an Omni-Directional "Tuned" Vertical Antenna (since the Ferrite Rod would be Vertical); with the Horizontal Out-Arm of the Antenna acting like a Top Hat for the Vertical.
Then at the Shortwave Frequencies the 'effects' of the Ferrite Rod would become less and the Antenna would simply act as a normal SWL'ers Inverted "L" Antenna.

Now here is another thought; would having the Ferrite Rod with the Antenna Wire wrapped around it at the Far-End of the Horizontal Antenna Element cause the AM/MW Broadcast Band reception to be Directional 'Off-the-Sides' of the Inverted "L" Antenna ? ? ?

Yes, I was assuming you had a short antenna and wanted to load it. The reason for loading a short antenna is to increase its electrical length closer to resonance and the benefits are much more pronounced for transmitted signals. Most modern HF receivers have enough gain to make up for a less than optimum antenna.

Loading a long wire antenna doesn't make much sense.

I just bought these two off Ebay and was wondering if anybody has any experience with these two radios. I bought em both for obvious collector reasons. The R-530 has the Wadley loop circuit which I'm interested in. And I got the SW1 because it's one of the first micro portables with descent performance and I collect Sony's. I would like to find the Original Barlow Wadley XCR-30 someday.

I don't know the numbers but, there are increasingly more products from Sony that are outsourced to China.
I was dismayed when I purchased a second Sony TV, about 4 years after I purchased the same model earlier, only to discover it was made in Mexico.
The quality between the two TV sets are obvious.  The first one, made in Japan, is superior in every way to the newer made in Mexico model.

Sony will be exiting the SW WorldBand radio market.  Get one while you still can!

Sangean (=Grundig/Eton) are a Taiwan company.  All of their radios are made on mainland China in the same factories (I believe, correct me if wrong) as Tecsun which is owned by the Chinese Communist Party - believe it or not!

DRM is a another way to extract $$$ from unsuspecting consumers.
If I want "digital" radio I'll "subscribe" (remember that -
"S.U.B.S.C.R.I.B.E.") to XM or Serius or satellite TV or internet stream...
I don't want Ibiquous(sp?) or DRM!

Worked the old Swiss Radio International site this morning on 15 meters. The curtain array was putting in an excellent signal. They were on 21275 and 18165 around 1315UT. More info is at qrz.com. Enter the HE3RSI call sign. Link to some awesome pictures there too. Sad that it will soon be torn down.

I am currently "walking a mile in your shoes." I think it's better to do a little listening, with modest antennas, because you might hear a few things worthwhile. I've even been known to "go mobile," taking a portable (and sometimes the trusty old FRG-7) to a local park which is relatively RFI - free.

Whatever became of Motorola's Symphony Chip for analog radio?
It was supposed to perform wonders from current AM broadcast signals.

"Motorola has developed this system to improve radio reception at the receiver by using the 1,500 MIPs processor to demodulate the received signal. The improvement comes without any transmission changes required of the broadcaster."
http://beradio.com/departments/radio_motorola_symphony_digital/

"Motorola's Symphony digital radio chipset delivers breakthrough AM/FM reception and performance"

"Unlike other digital radio offerings, the new digital radio chipset does not require broadcasters to buy new digital broadcast equipment. Neither does it require consumers to pay a monthly subscription fee like those charged by satellite services because it operates on traditional AM/FM analog broadcasts."

http://mrtmag.com/dealers/automotive/radio_motorolas_symphony_digital/

The DSP56371 is priced at $9.95(USD) (suggested list price) for 100,000-unit quantities.

| So you take the old Frog potable. Cool. Those are good radios Steve.

You know, Brian, I can't "read" the frequency down to 10 Hz, but the lack of synth noise really helps - that's another advantage of the old toob radios, also.  I really have GOT to get my R390A recapped, aligned, lubed, and repainted.  THAT is a real radio!  I'm also going to start looking for a '390
(non-"A" type) next year.  I have a friend, an old broadcast engineer, who lives in Kansas, near Manhattan, KS, and I've spent some time listening to his ex-NASA R-390.  The audio is so sweet, and it's an incredibly sensitive receiver.  Of course, I am planning on building an Elecraft K2 this Winter;
I'm just not sure where I'll get the TIME for all of this!

But, as to the Frog, you bet - the "D" cell compartment is in good shape, and if I leave the dial lights off and wear headphones (instead of using the speaker), I can get a couple of days' continuous use out of the rig.  I am thinking again about going on a "mini DXpedition" on Lake Pepin (Maybe in Lake City), if I can find decent lodgings that will allow a wire antenna of 100 feet or so.

They take skill to use but a good regen is very sensitive. I've got a homemade regen that's selectivity isn't bad either. I had a military RAL7 that was a good radio.

Yep. I've had a couple R-390s myself. You can wear your arm out tunning them but a properly working R-390 is the quitest radio ever built. I would have to argue they were the best tube radio ever built.

Those look like cool kits. If I was a ham, I would be tempted.

That would be good. Are you in any clubes around here? I was thinking of joining the MDXC? I got the ap.

RHF,
    Since you already have the items needed, why not give it a try?
The most you would loose would be the time/effort to 'de-rig' your other antenna.

Why did Radio Deutsche Welle stop transmitting on SW in English?

Two weeks ago, I heard that Swiss Radio International was going to do the same.

What will become of the shorwave bands?

Between battery and radio is just wire, fuse and connector. A few bucks worth of parts.
Most electronic places(even Radio Shack) have plugs to fit.

He has broadcast on WWCR for almost 10 years. Yesterday was the last broadcast.

He is a dynamic speaker, a dedicated man and a very informed individual though some do not like his occasional choice of words.

To those who listened to him and had not learned that his broadcasting is over you'll want to read "The Last Hurrah" by Jeffrey Bennett.

Sadam, the Chinese, the Russians and now the Japanese have decided not to support the U.S. dollar - at least to the extent it has been supported in the past.

The English speaking politicians of America have decided NOT to close off the borders though they claim to be fighting terrorism. Instead they are spreading terrorism. We are supposed to become so terrorized that we willingly give up ALL our rights to those who would gladly destroy us. We even have to put on our coffee cups - in four different languages - "Caution Hot" so that invaders no longer have to learn English - or learn that coffee is SUPPOSED to be HOT.

Perhaps this is just one more step in phasing out the good ol' English language just as there is an attempt to phase out the WASPs (White Anglo-Saxon Protestants) and the God which they at one time served. That was before they succumbed to the doctrines of Balaam.

Why should ANYONE broadcast in any language that they are attempting to phase out? Perhaps we could now do completely away with ABC, NBC, CBS and CNN except that they are needed to continue to lull us to sleep!

Good night! ;-)

Back in 1965, when I was 14, I tried many variations on "Long Wire" antennas. Given my parents back yard was about 60' wide and 120'long, it is clear that they weren't really "long" at any freqeuncy below 30MHz.

My uncle gave me some variable caps, Air-dux and two large,3/4"X16" ferrite rods. I tried wrapping wire around the ferrite and, except for short, 10' wire antennas, with the rod between the antenna and the receiver the rod made no differnce. None. And nothing worked as well as my "standard" 96' wire antenna. I did make some dipoles cut for WWV on 10 and 15MHZ and they were slightly better in receiving WWVH then the 96' wire antenna. They made no difference on WWV.
I was able to build a match box with Air-dux and the caps and that really helped. The radio was a Zenith SW that died that fall. The LO coil developed a short between the primary and secondary and Dad could not find a replacement part. So, for a late birthday present my mom and dad bought me a Heathkit GR64. It was a gaint step in that it had a "S-meter".
I even tried a antenna reciever matching transformer suggested by an article in Radio-Electronics. Which did not work. It consisted of two air coupled windings sheilded in a soup can. I wish I had known about transformer deisign that John Doty came up with. Dad also bought me a ARRL handbook and I started to understand that antennas where not complete magic.
Just 99%!
Save your maoney and just put up the longest wire you can, be carefull to keep it well away from noise sources. John Doty's suggestions for a "low noise" antenna are a good palce to start. Works very well and it is very cheap.

Was talking with some non-political friends, they think both parties suck, and one pointed out that on shows like Law and Order a murder is invistigated, solved, the guilty is arrigned, and a multipart trail takes place in less then an hour. He is a lawyer and pointed out that it takes longer then that to write a simple Will. He told me the hardest part of his job is to educate his clients that it will not be "fast", that any legal action will take a long time, maybe years. And that single fact causes most people to drop whatever legal action they are thinking of taking.
I wonder just how much TV has altered out preception of reality.
A LEO that I know, he is a SWL and a sometimes ham radio operator, told me about a training event he had to go through. It seems that most police expect a single, well placed pistol round to stop a bad guy. To knock them backwards like on TV/movies. When in fact a riffle round will not always stop an angry/frightened/druged person. Thay shot their service weapons into suspended 100Lb bags of sand and the bags barely moved, 1/8"
at most. The trainer warned them that they were "Training to die" by watching TV cop shows or adventure movies. Kind of spooky that TV is altering our perceptions of reality to the point that a LEO trainer calls it "training to die".
We were all having a nice friendly argument over the mess in Iraq.
One guy's wife, a history major, said that she doubted if anyone in the US government had a clue as to how long "nation building" would take. She thinks that we, our leaders and people, will get tired and bail long before the job is done. She said we all think in terms of day or maybe months, but not in years or decades. She pointed out that one of the biggest  post WWII era problems was getting our congress to allow occupation troups  to stay in Germany and Japan long enough to comlete the victory. She feels that if we faced that same problem today, we would not stay long enough to achieve any of the reforms that we achieved in those countries.

In additon to the "me generation" I guess we should be called the "now generations".
This should be my last post on this OT thread.

Lance,

Its sad but it does allow weaker power dx stations to be heard on sw. The internet is fast taking over from sw radio. That's progress I suppose...

The Barlow-Wadley XCR-30 was an amazing radio in its day and well worth adding to a collection. You can still find them in good condition in South Africa for about $80, but shipping costs to the USA would kill you. (probably $80/100!)

My system crashed and I have just started re-installing stuff. Last night I spent getting the Shortwave Log program back with all the latest database updates.

I am having a problem with the system settings Latitude/Longitude. No matter how I enter the values it thinks I am in Russia somewhere? I have tried using +- where required (I think correctly)  I am thinking I am not doing something right. BTW I am in Carrollton,TX right outside of Dallas.

From my GPS         Latitude --> 32deg  58.18N
                               Longitude->096deg 54.11W

Any suggestions?

Jim Douglas

Look again, the Galaxy does not use a Wadley loop.

It uses a phase locked loop synthesizer to generate the first local oscillator signal every 500KHz (or is it 1MHz in the Galaxy?).

A Wadley loop, while providing the same overall effect, is a result of the right mixing, adding and subtracting, in the signal chain.

What confuses people is that the design of the synthesizer   in the Galaxy uses a similar bit to the Wadley, putting the reference frequency through a multiplier that puts out signals at every harmonic of that reference.  IN the Wadley, that signal is used to generate the needed beat signals, in the Galaxy that signal is compared to the local oscillator in a phase detector to lock the local oscillator.

Visually change the multiplier to a programmable divider chain, and in the Galaxy you'd have a more recognizeable synthesizer.  It just came before programmable dividers were cost effective, just as the case with the National HRO-500, so they went with the muliplier, though there is a tradeoff in use and performance compared to a synthesizer with a programmable divider.

Change the mulitplier in the Wadley to a divider, and the thing won't work at all.

  Michael

The review at radiointel says: "The radio comes with one PL-230 PLL dual conversion receiver. (I emailed the seller, who said he believed it to be dual conversion, so if it is single I apologize.)"

So I downloaded the YB550 owners manual. It doesn't say whether it is dual conversion... and the address they gave to write for additional info customersvc@etonncorp.com was not active.

So I'm assuming that if the YB550/PL230 were dual conversion, they'd have mentioned it and there would not be so much confusion. Yet there's plenty of cleaper radios that are.

Does anyone know for sure? Do you have a link? Is dual conversion so common that it's not even listed as a feature anymore?

I'll pick door number 3, Monty.

If the far end of the antenna were grounded there might be some pickup at the self resonant frequency of the ferrite coil, and it would be a good DC ground at the far end that might reduce some noise.

If it's not grounded, it's just a convenient weight to toss it into the trees, because there's no loop in the circuit for any current to be coupled into, and a small isolated ferrite coil isn't going to produce a voltage differential to ground that could couple through capacitance.

The block diagram and the description in the review for the receiver in CQ magazine back in 1968; the receiver was on the cover.

Plus, all the ads at the time never mentioned the Wadley loop.

This is not the first time people have ascribed the Wadley to the Galaxy (and the HRO-500 for that matter).  I've always assumed they didn't didn't grasp the differences and were making a leap based on some information.
But if such a standard as Osterman's book makes the mistake, maybe everyone4 is getting the misinformation from that.

FCC Allocates New Power Line Transmitting Bands on HF and VHF
==============================================================

The new FCC Rules (just issued) list the bands of frequencies BPL systems are not authorized to transmit on, due to potential interference to Aeronautical radio systems. From this "inverted" listing, I have put together a list of the new FCC authorized BPL transmitting bands of operation:

FCC AUTHORIZED BPL (Broadband over Power Lines)
TRANSMITTING BANDS for USA:
1.705 MHz to 2.850 MHz (160m Amateur Radio Service)
3.025 MHz to 3.400 kHz
3.500 MHz to 4.650 MHz (80m Amateur Radio Service)
4.700 MHz to 5.450 MHz (60m Amateur Radio Service)
5.680 MHz to 6.525 MHz
6.685 MHz to 8.815 MHz (40m Amateur Radio Service)
8.965 MHz to 10.005 MHz
10.100 MHz to 11.275 MHz (30m Amateur Radio Service)
11.400 MHz to 13.260 MHz
13.360 MHz to 17.900 MHz (20m Amateur Radio Service)
17.970 MHz to 21.924 MHz (17m,15m Amateur Radio Service)
22.000 MHz to 74.800 MHz (12m,10m,6m Amateur Radio Service)
75.200 to 80.000 MHz

The entire ruling takes a long time to read and understand... but I found it quite interesting.

In FCC's report and order, it is obvious that the Amateur Radio Service has been relegated to insignificant status by the FCC Commissioners. It is well known that the "White House" made the actual decision that BPL would be implemented, regardless of the technical merit. FCC followed by recognizing, yet ignoring and overruling the technical studies and documented radio interference caused by BPL.

73---Bonnie KQ6XA

PS. Here is a link to the FCC order and an excerpt from new rules.

REPORT AND ORDER
Adopted: October 14, 2004
Released: October 28, 2004
By the Commission: Chairman Powell, Commissioner Abernathy issuing a joint statement; Commissioners Martin and Adelstein issuing separate statements; Commissioner Copps approving in part, dissenting in part and issuing a statement.

"By this action, the Commission amends Part 15 of the rules for radio frequency (RF) devices regarding Access Broadband over Power Line (Access BPL), a new type of carrier current system that operates on an unlicensed basis under Part 15. Access BPL systems use existing electrical power lines as a transmission medium to provide high-speed communications capabilities by coupling RF energy onto the power line..."

"APPENDIX B
FINAL RULE
Title 47 of the Code of Federal Regulations, Part 15, is amended as follows:
Section 15.615 General administrative requirements
(f)(1) Excluded Bands. To protect Aeronautical (land) stations and aircraft receivers, Access BPL operations using overhead medium voltage power lines are prohibited in the frequency bands listed in Table 1. Specifically, such BPL systems shall not place carrier frequencies in these bands.

You're right that any school can call itself a "university", basically any school that isn't a publicly run community college can call itself a university, and universities can be either publicly or privately run. There's little state regulation of postsecondary education, most of the accreditation comes from private entities such as Western Association of Schools and Colleges in my area (California). Community colleges in the US grant diplomas called "associate degrees" (such as AA, Associate of Arts) commonly called "two year" degrees. Community colleges are run by local boards similar to the aforementioned "school districts" that control primary and secondary education. State level universities such as California State University and University of California (you will find similar nomenclature in most states) are run by state government. Then there are private universities, which can be run by anybody from a private foundation to a religious group. Education at these varies widely, from the mainstream (Harvard, Yale and Stanford are all private universities) to the ideological and unscientific (such as Jerry Falwell's university). You can't always predict academic standards at a university by who owns it-the Mormon Church runs a university exclusively for their members, but it's widely recognized as a good institution. OTOH, the evangelical universities are academic jokes.

And all this should remove any shadow of a doubt from the world mind that the US is totally incapable of minding its own business. I wonder how long it will be before some other countries start their own "ad campaigns" aimed at educating the sheep-like mind of the average American that, regardless of what their government tells them, there is a real world outside its borders with real people and real issues of their own.

The North Korean Stalinist-style government is not a good thing, but then neither is a US government stated policy of "perpetual war". Didn't a wiseman once say something about putting one's own house in order before undertaking the cleaning of someone elses?

Alright, who can answer this one: what was the radio that Herman Munster was using during the episode where he became a Ham? (Don't expect me to answer this because I'm not sure!)

I don't know?  He doe's list lots of receivers in his book so there's bound to be a few mistakes.

I don't recall any of the '50s-'60s Hammarlunds as drifty, but then there are a lot of things I don't recall from that period. My 145AX, 170A, and 180AX hardly drift after warmup.

As for readout, my first ham receiver was a Zenith Transoceanic. Not only did it not have a BFO, meaning I had to read CW from the presence or lack of a carrier, but the whole of the Novice portion of 40M couldn't have been more than a quarter-inch wide. The dial pointer took up a fair chunk of that. The Hammarlunds of the era felt like they had infinite bandspread by comparison. Interpolating to within a few kHz was plenty for me.

Now, of course, digital has spoiled all of us, including me. But when I get away from my Grundig Satellit 800 and Sony 7600 and back to my boatanchors, I feel like I've gotten home from high school in the afternoon and it's time for some serious knob-twiddling.

Thanks, you gave me the origin of this as well as the meaning by this post.

I imagine we could also do some other terms too.

Brian:

The Sony SW1 is an excellent performer for its size.  I took mine the world over and it served me just fine.  There is a problem which plagues the little receiver and that is the decoupling capacitor in the audio amplifer---they need changing.  Nearly every SW1 that I know of (including mine) required replacement of those capacitors---and the job is not for the faint of heart.  The radio will play just fine with earbuds but with speaker it just makes a loud buzz.

I wrote a detailed service note that I posted to this newsgroup about two or three years ago---do a search under SW1 and RadioGuy and I think you will find it.

> You're right that any school can call itself a "university", basically any school that isn't a publicly run community college can call itself a university, and universities can be either publicly or privately run. There's little state regulation of postsecondary education, most of the accreditation comes from private entities such as Western Association of Schools and Colleges in my area (California). Community colleges in the US grant diplomas called "associate degrees" (such as AA, Associate of Arts) commonly called "two year" degrees. Community colleges are run by local boards similar to the aforementioned "school districts" that control primary and secondary education. State level universities such as California State University and University of California (you will find similar nomenclature in most states) are run by state government. Then there are private universities, which can be run by anybody from a private foundation to a religious group. Education at these varies widely, from the mainstream (Harvard, Yale and Stanford are all private universities) to the ideological and unscientific (such as Jerry Falwell's university). You can't always predict academic standards at a university by who owns it-the Mormon Church runs a university exclusively for their members, but it's widely recognized as a good institution. OTOH, the evangelical universities are academic jokes.

Very informative, and more crucial now as some of these "schools" offer internet distance study.  There are some people professing to have qualifications that really are a joke and they've showed up locally here, applying for things.  I review some credentials re personnel. The weirdest ones have the word "biblical" prepended, e.g., M.A. and PhD in "Biblical Counselling", "Biblical Nursing" and "Biblical Science".  (I'm not kidding!).  >>

Hi RG. Yes I've saved your service notes. I think a lot of the early Sony's had cap problems. I've fixed two Pro80s that had cap problems too. Thanks

At least Bush got over half of the vote. BJ never got that many, he only got 43% in 1992.

Thanks Joe
                good reply you have answered my questions i may well get the 1530 version but i am first waiting for a spec sheet for a DX-1 Pro.
i will look over the two antennas and them make my final decision on what one to buy..
i am using the AR5000A+3 great all round receiver but i may after the Christmas is out of the way invest in a dedicated HF receiver how do you find the AR7030....just what is the difference in the 7030 and the 7030+ is the + version worth the extra cash..... with a little bit of luck i may get the welbrook at the end of this week.
as were i am located the conditions are terrible at this time i have just turned my receiver on and well its turned off again can not hear much. to much interference on most of the HF band.... lets hope a new antenna will improve my situation...

Thanks: John

Hi OM,

If you want to resonate it at ONE frequency (the supposed reason for having that lump at the end) then you would need an inductive reactance of 1000 Ohms at the feedpoint to render the antenna a resistive 6 Ohms and a poor average gain of -8.7dB;
or 1000 Ohms at 3' up to render the antenna a resistive 7 Ohms and a poor average gain of -8.5dB;
or 1300 Ohms at 16' up - 7.8 Ohm Antenna @ -8.7dB;
or 1400 Ohms at the top - 9 Ohm Antenna @ -9dB;
or 1900 Ohms 16' out the horizontal leg - 11 Ohm Antenna @ -9.6dB;
or 2600 Ohms 32' out - 12.5 Ohm Antenna @ -10 dB;
or 5800 Ohms 48' out - 14.6 Ohm Antenna @ -10.5dB;
or 10200 Ohms 58' out - 15.4 Ohm Antenna @ -10.6dB;
or 56500 Ohms 64' out - 15.2 Ohm Antenna @ -10.6dB.

You should note the progression of increased inductance required to tune this antenna to 1MHz (ymmv). At any other frequency and bingo, all bets are off. You should also note there is only a 2dB spread (AVC would quickly put that to rest). Also, the numbers above presume you performed the chore of laying out 16 X 33' radials.

Let's compare that to the advertised antenna 9200 Ohms at the bottom - 32.5 Ohm Antenna @ -26.8dB;
or 13700 Ohms at 8' up - 35 Ohm Antenna @ -22dB;
or 108750 Ohms at 15' up - 39.6 Ohm Antenna @ -19.9dB.

This presumes the single lead-in laying along the ground (where most of this Antenna Ohmage resides.

This, further, would put your antenna roughly 10dB ahead (sans loading, and using a simple tuner) of the $95 spread. I hope you notice the parenthetic statement of a tuner - it does the same thing as these loads, and you get to tune to more than one frequency.

I will leave it up to you to determine how many wraps around how many rods would give you 110000 Ohms inductive reactance at 1MHz.

Well, let's just test that hypothesis with the load at the top.

What you get is fairly well tuned at 10MHz (SWR 1.7) with omni coverage in both horizontal and vertical. For other bands, of course, a tuner would be useful.

NO. For short antennas and low horizontals, there is almost no directionality. What you are attempting to do is to capture the quality of small loops (which are what the ferrites are) of being directional. The signal from the parasitic wire (what is not part of the small ferrite) is going to fill in the nulls and deluge its poorer sensitivity as well. You can of course test this answer by finding a way to answer my question inferred above about how many wraps and how many rods to achieve 110000 Ohms inductive reactance.

According to this apparently it was homebrew. The site also gives his callsign,

Thank you for the question. I live in Colorado, and by in large, my most consistently listenable shortwave programming comes to me via WWCR.
Their full spectrum of frequencies do well in my area. Of late, I've been tuning in World Harvest Radio to a greater and greater degree.

The HQ 180 is a good band cruser, but I was spoiled with my 51J3 and racal 6217A ... to me it takes alot of skill to design a good analog radio.....no
phase
noise or birdies like a digital radio.......I still like how the HQ 180 light up the room at night....GC

Generally, adding non-radiating reactance to an antenna decreases broadband efficiency, although it may increase efficiency over narrow bands.

If the rod does anything at all, it increases the effective length of the antenna. You can accomplish the same thing by physically increasing the wire length. And all that will do is to increase the amount of signal -- and noise -- entering your receiver. Once you have enough signal and noise to overcome your receiver's internal noise, there's no advantage of any further increase, since there's no improvement in the signal to noise ratio. Try disconnecting your antenna from your radio. If the noise level drops when you do, you've got adequate signal strength from the antenna, and lengthening it -- either physically or with some kind of loading -- won't help you hear signals.

The explanation of the properties of the antenna at the distributor's web site is wholly hype and sales marketing. It's a mismash of misused technical terms, which means nothing and and is quite apparently intended to mislead a potential customer and present the antenna as having wonderful properties which it doesn't in fact have. I'd avoid buying it for that reason if for none other.

I have not seen anything definitive on this, but the "net wisdom" is that these radios are single-conversion. When it's dual-conversion the manufacturer or distributor usually make a big deal of it. The last small digital dual-conversion radio from Tecsun was the PL-707A, which Grundig sold as one of the e-Traveller models; among other rebranders.

I once wrote to Etoncorp and asked. They e-mailed back that the YB550PE is single conversion.

WAS THE FEDERAL RESERVE BANK COMPLETELY EMPTIED OF GOLD IMMEDIATELY BEFORE THE WORLD TRADE CENTER ATTACK ON 9-11-01?

On the morning of September 11, 2001, there were $167 billion dollars in gold bars in  Federal Reserve vaults in the basement of the World Trade Center.

Since the destruction of the twin towers, there has been much speculation as to what might have become of all of the gold.

A female caller to the Bill Bochiers radio program on WLW, Cincinnati (11-06-04) told of a report from her friend who worked at the WTC. The friend said that on the morning of 9-11 she was on her way to her job at the World Trade Center, along the route she normally took. As she turned a corner at the base of the Center, she saw two large flat bed trucks parked at one of the entrances. One of the trucks had already been loaded and had its contents covered by a large tarp. The second truck was in the process of having its bed  loaded with stacks of solid gold bars.

Both sides of the street were lined by black uniformed troops with machine guns who kept an eye on the operation and on the surrounding area.

The bewildered woman kept a distance from the activity and watched as the second truck was loaded, and its contents covered with a tarp. The two trucks were then driven away with the soldiers traveling along as escort.

The woman was so stunned by what she had seen that she turned around and did not report to work that morning, which, as it turned out, most probably saved her life when the  towers were attacked and destroyed only about an hour later.

I have the R5000 and it is setup to connect to the computer. I did have it hooked up to a much older computer and it worked just fine. I have unfortunately forgotten the port settings to make the radio work. If anyone can help I'd appreciate it. I am using Smart Kenwood Control 32

Thanks

I don't think this is even a smidgen true.  Not a kernel.  Now, it is true that the Bush administration did have Iraq plans prior to Sept 1.  The rumor was that "something" was coming up in the Persian Gulf.  You're going to need proof for this thing though.  And just saying there's a massive conspiracy and cover-up won;t do it.

Read up on the coups the US created in the Third World in the 50s to keep nations from "falling to the Communists". Especially where the US overthrew the democratically elected government of Guatemala in 1954 in order to install a right wing dictatorship that would be more accomodating to United Fruit Company.

If such a campaign starts, I'll be there to log it, and I'm sure some of you will try to QSL it. :) If France airdrops radios on the US, I'll grab one and see what it has to say. :)

Community colleges in the US grant diplomas called "associate degrees" (such as AA, Associate of Arts) commonly called "two year" degrees. Community colleges are run by local boards similar to the aforementioned "school districts" that control primary and secondary education. State level universities such as California State University and University of California (you will find similar nomenclature in most states) are run by state government. Then there are private universities, which can be run by anybody from a private foundation to a religious group. Education at these varies widely, from the mainstream (Harvard, Yale and Stanford are all private universities) to the ideological and unscientific (such as Jerry Falwell's university). You can't always predict academic standards at a university by who owns it-the Mormon Church runs a university exclusively for their members, but it's widely recognized as a good institution. OTOH, the evangelical universities are academic jokes.

There are some people professing to have qualifications that really are a joke and they've showed up locally here, applying for things. I review some credentials re personnel. The weirdest ones have the word "biblical" prepended, e.g., M.A. and PhD in "Biblical Counselling", "Biblical Nursing" and "Biblical Science". (I'm not kidding!). >>
> <snip>

Isn't "Biblical Science" an oxymoron? Anyway, there are so many "universities" in America that keeping track of all of them is impossible. Education is decentralized in the US, which sounds strange to somebody from a place where the federal authorities keep close tabs on education.

I realize this is "old" for now, but I just got a reply from the Christian Gallery operator. He requested I pay the board a visit and see how God moved him to use the admonition I gave him concerning the "How Las Vegas Fueled the 9/11 Terrorists" montage. (? about 1/3 of the way down the long page.)  I did.  It is the large read block at the top of the "page" but it is not any kind of apology. It is an exact (I think) copy of his reply to me.  Oh, In another post I mentioned Ephesians 5:12 and that some of the acts of men are shameful even to discuss.

I feel (almost) certain that the post I'm replying to is not intended in any way to disapprove of the acts portrayed but to belittle the author of that page / web site.  Anyway, I felt there were some (? a few) who would be interested in knowing Neal's "justification" for presenting that bit of porn on his site.  It portrays ACTUAL acts that are ACTUALLY "protected" by our so-called justice system and many of our politicians - not to mention those in both places / positions who willingly participate in such wicked acts.  It kind of reminds me of the "Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion", Communist Manifesto, Doctrine of Balaam and a few other things.  :-(

I stated it was from a message I received.  Therefore, I claimed to be no witness to any acts and I don't have to "prove" anything.  Why don't you check with the program mentioned and see if such a thing actually happened?  (I started to make this message simple and just agree with you on the first three words -- but I won't do that!)  ;-)

Start the program. Go to tools and then options. A window for the port setting will pop up. I use com1. If that dosn't work try the other ports.

The Swiss have stopped broadcasting on SW altogether. There was recently a post on this group that a Swiss amateur radio club is briefly using the old SRI transmitters, but after that the whole operation will be dismantled.

As for DW, they haven't totally stopped transmitting in English on SW, but their current English SW broadcasts-mostly to Africa-are hard to hear in North America. Like the BBC, DW management thinks SW is out of date and is concentrating on the internet and satellite. The BBC has stated that it isn't interested in being heard by ordinary people, only the powerful, and they all have internet and satellite connections. I suspect the same thinking is going on at DW. As for VOA, it's being phased out in favor of music based services like Radio Sawa. Having listened to Sawa's SW tx's, I can say that they sound a lot like an American FM station, except with a little bit of "news" interspersed with the music. Apparently the US govt thinks that the best way to turn Muslim youth away from terrorism is to broadcast rap music to them. I would think that that would create terrorists, not stop them.

US,

YES - "Real Americans want their votes to be counted."

Real Americans being the actual Citizens of the USofA who in-fact did 'cast' their Votes on Election Day.

If in-fact you are advocating "Verified Voting" then Bring-On

Thanks for the response.  Yes it is on COM 1 but I forgot the other port settings.  Within the program you click TOOLS, OPTIONS, PORT SETUP.

There are 5 adjustable settings in there.  I remember I used to have to change a couple of them for it to work but I forget which ones AND what settings to choose.

Thanks again.

Since American mediumwave AM call in shows only require callers to give first names, anybody can call in and claim anything. Tales that callers to talk radio give are usually heard from unidentified "friends" or "friends of friends" and are more appropriately classified as urban legends.

We also use "quarter after" (as well as "quarter past") here in the Great White North -- however, I've never heard "quarter of" before.

| That would be good. Are you in any clubes around here? I was thinking of
| joining the MDXC? I got the ap.

I'm in a number of the ham clubs here, and have actually considered MDXC - their loop antenna site is particularly interesting, and they have some fun-looking get-togethers in the Twin Cities.

As to the R-390A, it's dead - quiet and hiss - free.  I spent about 10 total hours listening to my friend's R390 and decided that either that or the R-390A were radios I'd love to have.  But, yes, you're absolutely right:  I never thought "Torque" would be considered a DXing skill!

CM,

A 100 Foot long Inverted "L" Antenna is not a Long Wire for the AM/MW Broadcast Band with coverage for 530 kHz to 1700 kHz

*  One Wave Length for 530 kHz is 1896 Feet; and 100 Feet at 530 kHz would only be 0.053 WL.

*  One Wave Length for 1700 kHz is 591 Feet; and 100 Feet at 1700 kHz would be 0.169 WL.

Like most people I do not have 600 to 1900 feet of space to string up a true "Long Wire" {One Wave Length} Antenna for the AM/MW Broadcast Band.  So this is why I am 'questioning' the use of Ferrite Rod Antenna with a Coil as an integral part of a 100 Foot long Inverted "L" Antenna.

Will BPL be prohibited at LW and MW frequencies? If so, can sub-harmonics still QRM those bands?

Geez!  Broward's really on a hate trip, isn't he?  And here I was just saying how nice it would be to take up a collection and send him a cap and some gloves.

The real question is what does he actually mean by the above.  Does Broward long for some McCarthyesque move to put me in one of Mr. Bush's Gulags or is Broward already posting out of prison and just lonely?

>I want you in prison.

Wow.  What to say?

Sorry, Broward.  I don't want you regardless of the decor.  I just don't swing that way.  I know life has been hell for you since your hero Koresh took the one way trip to the nasty place, but I think you just need to snap out of it, get out of your box and begin trying to live again.  They say Bush has caused a big upswing in jobs at Wendy's.

What have you got to lose?

I think it would be fun to build one.  It would also be fun to learn to use one.  But like tuning a superhet with bandspread dials and preselector a regen gets old quickly because tuning around is so slow and fiddly.  They are great basis for comparison because they show how far radio receivers have come.

I glanced through Neal Horsley's article about the Las Vegas/terrorist connection. He's saying that the hijackers went there to remind themselves of how decadent we Americans were; he also agrees with their assessment. I'm left with the impression that he also agrees with their actions. After all, he advocates the killing of abortion providers and their spouses. What say you, Al Patrick? Do you agree with their actions as well?

This is a guy that approves of Paul Hill, the minister who murdered two people and wounded one in Pensacola, and Clayton Lee Waagner, who sent out hundreds of packets of fake anthrax to abortion clinics during the same time that someone was killing nine people by sending -real- anthrax in the mail. (Thanks for diverting valuable resources, asshole.) And not only that, Waagner, so much admired by Neal Horsley and I'm beginning to suspect you, is a bank robber AND a car-jacker. So much for the lame excuses offered by these people that they're only protecting those who can't protect themselves. Oh, I almost forgot. The FBI says that Waagner is a heavy smoker, a gambler and a drinker. But as long as he isn't screwing other guys in the ass, well...he's okay!

http://www.fbi.gov/pressrel/pressrel01/waagner.htm

If anyone actually bothers to click on that link, you ought to know that he's been caught and he's doing time.

And hopefully getting screwed in the ass after all. Look on the bright side; it's sex that won't result in unwanted pregnancies.

Speaking of support, I see that Horsley's selling self-portraits of Waagner on his site. It's redundant, but the self-styled "anti-abortion warrior" is an idiot. The image reflected in his glasses ought to be reversed. Clearly, this is a guy that doesn't think things all the way through.

You can leave out the word "almost" now. I (generally) don't disapprove of the acts, and you can bet your ass I'm belittling him and anyone who agrees with him. I don't approve of publishing hit lists for radical Christians to use to waste abortion doctors and "others loosely affiliated with the abortion industry", whatever ones views on the subject may be...this guy does, and has done so in the past. (For the record, Horsley claims that no one that he listed was ever whacked. The people who were killed were added to his page after the fact.)

And as for the story of the burning woman, you're the only one around here who thinks that the picture is real. I'm the only guy around here (or so it would seem) that actually bothered to check the story out. Which, of course, you should have done. The fact that you just swallowed Horsley's line is disturbing. Here's what you missed, what Horsley intentionally left out, and what I've found:

http://www.gazette.net/200445/greenbelt/news/243953-1.html

"The victim's husband, who asked that neither his name or his wife's name be used, said this has been extremely difficult for the family. "She was my best friend, my companion, and now she's gone," he said emotionally. "She struggled with mental illness all of her life, and she lost."

"Kenneth Blaska said he was sorry his neighbor had to die this way. "She had told me once that as long as she took her medicine she was all right, but I assumed she had gone off the medicine when this happened," he said.""

"A Metropolitan Family Planning Center nurse with the office of A.M. Gohari insisted to a Gazette reporter Monday that the incident never occurred on the property. "If it happened here, [there] would have to be police marks on the ground," she said."

"Blaska said he didn't think this was a pro-life act, and he could not imagine his neighbor hurting herself to make an abortion statement. "I felt that she was a very liberal person, and I was quite surprised that she had done that," he said."

And from

http://www.inform.umd.edu/News/Diamondback/archives/2004/11/01/news1.html

"Berwyn Heights Police Cpl. R. T. Hartnett, who was leading the investigation, said this is not the first time the woman had attempted a similar protest and said she had a long history of illness.

Other news outlets reported police found another can of gasoline and an envelope marked "Kerry" inside the woman's car and speculated it could have been addressed to pro-choice Democratic presidential candidate Sen. John Kerry. Hartnett could only confirm, however, the car contained a suicide note that "included views about abortion." "

Well...it seems that you guys have an odd penchant for selecting the mentally ill and morally bankrupt for your spokespersons.

You're implying that I didn't give his motiviation; I -clearly- did. It's biblical. It's also extraordinarily fringe. Name a church that has a photo hanging in the foyer of two men butt-humping.

Alright, a church -outside- of California.

As a former Christian, I think he went too far. And as someone who knows LOTS of current Christians, I'm betting that they think he's gone too far as well. His website doesn't have the "positive" effect that he wants it to, and it's because he comes across as an idiot. And judging by his lousy photoshop skills and omissions of fact in his "reporting", he's a dishonest idiot. That's no way to convince anyone of anything. Furthermore, he's preaching to the choir. Christians, at least the ones I know, don't need to be told about abortions or gay sex. IMO This guy fills some other need of his by posting these things. I'll also remind you that he went out of his way to look for some of the stuff that he had on the old Nuremberg Files web page, gay sex and all. I'd love to see the cache on his machine. I'd also like to know why he isn't shooting doctors himself, torching clinics himself and what not.

Or maybe he is? Do you approve?

> It portrays ACTUAL acts that are ACTUALLY > "protected" by our so-called justice system

Ah, that would be the justice system that protects people that do things that you don't like. Damn those founding fathers for not making this the theocracy that so many want! Of course, the fact that they didn't come right out and do that ought to make some people stop and wonder why not, but I suspect that's asking a bit much.

> and many of our politicians
> - not to mention those in both places / positions who willingly > participate in such wicked acts.

You should be more careful using words like "positions" and "wicked acts" in the same sentence. Things happen.

They are, of course, legal acts. Sort of like publishing the names and home addresses of people you don't like, and then crossing out their names when someone out there who agrees with you murders them, or graying out the names if they were only wounded. Rights cut both ways. It's legal, I suppose, to advocate the murder of a group of individuals. It's also legal for men to ball each other in the ass, and to have abortions up to a certain time. Live with it, or try to change it in a legal fashion.

Well. And here I thought that I'd managed to distance myself from anyone who actually believed that the Protocols was an authentic document. Why is it that anti-semitism and Christianity go hand in hand? Never mind. I already know the answer to that one.

By the way, top posters are the real evil in the world. ;)

No such things as subharmonics. The fundamental cannot produce frequencies lower than itself. However, who knows what strange QRM the modems themselves will produce..

I wouldn't worry about the troll. He'll be whining for the next 40 years until a Democrat is finally in the oval office. Each election will be stolen, too, just ask him. :)

It's not a surprise to see this Harvey dipshit spamming a shortwave newsgroup with political propaganda. It surely shows how credible anything posted by him really is. Imagine if we started posting medical questions/advice/gripes/conspiracies in an mp3 group. We could complain that we heard a reference to medicine in an .mp3 we listened to and then spam the group for years on end. After many years, we can just use our lengthy time of spamming as a testiment to our right to spam.

HOWARD,

Now there is an Idea.  While the House is being 'built' have the Contractor install the Shack's:

1.  Ground System two One Inch by Ten Foot Copper Pipes layed flat-horizontally at the Bottom of the Foundation Footing joined with a "T" Connector and a Vertical Copper Pipe up to the Shack with a Wall Access Panel for the Ground Hook-Ups.

2.  A 'separate' AC Power Circuit just for your Radio Equipment with two Four Plug AC Outlet Boxes 5'-8' apart.  Install Ferrite Beads on each of the three wires feeding each of the Outlet Boxes.

3.  A Two Inch Metal Conduit in the Walls to route your Antenna Feed-in-Lines from the Roof or under the Eaves down to your Shack.
Have the Metal Conduit 'bonded' to the Shack's Ground System; and have a Wall Access Panel for the Feed-in-Lines.

Hey this sounds like a House built around a Shack :o)

another crazy idea - that all folks ~ RHF

Some reports are claiming it will run from 2 MHz to 80 MHz.
I wouldn't worry much about BPL it wont survive. It's a poor and flawed technology and not economically viable.

2 Watt FM Stereo Broadcast 88-108 MHz LCD Digital PLL Transmitter

Auction ends in 1 hour!

Ebay item #: 5730774971

Ends Nov-14-04 19:13:56 PST

My Ebay Feedback rating is 100% positive.

This transmitter is an assembled and tested unit -- not a kit.

This FM Stereo transmitter is well-known among Ebayer's as being the best transmitter you can get for the money. You'd have to buy a commercial brand FM exciter (such as a Harris) to exceed the specs of this unit. On virtually all FM receivers you would not hear the difference.

You could hook up and transmit any sound source you want, such as:

1. The sound output directly from your computer (to play MP3's) using iTunes or any software you like.

2. Directly connect an iPod, CD Player, tape deck, an XM Satellite Radio etc. right to the transmitter.

3. Use a professional mixer board if you want to "DJ" live. A decent Behringer UB802 Mixer is only $49. Then you could mix and cross fade between two different stereo sources LIVE. Add a decent microphone ($19) so you can talk and people won't know you aren't a commercial station until they realize "Hey, why aren't there any advertisements?"

This FM transmitter is DIGITAL (not analog) and can equal the sound of commercial FM stations. It can transmit anywhere between 88-108 MHz. It outperforms ANY of the Ramsey or other so-called "kit" transmitters, including the "export" version of the FM-100B which Ramsey sells for $429.99 - which is WAY more than the cost of the transmitter I'm selling.

Depending on the quality of the antenna you connect to it* (see "NOTE" section below) and how high up in the air it is, it is possible to get about a 1.5 mile range using a simple homemade outdoor wire antenna, or over 5 miles of range with a $70 pre-made omni directional roof-mounted antenna.

This transmitter has a filtered RF output which means it puts out a clean signal. RF filtering is important to avoid interfering with other FM stations, or if you intend to add an RF Power Amplifier* to increase your range. Most other low cost FM transmitters have bad RF harmonic suppression which means they cause a lot of interference to TV's and radios in your neighborhood, which will attract attention to you from people like Cable TV technicians (something you definitely want to avoid).

For the technical stuff:

This transmitter uses 16-bit Direct Digital Synthesis (D.D.S.) modulation of PLL carrier using 16-Bit digital oversampling, just like the Harris and other Digital-type professional FM Exciters do.

This transmitter is a new design and DOES NOT use the "BA" or "Rohm" analog chip - ANYWHERE IN IT AT ALL. Which is a good thing.

The heart of the transmitting circuit uses a DSC (Digital Signal Controller). This is a 16 bit DSP microcontroller with on-chip Flash, RAM, A/Ds, PWM, and 200k of EEPROM.

D.D.S. modulation technology is used to generate and modulate the carrier signal of higher quality FM Broadcast exciters.

I can't reveal the complete design, but the heart of it uses a Cypress Semiconductor DSC.

A Motorola-designed Class-A linear wide-band amp module (originally designed for use by cable-company operators as line transmission amplifiers) results in virtually no unwanted spurious harmonic output, high reliability and EXTREME SWR ruggedness. The RF output of this transmitter will withstand greater than a 30:1 SWR mismatch without failure. Which means if your antenna shorts-out or dies, this transmitter will not fail.

The transmitter has a LCD digital display, an on-screen menu system with two buttons for adjusting operating parameters such as transmitting frequency, modulation level, MPX pilot level, etc. It can transmit in mono or stereo and runs on 12-24 volts DC input.

Here are the specifications for this transmitter (from the manufacturer):

Transmission Frequency: Adjustable between 87-108 MHz
Tuning Steps: 10 kHz

RF Power Output*: Typ 1Watt @ 13V or 2 Watts @ 24V
Spurious RF Emissions: Better than -45 dB ref. to carrier
Frequency Stability: PLL Typ +/-1KHz
SWR Ruggedness: Withstands 30:1 SWR mismatch
RF Output Connector: BNC type
Audio Input Sensitivity: 0.8V rms for +/- 75 KHz deviation
Signal To Noise Ratio: 60 dBu
Frequency Response: Flat from 20 Hz to 15 KHz
Stereo Separation: >40 dB
Pre-emphasis: 75 uS (standard FCC spec for U.S. FM radio)
Audio Distortion: Better than 0.2 % THD
Audio Input Connectors: RCA Phono Jacks
Power Jack: Coaxial type, 5.5mm O.D. 2.1mm I.D. center positive
DC Power Input: 12 to 24 Vdc Regulated 600mA

I won't list all the details here, you can learn them all by going to http://www.Ebay.com and entering item # 5730774971 using Ebay's "Search" Feature.

This item will be available for only 1 more hour:
auction ends Nov-14-04 19:13:56 PST

"Yeah, OK all that stuff is great, but how can I tell how good this transmitter will sound before I buy it?"

The Ebay auction listing gives instructions for downloading MP3 sound files of recordings made of the FM transmitter signal received live, on-the-air. You can judge for yourself.

 Please read the section of the auction explaining how I got the best sound quality from this transmitter, and how the live off-the-air MP3 recordings were made. **

*NOTE: If you are concerned about gov't compliance regarding the unlicensed use of this transmitter within the United States (or elsewhere), an "RF Attenuator" (also known as a T-pad) may be attached to the output of this transmitter. This is a simple screw-on device which will reduce the transmitter's RF output power to a level within the guidelines mandated by the country in which you intend to operate this transmitter. Guidelines vary from country to country. In the U.S. unlicensed operation of this transmitter is permitted under the mandate of the FCC's guidelines for "Unlicensed Operation of Part 15 Transmitters", provided you do not exceed certain restrictions such as RF output level or type of antenna. Compliance guidelines may be viewed at:

Really!  Round here, they ask for name and phone number and you talk to the producer or asst producer before you're on the air.  They then introduce (first and last name) you like you're a guest.  Makes you feel quite famous for an instant. This varies a bit if the talk show is national or local, or whether CBC or commercial station, but generally holds.  I'm learning lots about looseness of standards south of one border where I live (Cda) and north of the other (Mx).

Good question.  Real Americans don't want to see the USA bankrupted to enrich corrupt profiteers.  Real Americans want to preserve and defend the Constitution and the Bill of Rights.
Real Americans want US soldiers to defend the USA, not be squandered helping crooks steal from innocents.

Bush says "If you're not with us, you're with the terrorists".

Yes, Bush is a fascist, by definition thereof.

Find a definition for "fascist" that doesn't apply to Bush.

<crickets>

"THE PEOPLE HAVE SPOKEN..

THEY say that in life you get what you deserve. Well, today America has deservedly got a lawless cowboy to lead them further into carnage and isolation and the unreserved contempt of most of the rest of the world.

This once-great country has pulled up its drawbridge for another four years and stuck a finger up to the billions of us forced to share the same air. And in doing so, it has shown itself to be a fearful, backward- looking and very small nation.

This should have been the day when Americans finally answered their critics by raising their eyes from their own sidewalks and looking outward towards the rest of humanity. And for a few hours early yesterday, when the exit polls predicted a John Kerry victory, it seemed they had. But then the horrible, inevitable truth hit home. They had somehow managed to re-elect the most devious, blinkered and reckless leader ever put before them. The Yellow Rogue of Texas. A self-serving, dim-witted, draft-dodging, gung-ho little rich boy, whose idea of courage is to yell: "I feel good," as he unleashes an awesome fury which slaughters 100,000 innocents for no other reason than greed and vanity.

A dangerous chameleon, his charming exterior provides cover for a power-crazed clique of Doctor Strangeloves whose goal is to increase America's grip on the world's economies and natural resources. And in foolishly backing him, Americans have given the go-ahead for more unilateral pre-emptive strikes, more world instability and most probably another 9/11. Why else do you think bin Laden was so happy to scare them to the polls, then made no attempt to scupper the outcome? There's only one headline in town today, folks: "It Was Osama Wot Won It." And soon he'll expect pay-back. Well, he can't allow Bush to have his folks whoopin' and a-hollerin' without his own getting a share of the fun, can he? Heck, guys, I hope you're feeling proud today.

To the tens of millions who voted for John Kerry, my commiserations. To the overwhelming majority of you who didn't, I simply ask: Have you learnt nothing? Do you despise your own image that much? Do you care so little about the world beyond your shores? How could you do this to yourselves?

How appalling must one man's record at home and abroad be for you to reject him?

Kerry wasn't the best presidential candidate the Democrats have ever fielded (and he did deserve a kicking for that "reporting for doo-dee" moment), but at least he understood the complexity of the world outside America, and domestic disgraces like the 45 million of his fellow citizens without health cover. He would have done something to make that country fairer and re-connected it with the wider world. Instead America chose a man without morals or vision. An economic incompetent who inherited a $2 billion surplus from Clinton, gave it in tax cuts to the rich and turned the US into the world's largest debtor nation. A man who sneers at the rights of other nations. Who has withdrawn from international treaties on the environment and chemical weapons. A man who flattens sovereign states then hands the rebuilding contracts to his own billionaire party backers.
A man who promotes trade protectionism and backs an Israeli government which continually flouts UN resolutions.

America has chosen a menacingly immature buffoon who likened the pursuit of the 9/11 terrorists to a Wild West, Wanted Dead or Alive man-hunt and, during the Afghanistan war, kept a baseball scorecard in his drawer, notching up hits when news came through of enemy deaths.

A Radical Christian fanatic who decided the world was made up of the forces of good and evil, who invented a war on terror, and thus as author of it, believed he had the right to set the rules of engagement. Which translates to telling his troops to do what the hell they want to the bad guys. As he has at Guantanamo, Abu Ghraib and countless towns across Iraq.

You have to feel sorry for the millions of Yanks in the big cities like New York, Washington, Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco who voted to kick him out.
These are the sophisticated side of the electorate who recognise a gibbon when they see one.

As for the ones who put him in, across the Bible Belt and the South, us outsiders can only feel pity.

Were I a Kerry voter, though, I'd feel deep anger, not only at them returning Bush to power, but for allowing the outside world to lump us all into the same category of moronic muppets. The self- righteous, gun-totin', military lovin', sister marryin', abortion-hatin', gay-loathin', foreigner-despisin', non-passport ownin' red-necks, who believe God gave America the biggest dick in the world so it could urinate on the rest of us and make their land "free and strong".

You probably won't be surprised to learn of would-be Oklahoma Republican Senator Tom Coburn who, on Tuesday, promised to ban abortion and execute any doctors who carried them out. He also told voters that lesbianism is so rampant in the state's schools that girls were being sent to toilets on their own. Not that any principal could be found to back him up. These are the people who hijack the word patriot and liken compassion to child-molesting. And they are unknowingly bin Laden's chief recruiting officers.

Al-Qaeda's existence is fuelled by the outpourings of America's Christian right. Bush is its commander-in-chief. And he and bin Laden need each other to survive. Both need to play Lex Luther to each others' Superman with their own fanatical people. Maybe that's why the mightiest military machine ever assembled has failed to catch the world's most wanted man.

Or is the reason simply that America is incompetent? That behind the bluff they are frightened and clueless, which is why they've stayed with the devil they know.

Visitors from another planet watching this election would surely not credit the amateurism. The queues for hours to register a tick; the 17,000 lawyers needed to ensure there was no cheating; the $1.2bn wasted by parties trying to discredit the enemy; the allegations of fraud, intimidation and dirty tricks; the exit polls which were so wildly inaccurate; an Electoral College voting system that makes the Eurovision Song Contest look like a beacon of democracy and efficiency; and the delays and the legal wrangles in announcing the victor.

Yet America would have us believe theirs is the finest democracy in the world. Well, that fine democracy has got the man it deserved. George W Bush.

But is America safer today without Kerry in charge? A man who overnight would have given back to the UN some credibility and authority. Who would have worked out the best way to undo the Iraq mess without fear of losing face.

Instead, the questions facing America today are - how many more thousands of their sons will die as Iraq descends into a new Vietnam? And how many more Vietnams are on the horizon now they have given Bush the mandate to go after Iran, Syria, North Korea or Cuba...?

Today is a sad day for the world, but it's even sadder for the millions of intelligent Americans embarrassed by a gung-ho leader and backed by a banal electorate, half of whom still believe Saddam Hussein was behind 9/11.

Yanks had the chance to show the world a better way this week, instead they made a thuggish cowboy ride off into the sunset bathed in glory. And in doing so it brought Armageddon that little bit closer and re-christened their beloved nation The Home Of The Knave and the Land Of The reak.

God Help America.

That's right.  Bush is hated worldwide, and he wants to force real Americans to suffer the same fate, even though they do not support his war crimes.

The LA350 has BNC connectors on the jumper cable, I don't know what kind of antenna input is on the 2010 ? miniplug ? you would need an adapter. Do you own an LA350 ?
If yes, how does it perform ? I've been thinking about getting one. I live in a very noisy location.

The pressure on the US dollar is a balance of trade issue (spending more on imports than producing in exports).  The Iraq war is part of the problem.
Dunces for leaders around the world is another part.

Re English, it's number 3 in the world for native speakers after Hindi (2) and Mandarin (3) - so sayeth the National Geographic. Number 1 for the second language of people around the world. Spanish and Arabic round out the top 5, forget the order.

Must be you're posting tongue-in-cheek for part of this. USA culture and products are showing up everywhere. I mean everywhere. Show me somewhere where you can't buy a Coca-cola, or see Microsoft windo$e on a confuser, or watch reruns of frickin' Dallas and the Simpsons (they are really funny in German and Chinese - seen some tapes).

But I do think the big war will be about economics in the 21st century. And the really serious fight over scarce resources (like oil, water). Once the Euro has beaten down the US dollar, then the only way out will be the usual "extension of diplomacy". Once the Islamic threat is gone, we'll all compete to trade with the Chinese and Indians, then borders between Europe and the western hemisphere will solidify, and bing bang boom. Well, it could be a futuristic novel anyway. Maybe a radio play.

You know, with sufficient relay stations, SW can be heard clearly anywhere in the world. The big guys such as DW and BBC had relays that allowed them to cover most of North America with great signals. VOA used to have relays around the world that allowed them to penetrate even the noisiest conditions, including the massive jamming operations of the Soviet Bloc. Sure, it's not FM stereo, but stereo sound is necessary only if you're listening to music. Unfortunately, the moguls and managers who run many radio operations today are focused on music and not the news and features that have been SW staples. VOA is being shut down in favor of FM stations that carry American music, such as Radio Sawa, which is broadcast mostly on local FM stations in the Middle East. I remember reading a quote in an article on Sawa that said it best: liking American music doesn't mean you like America. But the US government seems to think otherwise. When the USSR fell, we learned that the Soviet people wanted the news and information their own government denied them, not rock music. Why should we think that people in the Middle East, where most "news" is of the "non Muslims are evil and must be killed, see this?" variety, are any different?

> Internet and satellite broadcasting are where it's at these days.  SW broadcasting's days are numbered.  We need to enjoy them while we can.

Internet broadcasting has one BIG problem, and that's bandwidth. I've tried listening to streaming web radio for prolonged periods of time on a 56k dialup connection, and the result is always the same-a gradual degradation of signal quality due to "net congestion" that ends up with the signal sounding mostly like BBs rattling around in a soup can. I later learned that the rattling was a placeholder the program put wherever the packets didn't make it, and after a while a LOT of packets get dropped. As for satellite, as far as I know you have to subscribe to it to get it, which leaves the people who can't pay the fees out of luck. Did you know that half of humanity lives on less than $1 a day? How do you expect them to pay for satellite radio, even if they want to listen to every concievable style of American music there is?

You don't need a long wire for listening. One a fairly small fraction of a wavelength is probably adequate. If the noise level drops when you disconnect the antenna, it's long enough, and making it longer or adding gadgets to it won't help a bit.

A number of the people posting on this thread are thinking of the requirements for an efficient antenna. Efficiency is important when transmitting, but of almost no importance for receiving. The antenna just has to be efficient enough to deliver more atmospheric noise than you have internal receiver noise. Any more makes no improvement.

80 MHz? American TV starts at 66 MHz or so. Do the morons at the FCC know that BPL will interfere with American TV channels 2-5? I wonder how the folks at all the TV stations on channels 2,3,4, and 5 will feel once BPL blanks their signals? Or is this a way to force a move to digital TV?

Good point...it does allow weaker stations to be heard, which is a good thing.

Broadcasters will come and go, whether they broadcast over shortwave or any other medium. I for one see no grounds for pessimism here.

Sometimes I have the sense that when people talk about the "future of shortwave", what they really mean is the future of whatever large broadcast stations they listen to on a regular basis--not the future of the shortwave bands themselves. I see some reasons to be pessimistic about (some of) the former (depending on their goals and program content). I see no reason to be pessimistic about the latter.

So all you care about is total number of votes, Gandolt?
Then Bush is a far greater president than FDR, JFK

The US turn over of Vietnam to the French after WW2 played right into the communist hands. The ridiculous pillage post-Spanish domination of Cuba was like exchanging one thug for another. Castro isn't exactly my cup of tea, but neither are the loony "exiles" in Florida. We also had Pinochet in Chile, the Shah regime handed over from the British and supported by the US, and presently the prop-up of the fascist Saudi regime; all in the interest of making a buck. I saw a list somewhere of "intervention" by the US militarily, it was around 150 times during the period the Soviets did it 8 times. 735 military bases around the world must help as jumping off points for this sort of "adventure". I'm sure the 19th century Brits and French in the Great Game would have understood the present adventures well.

"Capitalism and communism are both the bastard children of Christianity", (Jostein Gaarder). None show the way to heaven, on earth, nor anywhere else. if we could get it through our and our leaders' thick stupid head that all people want is to have a decent life, we wouldn't breed nitwits who want to screw everyone economically or by shoving their narrow-minded doctrine down our throats with the barrel of a gun or with the blast of a bomb from 30 thousand feet or in a rusted out car.

You can get DW in English still but not directed to N America. Rebroadcast late at night, only catch it if having insomnia.

Either an SX-110 or SX-111 Neither was battery operable as the show portrayed it to be..
The jail transmitter was an Eico 720 ( CW only) that had a mic plugged into the key jack. Sitting atop the 720 was an Eico CB transceiver. Prior to that there was a Motorola rig in the jail.

Or people who like to get several points of view on world affairs.

Or people who enjoy listening to various kinds of music.

Or people who like listening to military or utility stations

The list goes on and on......

Drill down further, they all use latitude/longitude as well

Keep looking on the web. For most programs you'll need latitude and longitude, sometimes altitude as well or so I've heard. I'm at sea level basically, so that was never an issue for me. You'll also need to download orbit info on occasion, so whatever program you pick probably isn't going to be accurate "right out of the box". Satellite orbits degrade and/or are adjusted, and you'll have to download the new info. (They're called elements, or element sets...elsets for short.) It's easy enough; just something you need to be aware of. There are also elements for shuttle flights (SST), etc. and for obvious reasons you'll need to download elements after each launch. I've seen the shuttle go overhead, which is a pretty rare occurrence considering the part of the world that I live in. (Seattle.) Very cool, and worth the effort. If you really get into this sort of thing, you'll also want to keep an eye out for Iridium flares. Exceptionally cool!

Damn. All of this reminiscing makes me wish I'd moved -out- of the city. <sigh> I've seen some neat things up there!

Oh, hell...I'll look those Iridium flares up right now.......and here we go:

http://satobs.org/iridium.html

The photos are neat, but they can't do justice to the real thing. I was out on the Puget Sound heading back to the harbor with my brother in law at the helm late one dark night when I saw one overhead. Too breathtaking for words. By the time I could point it out it was gone, and I knew I wouldn't have been able to describe how magnificent it was...so I kept it to myself. They're that neat.

And since I'm in a Googling mood, this will help the novice (and expert) satellite observer:

http://satobs.org/seesat/seesatindex.html

Ok, say that the government subsidizes it. What happens to all the TV sets that are now worthless because channels 2-5 don't work? What happens to major stations in the biggest markets in the nation who find that they are now unwatchable because BPL is screwing with their signals? Does the government buy everybody a brand new $2000 digital TV?

If there's one thing Americans are passionate about, it's TV. Does the govt simply say "tough shit" to everybody with a now worthless TV?

I did like the idea of being up by China Lake though!

Hmmm...sounds like a good idea to me.  Probably will be hand generator or solar powered since batteries will be hard to come by.

Odd, isn't it? Most "Americans" are funding this stuff every time they concede money to the government in the form of the tax dollar. It's bizarre how few ever question where that money goes or why it should be taken in the first place when the Forefathers of this nation went to the extreme of dumping tea into Boston harbour because they were mad about taxation. What happened to that sort of American?

The other guy wants to talk about coups. Hehe; what sort of government does he actually think he's living under? "America" has been dead for quite some time, but most people are too brain-dead, manipulated or transformed by greed to see it. Ironically, the individual most responsible, at least visually, can be seen on a coin that nearly every American carries in pocket at any given time. Let's all go wave our flags now...

I'll tell everybody what I honestly see happening to shortwave. There will be 4-5 Big Boys, major stations that broadcast in every major language and can be heard almost anywhere, like Radio China and Radio Netherlands. Then there will be a zillion Little Guys, small regional stations that broadcast only to a relatively local audience and almost none of which will be in English-but in local languages and dialects. This will mean the death of QSLing, since Big Boys will have paid monitors and Little Guys won't have the money or language skills to answer their reception reports. But if you're not a QSL hog, it will mean wonderful opportunities for DX, since a lot of the blowtorch stations that characterized the Cold War will be gone or on the air under different names and reduced power (think Radio Kiev, which is now Ukraine Radio International and is hard to hear, or Radio Tirana, which used to be infamous for its bizarre rants but is now almost inaudible) opening up opportunities to hear signals that during the Cold War were blanked by the blowtorches. I've never sent for a QSL in my life, so I'm not concerned about reception reports, but I'll be listening for the small Sam Neua station in Laos that Passport talked about in the 2005 edition as long as their transmitter doesn't burn the station down. Most of the world's population can't afford internet access or satellite radio and will not be able to in the foreseeable future. A lot of those people live outside the range of existing AM and FM stations. So shortwave radio will be around for a while, just not in the form that it was during the Cold War.

Brian,

I'm not aligning myself with Al, but one reason we went into Iraq was he taking Euros for oil instead of the dollar.

The funny thing is down here in FL they have news and weather forecasters with heavy spanish accents that are hard to understand. On some stations you don't even see a white person anymore.

It's sad but true. Our jobs are being outsourced and the competition from immigrants are taking the jobs away from Americans that have been here for generations.
Go into a bank down here in FL, and they all have accents. Most are slow and not too bright. But they'll work for $7/Hr instead of $10. I can hardly understand WTF they're telling me.

It will be too late once this country wakes up.
We'll have the Nazi's son, Arnold Schwarzenegger as our next president. The guy that wanted to save California money by reducing the time stray animals have to live before being put down. It didn't go over, but the nazi's son wanted it to be reduced to a few days from a few weeks. Typical coming from a Nazi's son way of thinking about "saving the state"

One day you guys will wake up but there won't be anything you'll be able to do about it.
Yes, let's change the amendment so foreigners can tell us what to do and how to live.

Lucky

How about people too poor to afford internet access and satellite radio, or people outside the range of AM, FM and TV, or people who live in repressive regimes where only one point of view is broadcast locally, or people who are all three?

Hello Drifter,

Thanks for the nice comment. After contacting Wellbrook and THE SHORTWAVE SHOP I decided to buy the '330S over the '1530 because the '330S is superior on the shortwave bands to which I listen most. I do not often DX on MW (frankly, due to the generally poor quality, in my opinion, of the programming available). I'm told by those sources mentioned that the '1530 has an extended range (down to the LW band) but is somewhat (slightly) less effective on the SW bands. Of course, if you do listen to MW extensively, and if you can mount an active loop antenna outdoors (or higher than I am able), the better positioning might make the '1530 superior overall to my attic-mounted '330S.

It's somewhat a matter of "luck," though I think that I'd still rather have the better SW performance of the '330S. One could always buy another dedicated MW antenna. (I use a C.Crane Justice AM antenna, sometimes in conjunction with a Select-A-Tenna with my Grundig Satellit 800. I keep meaning to use it on the AOR but, except for one quick trial, I haven't really experimented with it.)

I have a crystal 2.2 kHz filter which I had installed at the factory when I ordered my '7030 Plus. My 4.0 filter actually measures 3.5 kHz. The 6.0 filter measures 5.1 kHz on my receiver and this is the filter I use most for program listening when using the Sync circuit. When reception is "tough," I use ECSS tuning with the crystal filter (which makes the signal sound just about the same as straight AM, though with little interference!). That crystal filter is really terrific. From the above, you can see that, at least with my particular receiver, I have no need for a filter "in between" 2.2 and 4 kHz. (I also had the 7.0 kHz filter installed - it measures 6.5 kHz on my receiver - and I also have the 10.0 -measures 9.5 kHz - for narrow band FM.) However, your requirements may be different. Have you called Richard Hillier at AOR UK? I understand that KIWA also installs filters. I have had no experience personally with them, but I understand that they are a good organization. You might wish to call them, though I would still recommend calling AOR UK first. I have been extremely pleased with the service/advice/help I have received from both Richard Hillier at AOR UK and also the personnel at THE SHORTWAVE SHOP.

Hope that helps. The AR7030 Plus is one fantastic receiver, isn't it? One of my friends, upon seeing it (and being extremely impressed with the quality of construction/components both outside and inside - I opened it up for him) and hearing it called it positively the "Rolls-Royce" of radios. I agree with him.

In conjunction with the Wellbrook ALA 330S it offers the finest SW listening I have ever experienced.

Best,

Joe
